FLAMES, SMOKE SPURT FROM ALASKA VOLCANO

Mount Redoubt, 10,117 feet high, was classified as dormant, though it emitted smoke off and on since February, 1965.

It is located across the Cook Inlet from the city of Keni, centre of Alaska's oil exploration and production industry.

Officials here reported there was no danger to any populated area from the molten material flowing from the volcano but warned that if the high winds which have been raking Alaska for the last week were to shift, smoke and ash might be carried over the city.

U.S. RECOMMENDATION

Banks Faces Extradition

NEW YORK (CP)—Extradition of Hal C. Banks, 58, former head of the Canadian Seafarers' International Union, was recommended today by a United States federal commissioner.

BANKS
. . . will appeal

The province of Ontario asked for Banks' extradition to face perjury charges arising from testimony before a Royal commission into violence on the Great Lakes.

Commissioner S. T. Abruzzo said he would recommend to the U.S. secretary of state that Banks be extradited. He found no merit in legal attacks made by Abe Brodsky, Banks' lawyer, against the validity of the Canadian-U.S. extradition treaties.

Brodsky announced on leaving court that he will apply at once for a writ of habeas corpus, which is the next step open to him in fighting extradition.

"This is only the first round," he said in announcing he would apply for a writ in the federal court to prevent extradition.

If extradited, Banks will face trial in Ottawa. The maximum sentence on conviction is 14 years.

Banks was arrested in New York Aug. 29 and has been in custody without bail since then while the Ontario government, represented by New York lawyer Richard Kuh, and Brodsky fought their way through several sessions of the extradition hearing before Abruzzo.

ACCUSED OF PERJURY

Banks is accused by Ontario of perjuring himself Jan. 9, 1963, before the Norris royal commission inquiry into violence on the Great Lakes.

In 1964 Banks jumped $25,000 bail and fled to his native U.S. while his appeal was pending in Montreal against conviction of conspiring to assault a rival union leader.

Banks had been sentenced to five years. His appeal was dismissed after his flight.

North Fire Kills 3

STEWART (CP) — A couple and their four-year-old son died today in a fire at their house near this mining community 100 miles north of Prince Rupert. The mother was 37 and the father 41. A daughter, 17, and a son, 10, were being treated in hospital for shock.

Names were withheld.

Trio Trapped By Flames

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Three children died today when trapped inside a burning house in nearby Surrey.

They were 18 months, four and six. Names were withheld.

BACK UP CHARGE, CBC HEAD DEMANDS

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC president Alphonse Ouimet today demanded that State Secretary LaMarsh substantiate her charges of "rotten management" within the corporation.

He said in a letter to Miss LaMarsh:

"You will understand that the corporation cannot allow your public charges to remain unsubstantiated."

RACE OUTBURST

Snipers, Looters Jolt N. Carolina

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Peace returned to downtown Winston-Salem today following a night of racial violence blamed on hoodlums.

During the night, 34 persons, including seven policemen, were injured and 51 were arrested.

Three Negroes were treated for gunshot wounds.

City officials said it might be several days before an accurate estimate could be made of damage caused by looting and fires. Fire Chief C. L. Williams said damage from about 55 fires alone probably would run "into the tens of thousands of dollars."

The violence began late Thursday following the burial of a Negro who died after being struck by a policeman.

Mayor W. C. Benton said the trouble was started by "a bunch of hoodlums who have taken advantage of a situation."

Negro leaders had urged that the rioting stop.

SCREEN VISITORS

About dawn this morning some 400 national guardsmen and police encircled eight blocks in the downtown section of the city, widely known for its major cigarette factories. All persons entering the area were screened before being admitted.

By 8 a.m. the area was open to normal traffic.

Police remained on guard at a few of the overnight trouble spots.

Fire bombings and reports of sniper fire kept police and firemen busy in various sections of the city before daybreak. There was looting downtown and at two shopping centres.

Cong May Join Talks, U.S. Decides

By MURRAY MARDER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON—The United States opened up new possibilities for negotiations on Vietnam Thursday by publicly conceding a voice in peace talks to the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said that if members of the United Nations Security Council believe the NLF "ought to be invited" to UN peace talks which the United States has sought in vain to initiate, "we would join in."

The United States "would not initiate an invitation," Goldberg told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, but "our vote would be available if necessary" to bring the NLF or "any other group" into peace talks at the UN.

Perhaps more significantly, Goldberg said the United States "would recognize the competence" of Britain and the Soviet Union as co-chairmen of the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conferences, "to decide the invitees and the scope" of any conference to seek peace in Southeast Asia.

The NLF is the political arm of the Vietcong guerrillas.

NEW SESSION ON JAN. 25

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett announced today the 29th session of the British Columbia legislature will begin Jan. 25.

The premier did not elaborate on possible Social Credit legislation, but said during his speech that the 1968 provincial budget will in all likelihood be "tens of millions of dollars" ahead of this year's record $739,000,000 budget.

Chinese Stage Walkout

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Two Chinese diplomats today walked out of a Kremlin rally marking the anniversary of the Russian Revolution when Soviet Communist Leader Lenod Brezhnev accused the Chinese leadership of trying to split the world Communist movement.

The Soviet Communist party chief also accused the Chinese of hindering Vietnamese Communists in their struggle against the "criminal aggression" of the United States.

Addressing a jubilee meeting in the Kremlin marking the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution of Nov. 7, 1917, Brezhnev also pledged continued Soviet aid to North Vietnam until U.S. forces get out of Vietnam and assailed Chinese Communists leaders.

He claimed the Soviet Army has the best weaponry in the world, and "in a clash with any aggressor the Soviet Union will win a victory."

He renewed a call for a world Communist conference, a project opposed by several Communist countries, many of those leaders were in the hall to hear Brezhnev's speech.

Bennett Urges Volunteer Action To Avoid Controls

By JOHN MIKA

VANCOUVER—Premier Bennett today warned all British Columbians they are in the front lines of an economic war for survival and broadly hinted he may have to introduce compulsory wage and price controls in the province if the people can't win it through voluntary restraint.

See Stories, Pages 2, 20

Both in a keynote speech at the Social Credit convention here and a subsequent press conference, Mr. Bennett indicated he has given marching orders to all government agencies to slow down borrowing and he appealed to the public to do the same.

Mr. Bennett said if inflation continues British Columbia faces unemployment through loss of export markets or drastic economic controls imposed by the government.

"I ask the people to discipline themselves because I'm the last one who wants to see compulsory prices and wages and a board like we had in wartime," the premier explained at the press conference.

"But if the people don't show self discipline then we'll force one of two things—either that type of bureaucracy or unemployment."

"Unless people can discipline themselves, the world market will discipline (them). The world market, and I'm talking about forces, not people, is ruthless."

He also hinted that B.C. will bargain hard to improve its relative position among provinces at any constitutional revision conferences.

Mr. Bennett said B.C. Hydro and other crown corporations along with all other government departments have been ordered to "save every nickel" by cutting all projected borrowings to the bone.

He said projects like the Peace River and Columbia River developments cannot be stopped and not all borrowing by the government agencies can be eliminated but everything that can be postponed will be.

'Cut Borrowings to Bone'

His next budget will be a record inevitably because of the expanding population and economy in B.C. but it will not be inflationary, Mr. Bennett said.

He said last year when he appealed for cutbacks in overtime, labor and business responded by reducing it 75 per cent.

This time he is asking everyone to respond again by eliminating borrowing for personal purposes, by restraint in wage negotiations, by restraint in price setting even in such things as home rents.

Asked by reporters if he was threatening a compulsory wage and price clamp-down if his appeal goes unheeded, Mr. Bennett replied:

"I'm not even thinking along those lines."

Asked how such controls could be introduced by unilateral action of the provincial government, he replied:

"I haven't looked into the legal aspect at all."

But he smiled broadly when an interviewer observed everyone knew the provincial government has jurisdictional power already.

And later he said managing an economy is akin to refereeing a hockey game with its blue lines.

"Sometimes you have to blow the whistle and the Premier might have to blow the whistle once or twice this year."

Mr. Bennett said federal monetary and budgetary policies were the sole culprit in the

Viet Cong Herds Civilians As Human Battle-Shields

SAIGON (AP)—Herding civilians in front of them as human shields, Viet Cong forces launched a prolonged attack today on Loc Ninh. The total number of Viet Cong reported killed in six days of fighting for the district headquarters climbed past 850.

Under cover of a mortar barrage, the Viet Cong made a ground assault on newly arrived U.S. infantry reinforcements shortly after midnight, and sporadic action was reported more than 12 hours later.

Reports today said three Americans and 28 Viet Cong were killed and 34 Americans wounded. The defenders of Loc Ninh, grown to about 5,000 with arrival of a battalion from the U.S. 25th Infantry Division, have reported a total of 11 Americans and 23 South Vietnamese killed and 66 Americans and 74 South Vietnamese wounded in the six-day battle.

U.S. officers said the Viet Cong factic of sending civilians ahead of the attack forces "naturally restricted" the defenders' answering fire in the first stages of fighting today around the town, 72 miles north of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

But the defenders hit the Viet Cong with artillery, air strikes and C-47 planes armed with rapid-fire gatling guns.

'SOMETHING ROTTEN'

Purge Looms for CBC, LaMarsh Warns Commons

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA— A purge is coming within the senior ranks of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation after the new broadcasting legislation has been passed by Parliament, State Secretary Judy LaMarsh warned in the Commons Thursday.

The blunt warning came when the minister who reports to Parliament for the CBC was confronted with her declaration made Wednesday that "some" segments of CBC management are "rotten."

Opposition members leaped to their feet as soon as the House convened Thursday to demand an explanation from Miss LaMarsh of her public indictment of the CBC management.

Miss LaMarsh came out of her corner fighting.

The term "rotten," she told the Commons, was not too strong or too "colorful" language to use in this case.

She added, "It is really in the past two weeks that some exceptionally knowledgeable people have given me some examples which cause the use of language which might otherwise by considered too "colorful."

Miss LaMarsh continued, "There is a reasonable probability that within the next few weeks or months there will be some changes in personnel and presumably some great changes within the corporation's management."

Later outside the Commons when surrounded by newspapermen she explained her use of the term "rotten." She said that it did not involve anything "crooked," but had undoubtedly resulted in loss of money to the taxpayer "among other things."

In the House Miss LaMarsh had the apparent support of Prime Minister Pearson. The broadcasting critic for the official opposition, Gordon Fairweather (PC—Royal) demanded the reaction of the prime minister to the "sweeping indictment of the CBC management."

Mr. Pearson replied calmly, "I do not think there was anything sweeping about this statement."

VICTORIAN ORDER

18,800 House Calls Keep Nurses Hopping, Helping

By DON VIPOND

If you are old and frail, alone and hurt, chances are nobody need tell you about the Victorian Order of Nurses.

These are the ladies who may be visiting you every day, helping you with chores everyone else does without thinking.

VON nurses frequently give ailing people their needed injections of medicine. That's a must task that few people could handle on their own.

They do much more. But it's hard to tell in cold print what a word of encouragement can mean to a bedridden woman—slowly convalescing from disease or surgery, to an old man left alone, wondering if life is still worth the struggle.

Of the $600,000 urgently needed in the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal, $32,621 is earmarked for the VON. That's about one-third of the agency's budget for this year.

From offices at 1951 Cook Street, 12 nurses have made 18,802 house calls looking after 2,355 people during the first nine months of this year.

"If people are able to pay they do so and rates are adjusted to ability to pay," explains district director Elizabeth Riddell. "But care isn't refused anyone."

The VON is active in Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and View Royal and in some ways its work saves rather than costs money.

Part of the VON's job lies in rehabilitation, working with victims of strokes or fractures to get them back on their feet. In this it has the services part-time of a physiotherapist.

Most of the patients helped by Victorian Order nurses are elderly, about four out of five are over 70. While care initially may mean as many as three visits a day, the majority of patients are visited about three times a week.

Some just need a word of encouragement to help them battle depression. Likely they would tell you that's worth more than money.

United Appeal

Party Future Probed By Anxious Socreds

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER—The B.C. Social Credit League's annual convention formally opened here today amid signs that some of the government's grass roots are worried about the party's future and a few are uneasy about several cabinet attitudes.

The indications were studded through 87 resolutions submitted for consideration by constituency organizations.

But two of the resolutions urged the party to intensify its struggle with other parties—going so far as to suggest a "non-partisan" entry into civic politics and establishment of a shadow legislature by the party which would bypass elected opposition MLAs in influencing government policy.

A couple of resolutions also showed the followers are considerably more daring than the leaders as the convention was urged to approve of legalized lotteries and creation of a "department of tomorrow" cabinet portfolio.

PULL TOGETHER

The largest number of resolutions on a single topic exhorted the party to pull itself together as a national force and reaffirm its principles.

Four resolutions indicated serious worry that the government is pussyfooting with pollution, three advocated a sort of "farmer boy" ploy to wrest a better deal for rural electrification and gas supplies.

Four urged creation of more provincial parks and campsites while a fifth sought an order to B.C. Hydro to clear areas before they are flooded for reservoirs so they could become prime fishing holes.

Demands for establishment of a department of consumer affairs to protect the ordinary citizen, province-wide enumeration of voters, more assistance to chronically ill and low interest mortgage loans drew two resolutions each.

There were two anti-fluoridation resolutions, too, and one for a new system of assessing school taxes to relieve urban ratepayers.

The internal crisis showed up in resolutions by various constituency organizations.

Vancouver-Burrard said "there is doubt in many minds as to the direction of the national Social Credit Association" so it urged the delegates to declare the national party "to be the only vehicle" for implementing the party's program in Canada and "further resolved that the B.C. Social Credit League pledge material and moral support" to the national wing.

West Vancouver-Howe Sound asked "this convention give consideration to changing the name of Social Credit Party to a more appropriate name" denoting its free-enterprise ideals.

Victoria said the convention should "go on record as appealing to the federal executive to arrange a federal Social Credit convention at an early date to reorganize our aims."

WIN SEATS

Victoria also submitted a resolution noting "the strength and influence represented by the B.C. and Alberta governments was not in evidence to any appreciable extend in the last federal election" so it urged the B.C. party "to co-operate in giving studied attention to federal affairs" as a means of helping Socred federal candidates win seats.

Chilliwack said it wanted no part of "political re-alignment" (proposed by Alberta Premier Manning to the Progressive Conservative party) and urged "this convention reaffirm its confidence and support for Social Credit as a national movement."

Baldest appeal for a return to party loyalty was a Cowichan-Malahat resolution which admitted "there would appear to be differences of opinion regarding Social Credit philosophy" but asked the delegates to "confirm their adherence to the philosophies and principles of Social Credit and work for their ultimate success."

Other purely political resolutions asked the party to venture into new fields.

OTHER PARTIES

Burrard constituency, charging other parties are trying to gain control of local governments and manipulate them for partisan purposes against the provincial government, urged the league's constituency organizations to "support morally and materially those capable non-socialist candidates for local government who will use their positions for partisan politics."

And Coquitlam—which has an opposition MLA—implied that it is suffering through government policy aimed at punishing ridings that don't vote for government candidates.

"Whereas many constituencies without Social Credit members have difficult liaison with the government," it said in a preamble.

"Therefore, be it resolved that the government appoint an elected member to help each constituency and the league advise the constituencies who their contact person will be."

Alberni constituency asked provincial initiative to legalize lotteries "operated by government or under the supervision of them so that Canadians will they participate in such legalized lotteries." It pointed out more than 250,000 Canadians now buy lottery tickets which enrich foreign concerns.

Chilliwack said almost 50 per cent of B.C.'s population is under 25 years of age so a government department to "be known as the 'department of tomorrow'" should be established to administer the needs of youth and "the minister of tomorrow shall hold but one portfolio."

Vancouver-Burrard also asked for a similar portfolio which it entitled the department of youth.

PRICE FIXING

Omineca constituency charged price fixing "is getting more common each year" so it urged establishment of a department of consumer affairs while Cariboo said one of the female ministers without portfolio should be made a minister of consumer affairs.

An unidentified resolution urged the government to "take all necessary steps to prevent pollution of B.C. waters, minimize air pollution by industry and cars and conduct a fierce anti-litter campaign.

Cowichan-Malahat asked provincial financial assistance to municipalities for sewage and treatment facilities.

Vancouver-Point Grey said B.C. rivers "have reached a dangerous pollution stage" and urged provincial-federal co-operation in adding sewage disposal units to all new wharves.

Cariboo advocated a blunt demand.

"Whereas pollution of land and water is fast becoming a serious health hazard for our entire country, therefore be it resolved that vigorous action be taken to combat this very real menace to the health of our citizens," it proposed.

Thursday, the pre-convention meeting of the Socred women's auxiliary adopted a motion demanding more government concern and action because "pollution of land and water is fast becoming a serious health hazard."

The women delegates pressured Mrs. Pat Jordan, minister without portfolio, to take the platform and explain the government's policy on pollution.

Mrs. Jordan said that there are many technical problems involved but "I want to assure you that this government is aware of pollution and that information is now being gathered."

The auxiliary also voted, without discussion, in favor of a Hansard verbatim record of debates in the legislature.

. . . BENNETT

present "financial bind" which prompted his appeal.

"We (provincial government) will try to do everything we can, but to win this war against inflation and increasing costs—and it's a people's war—the people will have to be in the front lines."

He maintained that if the public responded to his urging, the provincial economy would continue growing and lead to "greater prosperity than we've ever had yet."

"And do not replace them by underwear Tories, because all you would do is jump from the pot into the fire."

He said B.C. should send a Socred group to Ottawa which would be non-partisan in approaching national problems but would fight for a fair deal for B.C. which he predicted will become the most populous province within the next century.

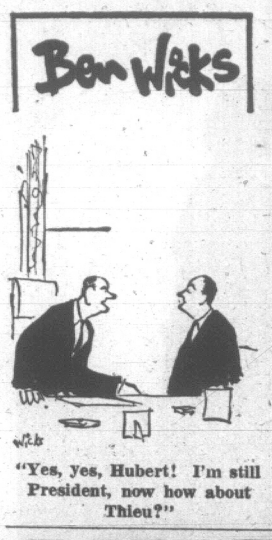

Mr. Bennett, in an apparent forecast of his government's general position on constitutional changes, downgraded the current discussion over Quebec's aspirations.

He said despite all the current argument Canada is more united than it ever has been in the past and there is no crisis.

But he said British Columbia is not receiving enough recognition from the rest of the country for "keeping the whole economy going" through its surplus government finances and its export market earnings.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—Clearing skies late on Thursday allowed temperatures to drop sharply on the coast and light frosts occurred in many areas. Vancouver airport had its coldest temperature so far this fall at 31 degrees. Extensive fog patches that formed overnight in low-lying areas of the Lower Mainland dissipated this morning but the fog will reform again Saturday morning. The ridge of high pressure will continue to dominate the weather patern for British Columbia and most areas will be sunny Saturday. However, a weak Pacific disturbance will move into northern B.C. early Saturday, accompanied by a band of cloud.

DOMINION PUBLIC WEATHER OFFICE 9 A.M. FORECASTS

Valid Until Midnight Saturday

Victoria: Sunny Saturday. Cold tonight. Winds northeast 15 at times decreasing to light. Low tonight and high Saturday, 40 and 52.

Vancouver and Georgia Strait: Sunny Saturday. Fog patches early in morning. Cold tonight with light frost in low lying areas. Winds light occasionally northeast 15 in mainland valleys. Low tonight and high Saturday at Vancouver, 32 and 52; Nanaimo, 30 and 55.

West Coast: Sunny Saturday. A few cloudy periods. Cold overnight and high Saturday at Tofino, 34 and 55.

CHURCHILL MISSES

Two Defeats In Byelection Stun Labor

By JOHN LeBLANC

LONDON (CP)—Labor's confidence in its grip on the British elecorate was badly punctured today in the wake of a stunning series of byelection results.

On the heels of two losses late last month, the Wilson government dropped two more seats Thursday and barely held a third against a strong thrust from Conservative Winston Churchill, neophyte grandson of the late prime minister.

CHURCHILL

The Scottish Nationalists—a home rule party that hasn't been heard in Parliament since 1945—stole Scotland's second-safest Labor seat with a woman candidate, and the Tories took a prosperous Midlands industrial riding that seemingly had not much to grumble about from the government's belt-tightening economic policies.

While the results still left Prime Minister Wilson with a handy majority of 87 in the 630-member Commons, they gave government strategists plenty to worry about. Everywhere, the Labor vote plunged dizzily in seats that were comfortably in the government column in the 1966 general election.

BESEIGED BY SETBACKS

The new setbacks came as Wilson already was beset on several other fronts—high unemployment, wage-price relationship, trouble over European Common Market entry—and reflect at least in part disenchantment over some or all of these.

Several of his ministers are in hot water, and a large segment of the national press has been baying particularly loudly at the heels of Foreign Secretary George Brown over public outbursts of temperament and Lord Chalfont, a junior foreign office minister, over strange manoeuvres in connection with the Common Market.

To all this there now is added a new element—resurgence of traditional but usually muted Scottish dissatisfaction over administration from Westminster as reflected in the startling win of Mrs. Winifred Ewing, a home-rule-for-Scotland advocate in Hamilton.

In a seat held by Labor since 1918 and which returned a 16,000 plurality last year, the 38-year-old lawyer-housewife rolled up 18,397 votes to win by 1,799 over a Labor coal miner.

Young Churchill gave the government another scare, falling short by only 577 votes as he chewed into a 1966 Labor plurality of 8,308 in working-class Gorton, skirting Manchester.

The 27-year-old author-journalist boosted the Tory vote by 2,200 to 18,682 but failed to overhaul Kenneth Marks, a 47-year-old school principal, who registered 19,259.

"I'll fight again until I get in," Churchill later told people of the riding a few miles away from where his famous forebear was first elected 67 years ago.

In a thriving Midlands riding—Leicester Southwest—the Tory vote fell slightly from 1966 but the Labor vote tobogganed by 10,000 as lawyer Thomas Boardman scored 12,897 against 8,858 for government candidate Neville Sandelson, also a lawyer. The 1966 Labor plurality was 5,554.

The series of jolts still leaves Labor with 358 Commons seats including the Speaker who does not vote. The Conservatives have 256, the Liberals 12, and there are one Welsh Nationalist and, now, a Scottish Nationalist. There are two vacant seats.

FROM U.S. 'JUSTIFICATION SHIFT'

South Vietnam Morale Said in Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, often a foreign policy spokesman for Republican moderates, says the Johnson administration's "complete shift" in its justification for Americans fighting in Vietnam could destroy "what little morale is left" among South Vietnamese.

Previously, Morton says of his own changed views on war policy, the administration stressed the United States was seeking to help the South Vietnamese choose their government "without a gun at their head."

But in recent weeks, the Kentuckian says, administration spokesmen have emphasized the United States is battling in Vietnam for its own security. As Morton put it: "Now we are told, 'Oh, well, the reason we are fighting there is so we won't have to fight on Malibu Beach.'"

And the Viet Cong, adds Morton, could twist this explanation to try to convince the South Vietnamese that their land is being ravaged to protect the United States.

Morton is a former assistant secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration and one-time Republican national chairman.

Declaration of Intent

WHETHER OR NOT BRITISH Foreign Secretary Brown's optimism regarding Britain's acceptability to the European Common Market is well founded, he has made it very plain that the country is totally committed to achieving membership, and that this association would be fully political as well as economic.

Mr. Brown bases his latest remarks on information he has received in recent weeks regarding what he calls the growing public opinion in Europe which urges British unity with the continent. He sees recent French concentration on monetary and economic objections, rather than political, as a step forward, since these can be overcome. But the significant aspect of the minister's statement yesterday was his insistence that Britain has completely turned its back on any overseas obligations of its own and will in future be involved only as a European power.

* * *

As though to add emphasis to his stand, Mr. Brown announced Britain's intention to withdraw from Aden almost immediately rather than next January. This will leave even more chaos than a phased-out withdrawal would have caused, considering the domestic turmoil that wracks the area, but there would be criticism whatever course London took, and the impossibility of finding an acceptable solution to the current situation no doubt has encouraged the decision.

Mr. Brown's declaration of intent regarding the European Common Market does not, however, add much to a solution of the problems which already burden the matter of membership. France still holds a commanding position in that regard, and France is still opposed. West Germany is unwilling to challenge General de Gaulle on the matter, and the other members, while urging that Britain be accepted, have still to find answers to the questions which France raises.

To the earlier obstacles which General de Gaulle especially noted: Britain's Commonwealth attachment and its close alliance with the United States, have now been added doubts about Britain's economic security and the strength of the pound sterling. Concentration on the latter points, which Mr. Brown noted, does not mean that the former have been forgotten.

* * *

Although the minister spoke from a background of personal insecurity in his position, as a result of his recent actions in and out of parliament, and for a government beset by by-election losses and mounting criticism, he has at least put Britain on record as to policy: "Our major field of operation from now on must be in and through Europe." That, if implemented, must mark a watershed in the history of the island kingdom, for what Mr. Brown had in mind was full economic and a large measure of political integration, rather than the historic manipulation of balance of power which has been Britain's age-old policy of detachment regarding the continent.

It is a far cry from a one-time position as leader of the western world, but it is also a hard-headed assessment of the new conditions of this latter third of the twentieth century, and a clear-sighted recognition that Britain can still make a great contribution to world affairs through closer association with her allies across the channel.

Science for Productivity

BRITISH SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH still upholds the idea of knowledge for the sake of knowledge—a principle which has produced many practical benefits from the storehouse of information wrested from nature. But in an age when public funds are needed in large amounts to sustain research and scientific investigation there is increasing pressure on scientists to show how the endeavors of the laboratory, the observatory or the launching pad will repay in early material advances the investment which they demand.

An example of a similar trend at the moment is the partial withdrawal of scientists from a long-term study of nuclear fusion as a source of electricity, in order to release their services for immediate industrial problems. This is a development arising chiefly from the country's current economic crisis.

The change in emphasis has several points to commend it. Unless the economy is strengthened, funds could be lacking to push further ahead with pure science. And, in immediate practical terms, it would answer in part the argument that British authorities are monopolizing the supply of scientists in research to a degree which leaves British industry lagging behind that of the United States.

As Mr. Anthony Wedgwood Benn, Britain's minister of technology, puts it: "Where public money is invested, especially in the government's own laboratories, we now want to see a return."

Success for this effort to improve Britain's economy through application of science and research in industry could have another significant result. It might furnish the funds to provide larger opportunities to British scientists — make it more attractive to them to remain working at home than to emigrate—and thus be an important factor in slowing the "brain drain" which currently is causing such deep concern.

Reducing the Class Size

TWO FIGURES OF SUBSTANTIAL importance are listed in a small item included in the most recent news bulletin issued by the Greater Victoria school board to parents' auxiliaries. The figures disclose an over-all increase of 905 in the district school population, an over-all increase in teachers of 99.

Here is evidence of earnest efforts to reduce class sizes and to meet obvious needs in the more diversified educational program desired for the community.

Thirty-six new teachers had to be hired to staff new classrooms this year. Another ten remedial course teachers have been engaged, six have been added to the music staff and the kindergartens have required more. Provision for better school libraries, and the introduction of expanded vocational courses at two senior high schools have also necessitated staff increases.

The costs of the jump in personnel are met in part by the provincial government's latest reduction of the class total for which it is prepared to make a major salary contribution. Last year's standard pupil-teacher ratio of 37 to 1 has now been changed to 36 to 1. This provides provincial government salary grants for 23 more teachers.

The growing student population and the provision of broader teaching services account for much of the increase in the number of teachers. At the same time the board has shown willing co-operation with the profession in the drive to reduce class sizes — a development that should be applauded.

A Republic is No Guarantee of Unity

IN his book, Challenge of Confidence, Mr. Eric Kierans argues in very tentative fashion for republican institutions as a means of fostering the Canadian sense of identity and promoting national unity. The same idea has been expressed by Mr. Gerin-Lajoie and perhaps by Mr. Daniel Johnson, although the premier's actual words of last year were in a distinctively Quebec context. It seems to me this is another of those disembodied notions which make dialogue so difficult. One cannot very well respond to a challenge too vague to be grasped, Mr. Kierans recognizes this elsewhere in his attempt to sketch a new division of powers which might be a basis for constitutional amendment.

Western

There was a time when the eradication of capitalism was popular with many Canadians who have since diverted their energies to other goals. They assumed in those years that many glaringly obvious social evils were inherent in "the system" and would disappear with a change of system. In the circumstances neither assumption seemed unreasonable but neither has been borne out by post-war experience.

Floating on Faith

The new Quebec republicanism, although a similar mixture of analysis and faith, floats chiefly on faith. Our institutions are imperfect, symbolically inadequate, and change is therefore essential. While Mr. Kierans and Mr. Gerin-Lajoie are not too clear on what the change should be, they know in their bones that it will be for the better.

It is unfortunate that we are compelled by the Kierans book to resort to mind-reading. He is evidently unhappy about the preamble to the BNA Act which speaks of "one Dominion under the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, with a constitution similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom." This is "strange and anachronistic" when Britain is withdrawing from her old imperial outposts and when she "belongs to Europe," whatever Mr. de Gaulle may say. He continues:

North American Emphasis

"Canada belongs to North America as the whole network of our canals, rivers, bridges, highways and air routes makes evident. A British monarchy, representing and personifying a European nation that is no longer an empire, will find it difficult to symbolize in any effective way a North American nation grounded in a bi national culture. Our need for a national sentiment . . . for the unity of all our people and for our own clear purpose must be grounded in Canadian reality and cannot subsist on a nostalgia for yesterday's glories. We cannot continue as half-French or half-British."

Mr. Kierans sees this as one area of constitutional change which is "essential to our development as a unified and independent nation."

If the preamble no longer corresponds to reality, we can change it. But it does not necessarily follow that the replacement of the Crown by a presidency would promote the unity of a nation with two cultures. A few questions arise.

Symbolism or Power?

First, do we want a strictly head-of-state president for reasons or symbolism, or do we want a power president? If we are bent on conforming to the North American pattern, we need a power president. This certainly is Mr. Daniel Johnson's thought. He wants a presidential system so that he can choose a cabinet from persons of administrative ability who are not in the legislature. Mr. Kierans seems to be thinking more in terms of state dinners although he wavers between two very different concepts.

Despite the canals and bridges he would probably be wise to concentrate on a European-style presidency. The more power we give a president, the more problems we may have.

The greatest example of a power president in our hemisphere is, of course, the American. It has its roots in the constitution of 1789 which should be of interest to us for a reason which we persistently ignore or deny. What it did was to accommodate in one federal state two founding cultures linked by a common language but separated by institutional differences far greater than anything today observable in English and French Canada. One measure of the gap is the original representation formula based on the principle that a slave should count as 3-5 of a freeman.

Civil War

It cannot be said that the American presidency, despite its undoubted success and vast prestige has invariably been a force for unity. After the Buchanan drift, the election of Mr. Lincoln was followed by the secession of the south and the four-year civil war. This is not to suggest, indeed it would be rediculous to suggest, that the war was attributable to the office. But it does justify the modest conclusion that republican institutions are something less than a sovereign remedy for problems of disunity.

We hear that the Crown is controversial, anachronistic; that it arouses the passions of the separatists. This may be less alarming when we consider U.S. experience. After all Americans have shot four of their 35 presidents and they came within one vote of impeaching another. It is not for us to criticize this level of performance. We may, however, derive some comfort from the fact that we have lived more quietly with our own anachronistic institutions.

Method of Choice

Following Mr. Kierans' thought, we will have to decide not only on the type of president we want but also on the question of how we are to choose him. According to a former congressman, Mr. Ed Gossett, in a thoughtful article currently appearing in Reader's Digest' "How to choose a chief executive was the most bitterly debated provision of the U.S. constitution." Mr. Gossett argues persuasively that it has not yet been satisfactorily solved.

Would Quebec republicans prefer indirect or direct electing? The former, winner-take-all system might have some advantages, ensuring for example that the Quebec vote would not be split. But in light of American experience we should approach this with some care. The first U.S. experiment with an electoral college was not a success. Mr. Jefferson's election led to the regrettable shooting of the great Alexander Hamilton by a vengeful Aaron Burr. We would do well to keep shooting clauses out of our constitution.

Unhappily the reformed American electoral college has also been disappointing. On more than one occasion a candidate has won the popular vote only to lose the presidency. This happened in 1876. "Only by a real exercise of patriotism and statesmanship," writes Mr. Gossett, "did Tilden dissuade his ardent supporters from starting a civil war."

We can, of course, avoid this by direct election. But apart from symbolism it is difficult to see why the idea would have much appeal in Quebec.

For most of the time the Crown is represented in Canada by the governor-general. Nowadays he is a Canadian and a person chosen with extreme care. The appointee must be detached from partisan politics and acceptable to both sections. One cannot imagine a unilingual governor-general. In addition, the Massey-Vanier-Michener succession strongly suggests that a convention is in the making which ensures an alternation of appointments between French and English.

Unfavorable to Quebec

Since French-speaking Canadians comprise only about 30 per cent of the population, Quebec could scarcely expect such a favorable result if the head of state was chosen by popular election, directly or indirectly. Of our 14 prime ministers, two were French Canadians.

We have had no consitutional dispute involving the governor-general since 1926. If we decide to have an elective president, however, there will be a new situation. Popular election is an argument for power. What will be the relationship between an elective president and an elective prime minister, if we are to have both? No doubt we will start with some reasonably tidy constitutional arrangement. Will this tidiness continue to appeal to both sections if, as may easily happen, the president is of one culture, the prime minister of another?

Seeds of Dissatisfaction

But suppose the choice is a power presidency, like the American. That power attracts is apparent from the last Conservative convention when nine men contested the leadership. The more power attached to an office, the more presumably it will attract able and ambitious men. But if this is true, it seems to me that the new situation would be even less favorable to Quebec aspirations. It might be countered by bloc politics but this is scarcely the stuff of unity, even if successful. The new symbolism would be unhelpful if it excited hopes only to plunge them into deeper dissatisfaction.

There is no doubt that Mr. Kierans is a man in search of unity. It is far less clear that he has found the road.

Looking Back

From The Times, Nov. 3, 1907.

With the customary enterprise which has marked the transactions of the famous Hudson's Bay Company through the hundred years since its inception, it has now decided to build steamers to replace the Mount Royal which was lost in the Skeena on July 14.

The contracts for the hulls and cabin works have been let to Alec Watson of Victoria, while the boilers and machinery will be built by the Polson Iron Works Ltd., of Toronto. The two vessels will be completed by April 1.

Interpreting The Battle

By JOSEPH ALSOP
From Washington

RETURNING travellers always have a sad tendency to go on too long about their impressions garnered overseas. Even so, one further word resulting from a long Far Eastern trip is really irresistible. The essence of this further word is a warning—the warning that nothing like a true picture of the war in Vietnam is coming through. To illustrate, let us take a specific, rather recent instance.

Alsop

Not long ago, a minor unit of the U.S. 1st Division ran into a whole regiment of the enemy's 9th Viet Cong Division. The meeting surprised the Americans and their losses were fairly heavy. The engagement received the fullest front page coverage, plus the usual hyped-up coverage by the television people.

As far as the American public were concerned, the story ended there. But in reality, it did not end there, by any means. To begin with, there was the remarkable basic reason for the surprise of the American unit by the enemy unit—to be specific, by the 271st Regiment of the VC division.

The basic reason for the surprise was that the 271st Regiment turned up where it had no business to be, far from its allotted base in the remote depths of War Zone D. A captured document—a letter from a regimental political officer to the VC high command in the south—furthermore revealed that the 271st Regiment had been driven to move out from its base towards the more populated areas, because its men were approaching starvation on a diet of little but rice-gruel.

Once Produest

Such, then, was the condition of the First Regiment of a division which used to be the proudest, toughest and most celebrated of all the larger VC outfits in the whole of South Vietnam. Long ago, in addition, the division ceased to be a VC outfit in anything but name. For want of VC recruits in the South, in fact, the 9th VC Division has been repeatedly filled up with northern replacements.

As to the division's second regiment, the 272nd, it was already in such bad shape eight or 10 months ago that it had to be pulled out of the line for rear area duty, being temporarily replaced with a regiment of northern origin. More recently this 272nd Regiment was returned to the 9th VC Division. But hard intelligence has recently revealed that it has been given a "food production role"—meaning that this regiment is wholly engaged in jungle-farming, for reasons that can be deduced from the surprise move of the 271st Regiment.

As to the division's third regiment, the 273rd, it has been in the news very recently, as the result of an obstinate but wholly unsuccessful attack on the special service camp at Loc Ninh, near the Cambodian border. For an entire regiment to assault a special service camp (with a garrison of eight or nine Americans plus perhaps 300 South Vietnamese) and to fail disastrously in the attempt, is something that really offers food for thought.

What Is Important?

What then is more important? The fact that an American unit had some bad luck, which came through in full force at home, or that the proudest, toughest and most celebrated VC division is now in quasi-ruins, which had not even been mentioned before these words were written?

No one with the least interest in the progress of the war can have any doubt about the right answer to the foregoing questions. Why, then, does the war's real pattern and trend fail to come through at home?

In part, the answer to this further question is not pleasant for anyone proud of being a newspaperman. For example, this war has had only two really decisive battles to date. The newspaper that claims pre-eminence in this country reported the first of these two battles exclusively in terms of U.S. losses, with hardly a mention of the fearful defeat the enemy was suffering. It then denied that the main body of the enemy had even been engaged in the second.

Mainly, however, the difficulty arises from the sheer complexity of the war's pattern, which is enormously hard to convey in a balanced way. Meanwhile, the main point to note is quite simple. The true pattern and trend of the war are in fact rather accurately indicated by the foregoing summary of the state of the 9th VC Division. In military terms, as well as in political terms, the American and allied efforts are at last beginning to pay off.

For Amalgamation

With regard to the Amalgamation Study Report as to the feasibility of Sidney and North Saanich merging, it is obvious that the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages.

Are the knowledge and experience of two North Saanich council members who oppose the union greater than the experts', management consultants, Stevenson and Kellog Ltd., who have nationwide experience in such matters?

Mergers are taking place all over the world with corporations, businesses, cities and municipalities, etc. in order to keep administrative costs down.

So be smart, get out and vote for amalgamation.—Taxpayer.

Foreign Affairs Policy Needs Public Priorities

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

A recent address to a Toronto audience by a distinguished Canadian began with the following strongly-worded sentiment:

"I have an uneasy feeling that there is today in Canada an increasing sense of frustration about Canadian foreign policy. There is an ever-deepening feeling of revulsion against United States policy on Vietnam.

Fisher

"There is a lessening of confidence in the ability of the United States to provide wise leadership for the Western world. There is a growing demand for a more independent Canadian foreign policy."

The speaker was Escott Reid, principal of Glendon College at York University, and for over a quarter of a century Canadian diplomat at various posts around the world.

About 35 years ago Mr. Reid was writing articles in learned journals about political organization and democratic frustration, and then he opted into the most exclusive compartment of the Canadian establishment, the Department of External Affairs. In a sense, in a second career, he is now taking up again where he left off.

Crowe

We will be accused of being masochists, but we have just read and survived the exercise, McClelland & Stewart's volume of Paul Martin's speeches.

They read like continuous recorded announcements to the effect that "Trouble is temporary and in hand, so do not adjust your sets."

What will interest us will be to see the public response to this volume in comparison to the reception of Dr. Reid's address.

Dr. Reid says that our foreign policy has in fact achieved more than we realize or can realize:

"A government which succumbs to the temptation to claim public credit for a successful diplomatic initiative may win votes at the next election but at the expense of losing influence abroad. . . .

"A foreign minister of a smaller power who claims credit this year for having influenced the policy of one of these proud and powerful nations on an important issue will probably find it more difficult next year to influence the policy of that nation on another, perhaps more important, issue."

Nevertheless, there is unease, revulsion, frustration, and a foreign policy of a democratic people cannot become too far divorced from the popular source of a government's mandate.

Therefore, Dr. Reid urges upon the government of Canada the establishment of very clear, public priorities on the big issues of world affairs, and the concentration of our limited resources of brains, money, crusading zeal and diplomatic talent on those issues to which we give top priority.

What should the top priorities be?

"I believe that the two supremely important tasks of the whole community of nations in this last third of the 20th century are to try to narrow the dangerously wide gap between China and the rest of the world and to speed up the rate of economic growth of the underdeveloped two-thirds of the world."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Reid proposes the Canadian government should announce publicly that over the next ten years it is going to concentrate on these two tasks.

He says that every year we should increase our contribution to foreign aid by one-twentieth of that year's increase in our production of goods and services.

At that rate we reach the level of a billion dollars a year by 1973. Foreign aid is one of the three essential elements in any plan to aid underdeveloped areas.

The others are largely up to the poor countries themselves — to increase their production of food and to decrease their production of children.

But what is put forward in this address is much more far-reaching than just jacking up our external aid.

It is the development of a Canadian obsession with all the instruments of international assistance, the marshalling of all kinds of expertise here at home, lobbying with experts of other countries, then with their governments, and consciously providing the drive, the enthusiasm, the gradually recognized leadership in all areas of economic aid.

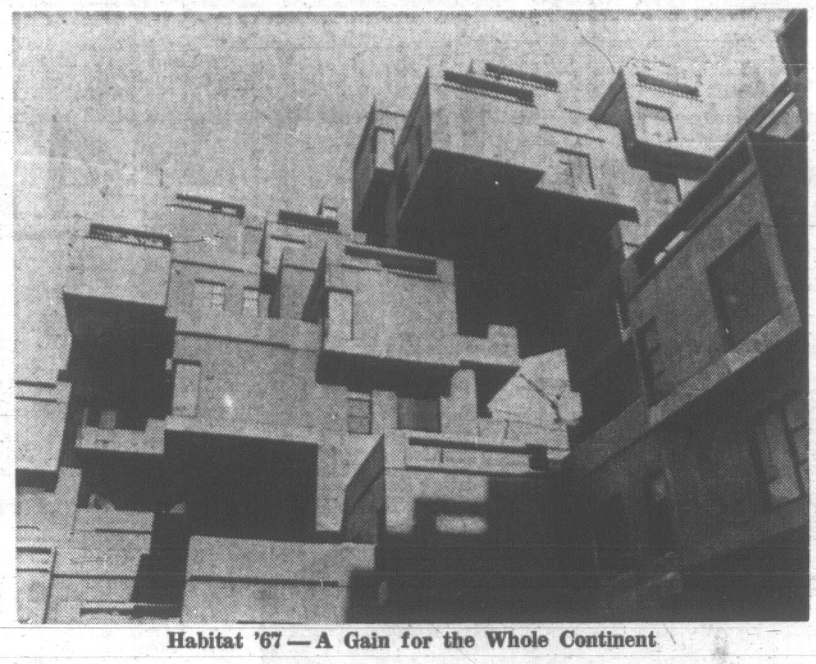

★ ★ ★

The existing international organizations could all be made more effective and better interrelated.

"Canada played a prominent role in creating them. Canada can play a prominent role in recreating them."

It would have to begin with a relatively quiet diplomacy, which of course would be politically difficult because of the cost, "but once the Canadian people sensed that Canada was beginning to play a subtle creative leading role in a world-wide effort to deal with world poverty, the sense of frustration in Canada about Canadian foreign policy would begin to diminish."

But would our collective Canadian system be equal to the shock of leaving the tranquilized and wordy world of recorded announcements?

Habitat '67 — A Gain for the Whole Continent

Let Urban Planners Learn from Expo

By WOLF VON ECKARDT
The Washington Post

MONTREAL — Expo 67 is over. In a year plagued by two wars, tension and dissention and a worsening urban crisis, the Canadians treated the world to a gay, festive and hopeful international exposition.

It was a great party and lifted everyone's spirit. But as even the best of parties must, it has ended.

What remains are more than two man-made islands in the St. Lawrence River and more than the pleasant memories of the 50 million people who visited the great event.

The pervasive lesson that will prod us from now on as we face our polluted habitat is that it can be done.

Expo has proven that modern man in the age of modern mass production can build a pleasant, spirit lifting environment and it did so in less than three years.

It has proven that we can, as past ages did, engage and involve our alienated art to serve and delight the common man.

And most of all, it has proven that good, fresh, thoughtful creative planning and design is not a frill but the key to popular success.

The evidence of this success is not only in the statistics but also in the happy faces of the crowds which the statistics represented.

In Good Humor

People stood in line for as long as five hours to get inside the most popular pavilions. But even the tired children kept up their good humor and festive sense of anticipation.

I, too, stood for long hours, though I hate standing. And it suddenly struck me that the reason it didn't wear on my nerves as it did my muscles, the reason that all this waiting did not make me hate the world as I hated Robert Moses and his New York World's Fair fiasco three years ago, was that Expo was quiet.

Standing there, with all those thousands of people, was peaceful, far more peaceful than standing in a downtown movie queue with all the screeching brakes and thundering trucks. At Flushing Meadows there was that constant, infernal din of the ubiquitous loudspeakers blaring at you.

Their successful noise control was perhaps the greatest triumph of Expo's planners. Even at their La Ronde amusement park, you heard only one loudspeaker at a time so the music never became noise and added to the enchanting visual delight of the place.

Greatest Harm

Few urbanists realize as yet that of all the pollutions of the urban environment, noise pollution may, subconsiously perhaps, harm us the most.

I hope there were many downtown businessmen among Expo's 50 million visitors. For this fair should have convinced them that it is not more automobiles that will save downtown from ruin and decay but people, people who can move about freely and at will without the regimentation of traffic lights and without being bullied about by combustion engines.

Expo's smooth, fast rapid transit express quickly transported everyone where he wanted to go, distributing people across two islands and a peninsula.

And then there were the mini-rails, moving at majestic speeds, neither too fast nor too slow to make further transportation a delight, as you quietly soared over the pedestrians. You could, going from one place to another, get a good look of what was inbetween.

Transportation thus served the crowds and animated the environment without blocking views, clatter and poisonous fumes and irritating stop and go.

An important part of this trick was that Expo introduced a third dimension in its transportation design. At the transit stops and most other points where people had to congregate in large numbers, they were distributed over different levels on elevated platforms and long ramps. There were no obstructions on the ground.

All of this points to a valid answer to our downtown traffic dilemma: keep cars and people apart, provide a variety of transportation and keep things in motion by moving on different levels.

This had long been talked about but never tried on so large a scale. It worked so well that what bugs there were, were due only to Expo's success.

With thousands more people than the planners dared hope for, there were bottlenecks at the Expo express stops early in the summer. Despite the platforms and ramps a wall of humanity slowed loading and unloading of the trains to the point that instead of their capacity of 30,000 people an hour, the trains carried only half that many.

Another lesson for our cities: with foresight and flexibility combined, success did not spoil Expo. By and large it looked as fresh and clean in the fall as it had looked in the spring.

But what made the fair exciting as well was not what was shown — there surely was no one in the crowd who had not seen a space capsule or some other gadgetry before on TV or in print — but how well, how ingeniously and artistically so much was displayed. The incredible attendance of the Czechoslovakian pavilion is a case in point.

Quality, Daring

What turned them out was the high quality and daring of the design, the handsome, simple modern building, the creative displays and most of all the witty and enchanting film presentations, a novel marriage of visual communication and abstract art.

Luckily the Canadian's never applied the usual, confining cost-benefit yardstick to this enterprise. They dared to invest in quality and it paid, though no survey will ever fully measure Canada's new prestige or even the dollar value of Expo's great boon to the city of Montreal.

The whole continent gained in fact. Architect Moshe Safdie's Habitat '67 is but one, though an important example. Similar schemes to combine the advantages of a detached home with the benefits of apartment house living have been proposed in the architectural magazines for years. By daring to build Habitat, Expo has not only put the idea to a needed technical test. It has also demonstrated that people respond with considerable enthusiasm.

We might now see a Habitat '68 or '69 in cities where this new form of housing will be more than helpful. Without Expo we could not even dream of it.

It is thus with much of Expo's other advances in transportation, general planning, architectural controls, graphics, use of new materials and building techniques and of modern art.

Having seen what can be done, the public will now demand more from all those that make or break our urban environment — the planners, builders, investors, businesses, sundry engineers and politicians.

We have a new standard to go by.

Sexuality Apart From Morality

By SUE MASTERMAN

THE HAGUE — "Sexuality must be seen apart from the morality of marriage. It is a private area of human behavior over which the community has no authority. Sexuality ought to be a normal part of life needing no special justification, excuse or special restrictions."

This brief excerpt from the statement of the president of the Netherlands Society for Sexual Reform NVSH), Mrs. Mary Zeldenrust-Noordanus, is a fair indication of the change in ideas on sex and morality which is now permeating Holland.

The NVSH is a well-respected organization in Holland. It was originally set up to encourage the acceptance of birth control, a necessary objective in this densely populated country. This objective has now been achieved, and the NVSH has now turned its attention to the sexual life of the Netherlands in general.

Holland tends to be a country of extremes. In some parts of the remote countryside it is still the tradition for the suitor to creep into the girl's bedroom window at night, with the tacit consent of her parents, and only to formalize the relationship when the girl is pregnant.

But woe betide the man who courts one girl and then marries another. In the village of Staphorst this year the inhabitants erected an "arch of shame" over the doorway of a newly-married couple because the young man had broken this unwritten law.

That marriage and morality are not necessarily to be confused with one another is a strict NVSH principle. Pre-marital relationships are taken for granted. The only basic necessity is that children should be educated in such a way that they should be able to handle relationships with other people in a responsible manner.

Extra-marital relationships, says the NVSH, are not necessarily a bad thing for a marriage. A marriage has to be seen as something more than just a sexual contract, and the concept of faithfulness and monogamy has to be thought of in a much broader context.

The NVSH refuses to condemn prostitution outright. It also disagrees with any legislation designed to drive it underground. In Amsterdam alone there are two and a half million "transactions" per year and the NVSH thinks that the only thing that will ever reduce this total is a very different social philosophy regarding an individual's sexual freedom.

It hardly needs to be said that the NVSH does not have the whole of Holland behind it. More extreme Roman Catholic and Calvinist groups turn slightly green every time the society issues another statement. But the NVSH has a strong enough following—and support of organizations such as the Red Cross and the mental health authorities, the churches and certain ministries—to make it a powerful present-day influence.

They have succeeded in making a substantial dent in the shield of hypocrisy which the Dutch, in common with much of the Western world, have used to protect themselves against the realities of being merely human.

RELICS FROM A GOLDEN AGE

WASHINGTON — Archeologists have uncovered the first religious building from the time of golden-rich King Croesus and evidence of Roman urban renewal in a summer of digging at Sardis in western Turkey.

Those were among the finds reported here by the Harvard-Cornell Expedition. This was the tenth season of the expedition, and it proved a fruitful one.

The discoveries included these:

—Excavating a cemetery on the southern shore of the Gygean Lake, the diggers found graves in which dead had been placed in giant jars five to six feet high—much like those in which Ali Baba of the Arabian Nights hid himself.

—In the city of Sardis itself—one of the great cities of the ancient world, where Croesus once ruled the Lydian kingdom—excavators uncovered the first religious building from the time of the fabulously rich ruler (Circa 550 B.C.).

Under a big earth blotch covered by ashes, they found an altar for fire sacrifices with three scorched lion statues.

—Eleven shops were uncovered in the further excavation of a shopping centre along the main avenue south of the ancient synagogue of Sardis.

—Important additions to the history of the synagogue of Sardis, the largest of the early synagogues, came from deep digging along the walls and the apse of the 400-foot-long building.

Excavators, unable to reach the bottom of the foundation walls, now believe the entire main hall was begun by the Romans in the course of the urban renewal of Sardis after the disastrous earthquake of 17 A.D.

The Ubiquitous Arthropod Has Variety of Coverings

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

The unique body covering that has been developed by the arthropods functions as a mechanical support with remarkable efficiency. It has enabled members of this large division of the animal kingdom to evolve an almost infinite variety of forms and to invade every habitable part of the earth.

Carl

The basic structure is quite simple. It consists of a series of tubes completely enclosing the body and its many appendages. While each component is relatively stiff, it is connected to its neighbor by a flexible joint to allow movement. Thus the legs, mouth-parts, feelers and other extensions are clothed in armor like that covering the body but are still freely movable. This device apparently has been the key to success and has made it possible for this group to produce the multitude of forms we recognize as crabs, shrimps, copepods, spiders and insects.

The material of which the skeleton is made is also remarkable. Technically known as chitin it is extraordinarily tough and almost indestructible. When thickened and strengthened with deposits of calcium it forms the hard shell of a lobster or crab, or a pincer-like claw with which the crustacean can crack molluscs. In its most delicate form it encloses the microscopic body of a gnat and forms the gossamer wings upon which the insect floats. It may be darkened with pigment so that it may be almost any color as in some crabs and insects. It may be translucent as glass, revealing the inner workings of a water flea or of a damsel nymph. When finely striated it is iridescent as a rainbow as shown by the swimming feet of a fairy shrimp or the eye-cover of a deep-water amphipod.

This amazing envelope is also watertight, a characteristic which has undoubtedly contributed much to the success enjoyed by arthropods in invading dry land. Without this protective coat to retain moisture within the body it would have been impossible for those early forms to leave their watery world for any length of time.

But despite its many unusually favorable features this chitinous skeleton has a few serious disadvantages. For one thing it can not be stretched. As a consequence an animal enclosed in such a cover can not increase in size except by discarding the old coat and growing a new and larger one. This is actually what happens in the case of all arthropods. At intervals during the growing period the old, tight exoskeleton splits at some convenient place and the inmate struggles out with a new skin already formed but still soft and flexible. Immediately after shedding the animal swells to new and larger size and the new skin begins to harden. In a few hours or perhaps a few days the animal is ready to carry on as usual until it is necessary to shed again.

Casting the skin is an exhausting and hazardous process. It requires a great deal of energy and considerable time. During the process the creature is vulnerable to attack so must hide for protection or at least remain as inconspicuous as possible. Many things can go wrong; weaklings often succumb at these critical stages and since most species shed many times during their lifetime casualties can be quite high.

Lack of Logic on Drugs?

Manchester Guardian

Let us suppose that the pharmaceutical chemists produced a new drug that provided an hour or two of euphoria associated with heightened appreciation of music and the visual arts, and that it was found to have no harmful effects.

What would be the public response? Deep suspicion, at the least, and a certain amount of blind hostility is what we could expect.

Though human society has been habituated to drugs of one kind and another as far back as historical records go, new drugs are unwelcome when their purpose is pleasure.

●

Yet medicinal drugs are instantly socially acceptable, though their results may be disastrous, as we have learned from experience of the barbiturates and amphetamines—and above all from thalidomide.

There is, therefore, lack of logic in the current controversy on drugs, as the debate at the Conservative party conference demonstrated.

Most of the argument there was about cannabis. This is one of the least dangerous drugs, at any rate in its immediate consequences—though overindulgence, as with tobacco and alcohol, has harmful effects.

"The established effects of cannabis include unexplained hilarity, carelessness, distortion of sensation and perception, especially of space and time, impairment of judgment and memory, distortion of emotional responsiveness, and confusion; after repeated administration there may be hallucinations and delusions that predispose to inconsiderate behavior, anxiety, and aggressiveness . . . Distortion of perception may be a serious factor in provoking accidents among motor car drivers and machine operators, while aggressive behavior leads to anti-social activities and may also be a factor leading to crime."

Is there not something familiar about these symptons? Might one not reply, tell that to the drink trade?

The comparison with alcohol is not irrelevant, but it is liable to be misleading because in Western society we have many centuries of experience of adjusting to the use of alcoholic drink to a civilized social life.

Cannabis is strange to us. Not only do we not know with certainty what its physical effects would be over the long run, but we know even less of its social consequences, and there is uncertainty about its addictiveness.

To be cautious, therefore, is to be sensible. But it is also sensible to put prejudice aside, particularly when lumping all "dangerous drugs" (as defined by law) together in one category.

To do that is to make the black market drug traffic more dangerous and more difficult to control.

Hiram Walker's Special Old Canadian Whisky is blended first; aged later. That's what makes it Special.

So special, in fact, that no one is allowed to enter our blending room except the handful of people who belong. After all, there's a whisky being born in there.

Because a whisky is born when it's blended. (Most whiskies are blended just before they're bottled. Like maybe last week.)

But Walker's Special Old was blended long ago. The very day that its ingredient whiskies were distilled. They were carefully and painstakingly combined.

Preblended. To reach that elusive point of perfection that creates Walker's Special Old. Only then were they sealed in white oak casks. To age and mellow. Together. The result is incomparable bouquet, flavour, and character.

Our people take the longer, more difficult route to make Walker's Special Old. Because how else could we call it Special?

We blend it before we age it.

Canada's Efforts Overseas Praised

Canada is making a very substantial contribution, in manpower and materials, to assisting the developing countries of the Commonwealth, the Duke of Devonshire said her Thursday afternoon.

"You have every reason to be proud of what Canada is doing," he told a joint meeting of the Royal Commonwealth Society, Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce and Victoria Rotary Club in the Empress Hotel.

The duke is both president of the Federation of Commonwealth Chambers of Commerce and chairman of the 30,000-member Royal Commonwealth Society.

'NOBLE EFFORT'

He said young Canadians are making a "noble effort" to help developing countries through CUSO (Canadian University Services Overseas) by volunteering their services as experts in different fields for a period of two years.

"Very often they do this at a sacrifice to their careers," the duke said.

The duke said Britain, Canada and other senior members of the Commonwealth have sometimes been criticized for not doing enough for the poorer countries.

"In a perfect world, it could be argued that we should make substantial sacrifices in our standard of living to help the poorer. In a less-than-perfect world, I don't think this can be expected.

"People will make a serious effort to help countries they have never seen, but they will not lower their living standards for them."

The duke said the British Commonwealth is changing rapidly, but still has a very vital part to play in world affairs.

"We have never been an exclusive Commonwealth and, within our expanding framework, we have every type of country. Some of our relationships are experimental, some are difficult and in places like Rhodesia we have a crisis."

Tory Members Cry 'Guillotine'

$1.6 Billion Estimates Pass After Tough Commons Fight

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP) — Accompanied by Conservative cries of "guillotine," spending estimates totalling $1,656,000,000, for a score of government departments, were aproved by the Commons late Thursday.

Approval came shortly before midnight after a last-ditch effort by Conservative members to block it. They claimed provisional rules setting a 30-day limit for consideration of 1967-68 departmental spending programs had been flubbed by the government.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ended a wrangle that lasted more than an hour by ruling the 30-day limit must apply and the estimates had to be approved by the end of Thursday's sitting.

MPs then went through the vote on each department and branch, Liberals shouting "Carried" and Conservatives calling "On division" to register their protest.

Some of the $1,656,000,000 had been released by Parliament for government use earlier through interim supply bills to meet month-to-month accounts.

The actual total released for government spending in the appropriations bill that ended Thursday's sitting was for $1,134,000,000.

Several Conservative MPs made occasion, inside the House and out, to snipe at the 30-day limit for study of spending estimates.

'Not Fair to Taxpayer'

Michael Starr, interim Opposition leader, told a press conference the system "is not fair to the taxpayer." He said Conservatives would object to any attempt to introduce the rule, adopted as a trial measure to speed up Parliament's handling of business, for future sessions.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) said the rule prevents proper scrutiny by MPs of government spending. If MPs could not do this and get answers from ministers "you might as well lock the doors of Parliament."

Debate on the justice department estimates brought calls for reform of the Exchequer Court of Canada; for laws to make Quebec separatists accountable for the property damage they cause and for a federal statement on problems of national unity.

Mr. Woolliams, a lawyer for 22 of his 51 years, said the cards of justice are stacked against the poorer Canadian. That there is "a law for the rich and a law for the poor" had never been more amply demonstrated in Canada than in present times.

He cited an expropriation case heard by the court after the federal government had set a price of about $13,000 for 60 acres of land near Lake Louise, Alta.

After a long struggle involving three or four trips to Ottawa from Calgary and payment of $7,000 for a special property appraiser, the persons whose property had been expropriated had won an Exchequer Court settlement worth $96,000 including interest.

But Mr. Woolliams pointed out that most Canadians are not affluent enough even to consider starting such a suit against the "all-powerful Crown."

'The Rich Get Time to Pay'

Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) agreed there is more justice for the rich. He had investigated many cases of rich persons being given plenty of time to pay tax bills that mounted into the $50,000 bracket while poor Canadians were clapped in jail for stealing "two tins of sardines."

Creditiste Leader Caouette asked for a federal bill to force backers of Quebec separatist parties to pay damages for defacing property.

He said separatists paint their slogans on public and private property throughout the province. His house in Hull, Que., had been decorated with them last month.

To solid applause from other French-speaking MPs, Mr. Caouette described the separatists as "hotheads" and "anarchists."

In the short time spent on finance department spending, Finance Minister Sharp said Canada would retain some "flexibility" in putting tariff reductions achieved at the Geneva negotiations into effect.

There was no doubt that some Canadian industries would feel a pinch when the new tariffs come into effect. The government "in due course" would be announcing ways through which it hopes to steer them into more profitable fields.

Scrub Word, Says Author

VANCOUVER (CP)—Author Philip Roth has given permission for a four-letter word to be omitted from future editions of a Grade 12 English text used in British Columbia schools.

Stanley Skinner, speaking for the book's Canadian agents, said Thursday that there is a more recent version of the short story, Defender of the Faith, and Roth had allowed this to be substituted.

"When we do a reprinting for the education department we will use this abridged version, from which all potentially offensive words have been removed," he announced.

9 FISHBOATS CAPTURED

SEOUL (Reuters) — Two armed North Korean patrol boats early today captured nine South Korean fishing vessels in waters just south of the 38th Parallel which separates the two Koreas, national police said here.

NEWFOUNDLAND BY-ELECTION

Grits, Tories Wind Up Gruelling 6-Week Drive

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A gruelling, six-week campaign for Monday's federal byelection in Bonavista-Twillingate headed for a grand finale today.

The Liberals said Thursday night 20 elected Liberal members of the legislature and four members of the House of Commons would move into the riding in the next 48 hours for eight rallies to be held tonight and Saturday night.

This follows earlier Liberal statements that their candidate, Charles R. Granger, 56, had concentrated for more than a month on door knocking, while the Conservatives were holding numerous public meetings to drum up support for Wilfred French, 48.

Leading the entourage of Liberals will be Premier Joseph Smallwood, who speaks tonight at Twillingate and Saturday night at Wesleyville.

Earlier Conservative Leader Gerald Ottenheimer charged the Liberals were "afraid to meet the people." The PCs, mustering their most intensive drive in a federal riding in Newfoundland, have brought in a flock of top speakers from Ottawa, including newly elected party Leader Robert Stanfield.

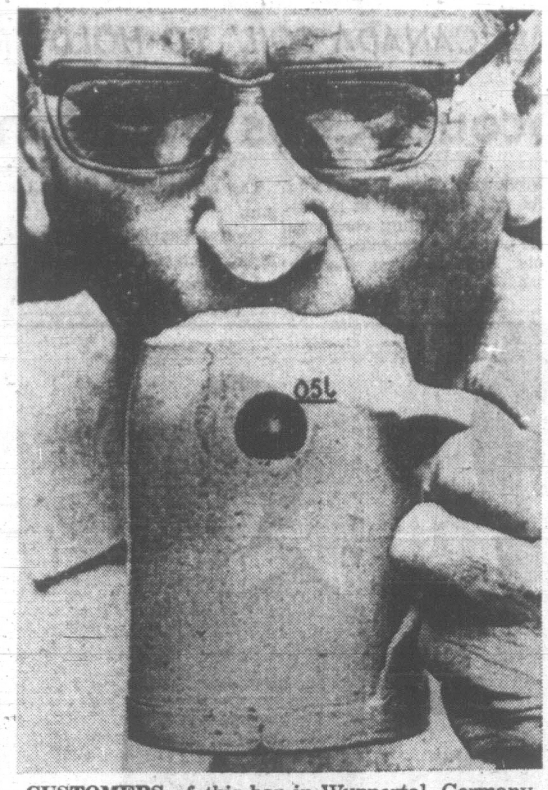

Mr. Ottenheimer, commenting Thursday in a paid political telecast on Mr. Smallwood's reversal of his earlier announcement not to campaign personally, said:

"Now we learn that himself is about to hold a series of meetings."

The premier, in another paid political telecast Thursday night, said Newfoundland needs Mr. Granger's services in the "inner circle" of the federal government. The Liberal candidate was appointed a federal minister-withot-portfolio in September.

He appealed for "the same" 6,000-vote majority for Mr. Granger that former transport minister Pickersgill polled in 1965. Mr. Pickersgill represented the district from 1953 until he resigned in September to head up the new national transport commission.

Present standings in the House of Commons are Liberals 131, PC 93, NDP 22, Creditistes 8, Social Credit 4, independent 3, vacant 4.

U.S.-CONTROLLED CITY

'Return Okinawa' Chant By 20,000 Japanese

By RICHARD HALLORAN
The Washington Post

NAHA, Okinawa—About 20,000 Okinawans rallied and marched through the main streets of this city Thursday night demanding that Okinawa be returned to Japanese political control.

It was believed to have been one of the largest demonstrations ever held here to protest continued United States administration of Okinawa, the site of major U.S. military bases in the Western Pacific.

After speeches by Okinawan leaders of the reversion movement and several Japanese sympathizers here for the rally, the demonstrators took to the streets chanting "Okinawa kaise" (Return Okinawa).

Some carried signs in Japanese opposing the Vietnam war and demanding that Americans get out of Asia. Many shouted "Yankee go home," to a few American bystanders.

Some signs criticized Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato for not pressing the U.S. for reversion. Sato is scheduled to meet President Johnson in Washington Nov. 14-15 to discuss Okinawa and other problems.

Observers here said that many Okinawans feel that the Japanese public is indifferent to Okinawan desires for reversion and that Japanese leaders are bungling the job.

The reversion movement in Japan appears to be in disarray. No consensus has emerged among Japanese leaders on what to ask for from Washington. Nor does it appear that Japanese leaders have thought out the economic, political and military problems connected with reversion.

Canada Seen 'Coming Out Of Shadows'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—"Americans are losing their view of Canada as a snowbound hinterland," Paul Martin, Canada's minister of external affairs told a University of Michigan seminar Thursday.

Martin, who spoke by special telephone hookup from Ottawa to the Canadian-United States seminar, added: "As Canada comes out of the shadows in American thinking, we must be prepared to be more harshly judged."

Canada's participation in United Nations peacekeeping efforts and such activities as the International Control Commission in Vietnam has led to its "Widening influence, I think, in international affairs."

THINGS HAVE CHANGED

Nova Scotia Tories To Honor Stanfield

HALIFAX (CP)—A year ago, the Nova Scotia Progressive Conservative association shored up John Diefenbaker's sagging image as party chief with a rousing reception at its annual meeting.

Tonight, provincial Tories will pay homage to the native son who defeated The Chief for the national PC leadership two months ago. The association will make a special presentation to former premier Robert Stanfield after he addresses this year's annual meeting.

Mr. Stanfield's speech and the presentation by Attorney-General R. A. Donahoe will probably steal some of the limelight from the major concern of the three-day sessions—leadership of the provincial party.

With no announced opposition, Premier G. I. (Ike) Smith is expected to receive the go-ahead to carry on the duties he inherited from Mr. Stanfield by acclamation of the convention's 947 delegates.

MIDNIGHT DEADLINE

A challenger has until midnight tonight to file nomination papers.

Mr. Donahoe was the leading figure among possible contenders for the leader's post and its accompanying premiership, but he closed ranks behind Mr. Smith when the Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. announced Oct. 13 it would close its Sydney steel mill next spring.

The entire cabinet followed suit. House Speaker Harvey Veniot earlier quashed rumors he would be in the running.

Campoli Concert Tonight

First concert appearance in Victoria of one of Europe's most outstanding violinists takes place tonight in the Education-Arts auditorium at University of Victoria.

Campoli, a member of a distinguished Italian musical family, has made numerous tours of North America as well as world tours that have girdled the globe.

ON TOUR

At present on a tour of this continent, he has made his previously unscheduled visit to Victoria at the invitation of Peter Garvie, head of the university's School of Fine Arts.

The invitation was accepted partly because Campoli had fallen in love with this city on a brief previous visit.

A noted recording artist, he has just begun a new series of sonata recordings in London, sandwiched in between a heavy concert schedule.

In this evening's sonata program, Campoli will be associated with pianist Robin Wood, director of the School of Music.

Their outstanding program will include works by Vivaldi, Beethoven, Busoni and Franck.

The recital begins at 8 and tickets may be obtained at the door. Admission is $1.50 and 75 cents for students.

Court Change

ATHENS (Reuters) — Many crimes, tried by military courts since the army took over in Greece in April, now will revert to civil courts, it was announced today. An order by the Greek Army general staff said the crimes included premeditated murder, grievous bodily harm, robbery, blackmail and currency violations.

CANADIAN UNION WINS IN BALLOT

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Workers at the Prince George Pulp and Paper Co. have voted overwhelmingly in favor of being represented by the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

In an unofficial ballot completed Thursday, they voted 228 to 28 in favor of the PPWC over the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, which has certification now.

Short-Term Rates Remain High

OTTAWA (CP) — Short-term interest rates remained high this week when the government went to the money market to refinance $150,000,000 worth of treasury bills falling due Thursday.

Average bids for $120,000,000 worth of 91-day bills were low enough to cost the government and yield investors 4.95 per cent, unchanged from last week and the highest this year.

Bids for $30,000,000 worth of 182-day bills averaged 97.457, to yield 5.23 per cent, up from 5.22 per cent last week, and also the highest this year.

The treasury bill yield rate is widely regarded as indicative of what has to be paid for the highest quality of short term investment.

Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, called this week for a move towards lower interest rates. The bank is reported to have called in the chartered banks earlier in the week and asked them to cut the rates they were paying on short-term deposits.

YIELDS DOWN

The central bank's average of market yields on seven long-term government bonds eased down this week to 6.32 per cent on Nov. 1, from 6.36 per cent Oct. 25 and 6.45 per cent Oct. 18. The latter was an all-time peak.

Meanwhile, the public money supply continued to expand. Currency in circulation and chartered bank deposits held by the general public rose to $23,847,000,000 on Oct. 25, up $107,000,000 in the week for the record, and up $3,336,000,00 in the year.

Government of Canada deposits in the chartered banks fell to $55,000,000 on Oct. 25, the lowest point in at least seven years. Finance Minister Sharp has been deliberately using up government deposits to finance this year's spending.

The government deposits were down $168,000,000 in the week and down $429,000,000 from a year earlier.

Personal savings deposits in the chartered banks rose to $11,642,000,000 on Oct. 25, up $19,000,000 for the week and $1,269,000,00 in the year from Oct. 26, 1966.

As of Nov. 1, the chartered banks had $1,547,000,000 in cash reserves, which was 7.09 per cent of their Canadian dollar deposit liabilities. They are currently required to hold 6.98 per cent in their reserves.

The Bank of Canada reported that on Nov. 1 it was engaged in transactions, still to be completed, which would add $125,700,000 to the chartered banks' cash reserves.

These transactions were the repurchase of treasury bills which had been sold to the chartered banks during the previous week to help them manage their cash reserves.

Investors Bewildered By Action

The confusion started when the B.C. Securities Commission ordered trading on the stock on the unlisted Vancouver Stock Exchange board to stop Sept. 8.

Jack Van Luven, president of VSE, said the suspension was ordered because available information did not support the price of the stock, which had risen to $4.25 from $1.50. William Irwin, superintendent of brokers for the securities commission, said it was because there was not sufficient stock "to run an orderly market."

Terra president Alvin Harter, of Edmonton, complained. He said the real reason for the suspension was short selling by Vancouver brokers, who found themselves unable and-or unwilling to cover.

On Oct. 26 the suspension was lifted, but the exchange ordered that there was to be no short selling.

Mr. Irwin said Wednesday that his office had consented to re-open trading, but only until short positions incurred before trading ceased were filled.

Mr. Van Luven said he worded his order to resume trading the way he did because he feared if the time limit factor became public, "some sharp operator could feed the stock out a little at a time and drive the price up."

Thursday, Mr. Van Luven said he believes most of the short positions have been covered, but conceded several members have had their fingers burned in the process.

'PALACE REVOLUTION'

Giant Firm Has New Boss

LONDON (CP)—Sir Peter Allen, one of Britain's top management experts who planned to retire this year, will instead take over the chairmanship of the giant Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd. April 1.

In what was described by one newspaper as "a palace revolution," ICI Chairman Sir Paul Chambers decided to step down after eight years as head of the vast international organization. He likely will become chairman of the Royal Insurance Co., a world leader in its field.

Salaries were not disclosed but it is understood the 62-year-old Allen, a familiar figure in Canada, will get about $150,000 a year.

His main job since 1963 was as a deputy chairman of ICI. He also was chairman of the company's Canadian subsidiary, Canadian Industries Ltd. Allen told a press conference Thursday he will leave that appointment.

PROFITS STAGGER

His advance to the chairmanship follows several years of irregular company profits which seemed to parallel the erratic performance of the British economy. The Evening News suggested that Sir Paul, 63, is stepping down two years before normal retirement because of "palace revolution" pressure.

Allen, a broad-shouldered, soft-spoken career chemist and industrialist, has taken a keen interest in Britain's exports and heads the national committee on the exports drive to Canada. He has made many trips across the Atlantic.

He did not say whether he would be able to continue his committee work but he had words of cautious hope about another of his recent projects—the British Week in Toronto last month.

The event seemed highly successful as a trade promotion but "we'll have to wait two years before we can really estimate its significance."

Last week another deputy chairman, Lord Beeching, announced his resignation to become chairman of Associated Electrical Industries Ltd.

Allen said ICI, which produces paints, chemicals and synthetics, has increased its interests in the Canadian and United States markets by "a fair amount."

APPOINTED director of engineering for Columbia Cellulose at the company's head office in Vancouver is George K. O'Neill. He received a degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Missouri and prior to joining Columbia was manager of engineering and maintenance at Boise Cascade in Vancouver, Washington.

U.S. Government 'Sows Wild Oats'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government is literally sowing wild oats in hopes of developing a grain yielding more quality protein than other crops.

These oats were found initially in Israel and later in other Mediterranean countries.

The original reason for bringing the species to the United States was to find sources of resistance to crown rust. But the agriculture department's research service found the wild oats not only disease-resistant but also high in protein content and of high kernel, or groat weight.

Follow-up tests at several state experimental stations showed some of the imported wild oats with protein content running as high as 30 per cent, compared with 18 or 19 per cent for best commercial varieties.

The only drawback is that the wild oats cannot be grown as a crop because the seed shatters before it matures, making it impossible to harvest.

But scientists have found the shattering trait can be bred out by crossbreeding with cultivated varieties.

Barring unforeseen problems in the process of domestication, the next big step will come in about two years, when the progenies from the crossing are analysed to determine whether they are retaining the high protein content and the good balance of amino acid. It could be eight or 10 years before the hybrids are available for commercial production.

U.S. Dollar, Gold Holdings Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Official holdings of gold and U.S. dollars totalled $2,303,400,000 on Oct. 31, an increase of $82,600,000 in the month, the finance department has reported.

In addition, Canada had a net creditor position in the International Monetary Fund of $266,600,000, down $2,000,000 from Sept. 30.

The official holdings are gold and U.S. dollars in the finance ministry, exchange fund account, and the Bank of Canada. The IMF creditor position can be regarded as equivalent to additional exchange reserves.

Exchange reserves thus totalled $2,570,000,000 on Oct. 31, compared with $2,489,400,000 on Sept. 30.

Thomson Plans New Share Issue

TORONTO (CP) — Shareholders of Thomson Newspapers Ltd. will be asked to approve an increase of 400,000 preferred shares in the company's capitalization at a special meeting Nov. 10, the company said Thursday.

Officials said the shares, which will have a par value of $50 each, will help finance the company's purchase of the Brush-Moore newspapers in the United States, which takes effect Dec. 11.

The Brush - Moore holdings consist of 12 daily and six weekly newspapers scattered from Pennsylvania to California.

Power Needs Forecast Cut by Hydro

VANCOUVER (CP) — Predictions of a cutback in the pulp and associated chemical industries have resulted in B.C. Hydro and Power Authority revising downward the projected industrial demand for electricity in 1969.

However, over-all demand over the next 11 years is expected to average 9.1 per cent increase annually.

The authority's commercial services division said its revised forecasts have provided for lower bulk sales to pulp and chemical customers in 1968 and 1969 than had previously been expected.

"However, residential and general electrical sales are continuing to grow at a greater rate than previously anticipated and tend to balance to some extent the cutback in bulk sales," said an official.

"Forecasts for the years after 1969 are a little higher than those prepared last year, based on the assumption that the current slowdown in the pulp and chemical industries is temporary and that the province will continue to experience a healthy economic expansion."

Hydro planners now say the authority will have to supply 28,900,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy in the year ending March, 1978. Current consumption rate is about 11,100,000,000.

Pacific Petroleums Net Earnings Jump

CALGARY (CP) — Pacific Petroleums Ltd. has announced net earnings of $8,154,000 or 39 cents a share in the first nine months of the year compared with $4,299,000 or 20 cents in 1966.

A company release said sales revenue increased to $53,189,000 from $44,824,000 and "there was a levelling-off in operating expenses during the period."

Natural gas output had increased to 257,000,000 cubic feet a day from 205,600,000 and crude oil and gas liquids production rose to an average 40,710 barrels a day from 38,710.

IT'S A FAMILY AFFAIR WHEN YAZ SIGNS PACT

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—Carl Yastrzemski, the slugging star of Boston Red Sox, negotiated a record $224,000 contract last month, the Cumberland Times said today.

Sports editor J. Suter Kegg said in addition to the $100,000 salary for the 1968 season, Yastrzemski was given a contract which also called for:

- $62,000 more for himself, spread over a five-year period.
- $50,000 for his father to act as a Red Sox scout, with amount also spread over a five-year period.
- $12,000 to send a brother to college.

Lamar Is First Of Kind in KC

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Lamar Hunt, owner of Kansas City of the American Football League, has plans to spend more money, making additions to the coming sports complex in Kansas City, than the $43,000,000 Jackson County voted for it.

Dutton Brookfield, chairman of the Jackson County sports authority, said Thursday in a speech that Hunt hopes to lease the sports complex from the county and then acquire additional land for a car racing track, a space needle restaurant, and a family entertainment centre of the Disneyland type.

Under Hunt's proposal, still in the preliminary stage, he would form an operating company and agree to pay some $50,000,000 for a 99-year lease on the two-stadium complex, Brookfield said.

"I think it will be hard for Jackson County to turn down a man with that kind of money to spend," said Brookfield, who emphasized that he was speaking only for himself. "I haven't seen any Lamar Hunts around Kansas City before and I've been here 49 years.

Brookfield said a counter proposal is being prepared to submit to the owner of the Chiefs which would lead the whole site to Hunt but would provide assurance that an attractive lease would be made to any prospective owner of the new Kansas City American League baseball club that will begin play here in 1969.

REACHING HIGHER . . .

. . . That's ambition of University of Victoria team when Jayvees entertain North Shore in two-game Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League series at the weekend. Standing tall on attack are Stan Piper (left) and John Levering, both over six-four. Levering scored 25 points in game last weekend. Jayvees and North Shore both are winless after two starts, hope to move higher up ladder after meeting Saturday (8 p.m.) and Sunday (1 p.m.) at Uvic gym.

'Depression' Body-Checks Toronto Ace

By The Canadian Press

Frank Mahovlich, the big man in the Toronto Maple Leafs' attack, has been grounded again by a mysterious illness.

His team-mates never have been healthier.

The Maple Leafs, playing without ailing Mahovlich, trampled Detroit Red Wings 9-3 Thursday night for their fourth National Hockey League victory in the last five starts.

Mahovlich, the club's leading scorer, was left behind in a Toronto hospital—reported to be suffering from depression and tension—when the Leafs travelled to Detroit following Wednesday night's 5-0 victory over Montreal.

ROOKIE DOES JOB

But rookie Wayne Carleton, filling in for the Big M, picked up a goal and two assists while George Armstrong and Brian Conacher each tallied twice as Toronto halted the Red Wings' four-game winning string with the biggest scoring spree of the young season.

Chicago Black Hawks downed Los Angeles Kings 3-1 and Minnesota North Stars topped Philadelphia Flyers 3-1 in the only other games on Thursday's schedule.

Mahovlich, hospitalized for a month three years ago with what was unofficially described as fatigue, became ill Wednesday night after a three-point performance against Montreal. He was taken to a hospital and will not be allowed to see visitors, according to Dr. Hugh Smythe, the Leafs' physician.

HAS FAST START

The 29-year-old Toronto left-winger was off to the best start of his 11-year NHL career, with four goals and seven assists in nine games.

Bobby Hull was flying in the Black Hawk victory, scoring a goal and an assist to take over the league scoring leadership with 15 points on 10 goals and five assists.

Hull got scoring help from Ken Wharram and Doug Jarrett. Bill Flett was the only Los Angeles player to beat Chicago goalie Denis Dejordy, although the Kings outshot the Hawks 28-17.

Ron Ellis, Mike Walton, Pete Stemkowski and Dave Keon also scored for Toronto. Gordie Howe tallied twice for Detroit with Bruce MacGregor getting the other.

RUTLEDGE INJURED

In Philadelphia, Andre Boudrias, Wayne Connelly and Ted Taylor scored for Minnesota. Gary Peters scored for Philadelphia in the first period to give the Flyers a 1-1 tie.

The results didn't change the standings with Los Angeles still in front of the Western Division by a point over Pittsburgh Penguins and New York Rangers two points ahead of Detroit in the Eastern Division.

But the loss could be serious for Los Angeles as goalie Wayne Rutledge was removed midway through the first period following a goalmouth scramble. He suffered a possible broken nose.

Terry Sawchuk replaced the injured goalie and allowed the winning and clinching Chicago goals.

SELBY OUT 6-8 WEEKS

The Philadelphia defeat was a costly one for the Flyers who lost left-winger Britt Selby for six to eight weeks with a shoulder separation.

Bernie Geoffrion of New York Rangers was released from a Long Island hospital Thursday and is recovering from a severe digestive upset that developed last Friday. Depending on the result of tests Monday or Tuesday, the 36-year-old veteran hopes to be back on skates early in the week.

All teams are idle tonight. Saturday New York is in Toronto, Philadelphia is at Montreal, Detroit is in St. Louis to play the Blues, Pittsburgh is in California against the Seals and Los Angeles is in Minnesota.

Sunday, the Canadiens are in Philadelphia, Toronto plays the Bruins in Boston, Los Angeles is in Detroit and Chicago in Oakland against the Seals.

DECIDER . . .

Lowly Lions On Spot

By The Canadian Press

In the Western Football Conference's final weekend of its regular schedule, the Saskatchewan Roughriders must have the help of British Columbia Lions and B.C. needs help from Saskatchewan.

Outcome of the league's last two games—Calgary at B.C. Saturday and Saskatchewan at Winnipeg Sunday—will decide the first and last-place teams in the WFC.

Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan are tied for first and Winnipeg leads B.C. by one point at the other end of the standings.

ANOTHER 'IF'

If B.C. wins or ties against Calgary Saturday, Saskatchewan can grab first place and the bye into the best-of-three WFC final by defeating the Blue Bombers the next day.

A B.C. win coupled with a Winnipeg loss would move the Lions into fourth place in the final standings.

The only club with a dispassionate outlook on the weekend games is Edmonton, in third place. The Eskimos will meet the second-place club in a sudden-death semi-final.

In the event the bottom clubs upset Calgary and Saskatchewan, the Stampeders would be awarded first place on the strength of their two wins in three meetings with the Roughriders this year.

A PASSING ERA

The weekend could also be the last go-round for two of the country's all-time great quarterbacks—Bernie Faloney of B.C. and Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg.

There has been speculation the two former Grey Cup opponents—Faloney when he was at Hamilton, Ploen with Winnipeg—are playing their last seasons.

Both have experienced disappointing seasons, with their teams finishing out of the playoffs.

Faloney, however, has been playing well lately and Ploen has let it be known he doesn't want to retire on a sour note.

RIDERS LAND BACK

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference have signed Thomas Haggerty, six-foot, 200-pound halfback from Columbia University for a five-day tryout.

FINES, SUSPENSIONS

Sparkle-Lacking Stars Under Fire

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Poor play against Pittsburgh Wednesday night resulted in fines against several Minnesota North Star hockey players.

General manager and coach Wren Blair also announced Thursday that centre Murray Hall was suspended indefinitely after being ordered to the dressing room in the second period.

Names of those fined and amounts levied was not disclosed.

The Penguins beat the North Stars 4-1 in what Blair called "probably the worst effort extended by any team I've ever coached in hockey.

"If this continues, I'm calling up John Muckler from Memphis to coach this team and I'll hit the road full time to round up some new talent.

"Every team loses games in the National Hockey League, but the least a team can do is lose with dignity. We didn't do that."

Blair said that Hall "didn't even want the puck" in Wednesday's game.

Killarney Extends North Shore Skein

Victoria Chinooks want to keep a streak going.

University of Victoria Jayvees hope to end one.

Both clubs will be in action this weekend in the Inter-City Junior Basketball League with Chinooks putting their record of four successive victories on the line at Vancouver against Killarney.

Jayvees have no wish to extend their skein. They have lost all four starts, but this time they will be going against North Shore Mountaineers, who have started five times and are also winless.

Both Jayvees and Mountaineers are planning to hit the win column when they clash at the Uvic gymnasium Saturday night at 8. The same clubs will go at it again on the same floor at 1 Sunday afternoon, prior to a Victoria Senior League doubleheader.

North Shore's fifth loss arrived Friday night at Vancouver, when Killarney took a tense, 54-53 decision to climb within two points of the co-leaders—Chinooks and Vancouver CYO.

JUMP MARK TIED

Rider Was Fooled By Old Minstrel

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Steinkraus is not one who surprises easily. He's been riding horses for 37 of his 42 years and figures few horses around can fool him.

"But," he said today, "Bold Minstrel did. We've had the horse on the U.S. equestrian team for two years and I never thought much of him as a Puissance high jumping mount."

But before a crowd of 11,000 in the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden Thursday night, Bold Minstrel, one of the oldest members of the U.S. equestrian team, cleared seven feet 3 inches to tie the 24-hour-old Garden record which was set by Dear Brutus Wednesday in an open jumper class.

There were only three heights in the Puissance over the Great Wall. It started at 5-8, went to 6-8 and then to 7-3. It was a precedent-shattering move by Arthur McCashin, the course designer and himself a former U.S. equestrian team rider.

BOLD MOVE

Usually, the wall is raised about three inches at a time.

"The idea," said Steinkraus, "was not to wear the horses out jumping at lower levels. Of course, you've got to be certain you have good Puissance horses in the event or you could look pretty foolish when they all miss it."

The win was the third for the U.S. in four international jumping events.

Bucks Blank Drake Hotel

Ingraham Buckaroos collected their fourth straight Stuffy McGinnis Hockey League victory Thursday night at Memorial Arena as they blanked Drake Hotel 2-0 on goals by Paul Moretti and Vic Sage.

In another game, Gil Grant fired three goals to enable Victoria Machinery Depot to salvage a 6-6 tie with Victoria Press, which got two tallies from Keith Wilson.

Button Battles To Start Sunday

The button battles, one of the highlights of the Victoria District Golf Committee's winter schedule, will get under way at Victoria Golf Club at 12 noon on Sunday.

A Gorge Vale pairing will play Uplands' team in the first match of the season.

Former Swim Champ New Coach at YMCA

A former Canadian swimming champion has taken over coaching duties at the Victoria YMCA pool. Ken Hurn has replaced Al Aylward, who now operates the new pool at Colwood.

Hurn, connected with YMCA activities for more than 20 years, was one of the outstanding swimming stars developed by Archie McKinnon.

Specializing in freestyle and backstroke events, he won the Canadian 50-yard freestyle championship, swam in the winning medley relay team and placed third in the 50-yard backstroke in 1944.

Hurn is now vice-principal of Willows elementary school. He was associate physical director of the Austin YMCA in Chicago from 1946 to 1948, before returning to Victoria, where he has been teaching for the past 17 years.

Eight Records Tumble In Oak Bay Swim Meet

Contestants churned up eight meet records and tied one at the Crystal Garden Thursday night at the Oak Bay High School inter-house swimming meet.

Records were set in the senior boys' and senior girls' 200-yard relays with times of 2:03.6 and 2:08.7, respectively.

Individual record setters were:

Lee Jones in the junior novice girls' 50-yard freestyle with 33.1 seconds; Ken Munn, 24.2 seconds in the senior boys' 50-yard freestyle; Peter Hall, 37.6 seconds in the junior boys' novice 50-yard backstroke; Gail Gillespie, 39.7 seconds in the junior girls' novice 50-yard backstroke Laurie Paul, 33.6 seconds in the junior girls', 50-yard backstroke; Mary Pat Pumfrey, 36.4 seconds in the junior girls' 50-yard breaststroke.

Senior girls' relay was won by House III and senior boys' was won by House IV, for the record times.

Anne McMillan tied the junior girls' novice 50-yard breaststroke mark with a time of 47.1 seconds.

In total points, House III finished second with 149, House IV had 110 points and House I collected 66 points.

Tyee Ballhawks Plan to Put Apaches on Ground

Four swift young ballhawks are planning to make Apaches crawl on the turf Saturday night at Royal Athletic Park.

If Dave Dillon, Tom Foster, Jim Whitmore and Jerry Thatcher have their way, San Jose Apaches will decide interception dangers are too great to go for long yardage on passes when they tackle Victoria Tyees in a Continental Football League game.

Those four will be operating as defensive halfbacks when the Tyees start at 8 p.m. in a bid for their third successive triumph in the league's western division.

Since Thatcher joined their ranks a few weeks ago, the quartet has become one of the toughest pass-defence units in the circuit. Their tasks Saturday won't be easy ones since Charlie Green, the man who flings football for San Jose, is a slick thrower who has made his tosses good for 1,241 yards and eight touchdowns this season.

However, they think they have a chance to make Green abandon ideas of aerial glory and force the San Jose pivot to go mainly with a ground game.

Dillon, a 185-pounder who played with University of Washington last year, is shaping up as a prime candidate to help the Tyees carve out revenge for a 29-2 defeat at San Jose back on Sept. 9, when the Victoria club was operating as the Steelers.

Quick, with good anticipation and sure hands, the hard-tackling Dillon has become the anchor of the defensive backfield.

Also owning the same ballhawking enthusiasm as Dillon and also willing to hit rival ball-carriers are Whitmore, Thatcher and Foster, the biggest touchdown threat among Tyee defenders.

It was Foster, a North Arizona State University product who has run 100 yards in 9.6 seconds, who started the division-leading Orange County Ramblers on their way to a 16-14 upset defeat here on Oct. 14 when he intercepted a first-quarter Rambler pass and zipped 34 yards for a touchdown.

Working on defence with Foster, Dillon, Whitmore and Thatcher Saturday will be Luke Novelli, Jerry Williams, Fred Forsberg, Dick Moreno, Mose Watkins, Glen Gardner, Wendell Jones and Ron Corbett, a newcomer from Washington Redskins.

Available to coach Don McKeta for offensive toil will be quarterbacks Terry Durham and Frank Etter; fullbacks Bill Thomson and Weldon Rutledge, a former St. Louis Cardinal; halfbacks Steve Jones and Lloyd Owens; flankers Steve Bramwell and Hayward Williams; ends Bruce Kramer and Dick Zampese, and linemen Ben Hammond, Terry Enos, Kurt Gegner, Malcolm Williams, Tom Bishop, Bob Coutts and Keith Roundy.

Apaches are currently in second place, a position the Tyees, now in fifth spot, hope to occupy before the season ends.

To get there, the Victorians have to win Saturday.

Colony Sharp—Rivals Sharper

Colony Inn snipers rattled basketballs through hoops for an impressive total of 82 points Thursday at Lansdowne Junior High School but the shooting spree wasn't enough to crack the winning streak of Independents.

PLAYING TONIGHT with grads in "homecoming" basketball game against current Oak Bay High School team will be Bob Burrows, who was member of Canada's hoop team at Pan-American Games last summer. Game at school gym will start at 9, following preliminary game at 7:30.

Getting even sharper shooting efforts from coach Darrell Lorimer, Mike Gallo and Bill Spotswood, Independents scampered to their fifth successive victory in the Victoria Senior Basketball League by shooting down the Colony crew 99-82.

In the other game of a twin bill, Farmer Construction got its second win of the campaign and handed Red Lion Inn a fifth straight defeat by clipping the Lions 63-52.

Lorimer was a leader all the way for Independents while Gallo and Spotswood took turns at keeping him company. Lorimer clicked for 23 points in the opening half while Spotswood was dunking 17.

FREE-SHOT ACCURACY

Lorimer, who cashed in on 12 of 13 free shots, finished with 42 points and Spotswood collected 23.

Jim Cunningham (20 points) was the Colony point leader and he got most of his help from Dave Emery (14) and Wayne Allen (13).

Jack Lusk did his best for Red Lion, rapping in 23 points, but Jordan Ellis matched the effort for Farmers and George Brice (13) and Fred Gubbels (12) provided the difference for the construction gang.

COLT KICKER CARD CATCH

BALTIMORE (AP)—Alex Hawkins, split end and kicking specialist for Baltimore Colts of the National Football League, faces disciplinary action today after he was arrested at an early-morning poker game in the rear of a suburban barber shop.

Others, including Bert Bell, Jr. former business manager of the Colts and son of the late commissioner of the NFL, also were arrested. All were released on $55 bond for preliminary hearing Nov. 17.

BOWLER OF THE WEEK

Latest winner of crest that is awarded by Victoria Daily Times to "Bowler - of - the - Week" is June Peddlesden. She topped women's fivepin division with fine 210-364-253—827 series in Major League at Gibson's Recreation. Presentation of crest was instigated this season in competition that also will declare, in May rolloffs, a "Bowler-of-the-Year" in four divisions.

Curling Favorites Hit Winning Form

VANCOUVER — Former world curling champions all showed their best style Thursday in the opening rounds of the 32-rink Evergreen Tournament of Champions.

Calgary's Ron Northcott, 1966 Scotch Cup winner, won his first two games, defeating Neil Eyben of Surrey 7-6 and then tripping Ernie Strosden of Prince George 9-5.

Hec Gervais of Edmonton, Vancouver's Lyall Dagg and Bruce Roberts of Seattle were other world champs who won, each scoring single wins. Gervais drubbed Howie Christopherson of Vancouver 9-4, Dagg edged clubmate Jack Arnett 6-5 and Roberts tripped Dave Patterson of Courtney 8-4.

Duncan's Glen Harper, two-time provincial titleholder, split his first two games. He defeated tough Hersh Lerner of Winnipeg, 6-5, then bowed to Ozzie Isfield of North Vancouver, 8-4.

Arnie Stumbles In Sand Traps

HONOLULU (AP)—"Those sand traps killed me," said Arnold Palmer. The Hawaiian trade winds killed a bunch more.

That gave him the first round lead in this $100,000 tournament, over two fellows hardly anyone had heard of it, Jim Grant and John Felus, who had 69s.

Grant, a recent graduate of the PGA school, is in his second tournament. Felus, smallest player in the field at 5-4, has been around a little longer but has never won more than $900.

Palmer, who took most of the gallery of about 8,000 with him around the tropical course, had an even par 72 that he said "should have been a 68."

COULDN'T MISS—BUT

"I birdied the 14th to go three under," he said, "and I figured there was no way I could miss 68. Then I hit the trap on the 16th, tried a fancy pants shot and left it in there. My next one was long and I two-putted.

"On the very next hole I did it again. . . ."

George Archer had 70, as did New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles.

The brisk trade winds blew scores into the high 70s for some of the best known players.

Gay Brewer, winner here in 1965 and runnerup last year, had 76. Defending champion Ted Makalena had 78. Chi Chi Rodrigues went to 79. Tony Jacklin of England had 76.

On Saturday, Nanaimo goes against St. Louis College at 7:30, and Claremont plays Chemainus at 9:00.

RED SOX RIGHTHANDER A.L.'s TOP MOUNDSMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Lonborg, whose 22 victories helped Boston Red Sox capture their first American League pennant in 21 years, was named winner today of the Cy Young Award as the circuit's outstanding pitcher.

The 25-year-old righthander collected 18 of the 20 votes. Joe Horley, Chicago White Sox' righthander, was named on the other two ballots.

Sandy Koufax, of the Los Angeles Dodgers, the winner in 1963, also took it in 1965 and 1966, retiring after the latter campaign.

Bosox Boss Accepts Blame for Bobble

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox manager Dick Williams says he was wrong in not telling Sal Maglie that he was replacing him as pitching coach.

"I was wrong not telling him myself that I was changing my pitching coach," Williams said in a story published in the Boston Globe today.

Williams was in Singer Island, Palm Beach Shores, Fla., when interviewed. His remarks were in response to sharp criticism of him from Sal Maglie, one-time star pitcher for New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I have great respect for Sal Maglie as a pitcher and as a gentleman. But I made a decision to change coaches so Sal had to go," Williams said.

"I am sorry that Sal feels that way," he said after listening to a report of Maglie's comments.

"I don't want to get into any session with Sal," he said. "As for lacking courage—well, I made an error in not calling Sal to tell him he was through."

Maglie blasted Williams Wednesday on several counts, including claims that Williams used poor judgment in the seventh World Series game.

The usually quiet Maglie spoke from a hospital room in Niagara Falls, N.Y., where he is in traction for treatment of a neck injury suffered in an automobile accident in Buffalo last month.

Maglie said Williams "never listened to me, including during the seventh World Series game when Jim Lonborg was pounded by the victorious St. Louis Cardinals before being relieved.

"It was obvious Lonborg didn't have it. Williams should have gotten him out sooner, and I told him so. It was a crime that he let a man who'd done such a great job for him all season take a pounding like that. It was degrading," Maglie said.

As for his own situation, Maglie said Williams told him after the last Series game: 'I'll be talking to you.' "

"I'm still waiting," the former pitching great said. "He's never had the courage or decency to tell me I was fired."

Claremont Rated Tourney Favorite

Claremont, undefeated leader of the Inter-High School Girls' Volleyball League, is rated the team to beat in the Vancouver Island championship tournament, scheduled Saturday at Mount View High.

Claremont's record in the Victoria league now stands at six victories in six starts after drubbing Mount View 15-2, 15-0 Wednesday.

For the Island tourney, 13 teams will be divided into four sections for round-robin competition. Top clubs from each section will advance into knockout play.

Swatting starts at 10 a.m. and the championship final is expected to be played about 5:30 p.m. The winner will enter the provincial tournament in Victoria Nov. 17 and 18.

Competing with Claremont Saturday will be Qualicim, Gulf Islands, Campbell River, Nanaimo, Ladysmith, Cowichan, St. Ann's, Mount Douglas, Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Mount View and Victoria High.

FOR NFL PLAYERS

Teamsters' Affiliation In Invitation

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bernie Parrish, former Cleveland Browns player, said Thursday he is sending to all National Football League players an invitation to join a union affiliated with the Teamsters.

Invitations already have gone out to Cleveland Browns players accompanied by a 16-page letter criticizing NFL owners and the NFL Players Association. The union would be called the American Federation of Professional Athletes.

Parrish proposed a $15,000 minimum salary for the pro players and $500 per game for exhibition games.

The present NFL minimum is $12,000, and players get $10 a day during the pre-season campaigning.

Parrish's letter charged that Creighton Miller, former Notre Dame player and now legal counsel for the Players Association, hasn't fought hard enough for the players. He called the association a "company union".

Parrish said if he gets the necessary 30-per-cent approval from the players, he will file with the National Labor Relations Board.

Asked if he was inviting American Football League players to join, Parrish said, "not at this time."

SWIRLING CARPET

What Is So Restless As a Leaf in Autumn?

By ELIZABETH FORBES

"This is the season of the leaves," burbles the nature lover who sees nothing but the form and color of maples and oaks.

"The harvest of the leaves," repeat the gardeners who look upon the fluttering yellows and browns as autumn gold.

Forbes

The leaves!" most home owners echo tersely as they get out their rakes and start gathering them into heaps to be carted to the foot of the lot for burning.

All the time while people paint and sketch, make compost heaps and light pungent fires, the leaves keep swirling down until the trees are bare and winter has truly set in.

In my friend Mary's garden there are a number of ancient oak trees that add much to its beauty and in a summer like the one just past, bring cool shade.

At this time of year however, there is a never-ending carpet of leaves under those trees.

"If I could gather them up and know that would be the end, it wouldn't be so bad," my friend has been heard to say. "But from the time the first leaf falls in the middle of August until the end of November it's a case of rake and pile, rake and burn and rake and pile again."

A few days back, after one of our autumn windstorms, there was a particularly heavy fall of leaves. So she took time one afternoon to make a start on gathering them for burning.

She raked steadily for well over two hours and when she stopped she had one part of the garden completely clear of leaves.

Later, when her daughter came home from the office, my friend boasted of the work she had accomplished. The daughter looked slightly puzzled.

"Where did you say you worked?" she asked. Her mother explained.

"You're wrong," said the daughter, "that part of the garden is still ankle deep in leaves."

An evening breeze had sprung up and swirled more leaves off the trees, from other parts of the lawn and even from the next garden.

"It all had to be done over again next day," my friend groaned.

Right now, this story could be repeated by thousands of home owners. It's the season of the leaves!

★ ★ ★

When the sun shines and the trees are etched in copper-brown fire we forget the work they entail. When the sun hides itself and the autumn mists creep about, and the winds blow fiercely as they have done recently and will again, the whole thing comes into sharp focus.

The leaves, blown down in showers of color by the wind, rushing, careering, swirling up and down, compel attention and demand work.

Our gardens, too, are beginning to take on the hush of November. Flowers are rain-streaked and a bit battered. Colors are washed out and muted. Stems are bent toward the wet ground and there is a general air of patient waiting for the end of a cycle and a winter rest.

Roses are mere ghosts of their former selves. They still hold their sweetness but it is tinged with regret. Petals are soggy with moisture and when they drop they are like so many colored tears shed for the summer that is past.

Rock gardens are bare of color and the blue gentians have gone to sleep. Here and there tiny violas show purple heads but they, too, speak of the summer that is gone.

The autumn daisies in smoke-blue rows,
Shake out their petals round.
But the dahlias regal in crimson and cream
Are proclaiming that theirs is the hour supreme,
Of which the roses can only dream."

Yes! It is the dahlias—and the chrysanthemums—hour! At present they are the most radiant of all the flowers. They enjoy this late autumn weather and unless there is a heavy frost, they will glorify it with their fire until the end of November.

U.S. Gifts Surprise Maritime Museum

On Monday curator J. W. D. Symons opened a gift from a Portland admirer—a picture of the battleship Oregon in the Esquimalt graving dock about 1895.

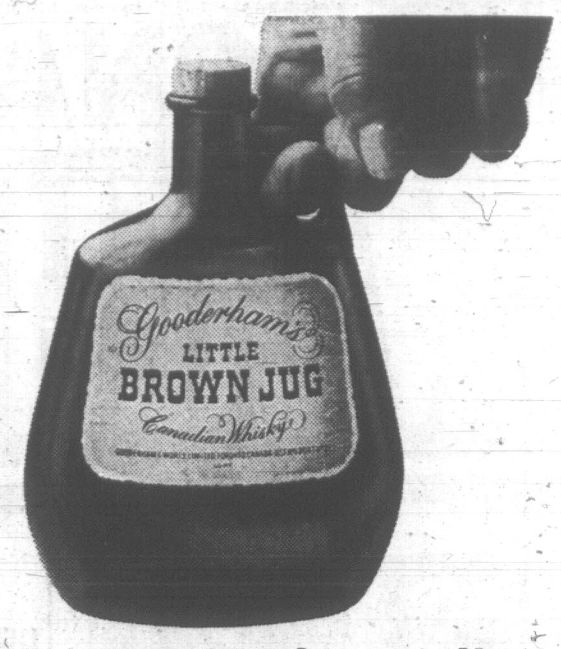

It was at least the 12th time this year that the museum in Bastion Square has received a gift from the United States.

"It always surprises me to find out how many people on the American west coast not only know we exist but really take an interest in us," said Col. Symons.

From someone living in the San Francisco area this summer, the museum received a china cup and egg cup that once belonged to the Royal Navy.

The sword has been identified as that of an officer of the Royal Navy, about 1810 or 1812.

Let Graduates Rate Teachers -Professor

By BARBARA BLACK

MONTREAL (CP) — A University of Toronto professor suggested Thursday that an evaluation of university teachers be prepared by recent graduates from across Canada, as the best means of improving the lecture system.

Dr. Edward Sheffield, vice-president of the University Presidents of Ontario, made the proposal at a workshop on teaching at the annual convention of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada.

He said graduates would submit a brief essay on their favorite lecturer during their years at university. The top teachers, based on the essays, would be asked to submit essays of their own on their methods of teaching.

Earlier Thursday a surprise announcement of a $150,000 grant by the Ford Foundation to finance a major study on university-government relations was made at a news conference.

HEARINGS IN PUBLIC

The one-year study, to be undertaken as soon as a three-man commission has been named, will receive briefs and hold public hearings to determine the proper limits of university autonomy and government control.

The project was proposed to the Ford Foundation and the provincial departments of education by representatives of the Canadian University Teachers Association, the Canadian Union of Students, the Quebec General Union of Students and the AUCC.

In a paper delivered to the conference Thursday morning, Dr. Desmond Pacey, dean of graduate studies at the University of New Brunswick, said:

"Nowhere in English Canada is there the systematic effort to write the scholarly biographies and edit the authoritative texts that is being carried on at the University of Ottawa, Montreal and Laval."

As well as going below the surface of English-Canadian literature, Dr. Pacey said, there is a need for far greater attention to comparative studies of English and French literature in Canada.

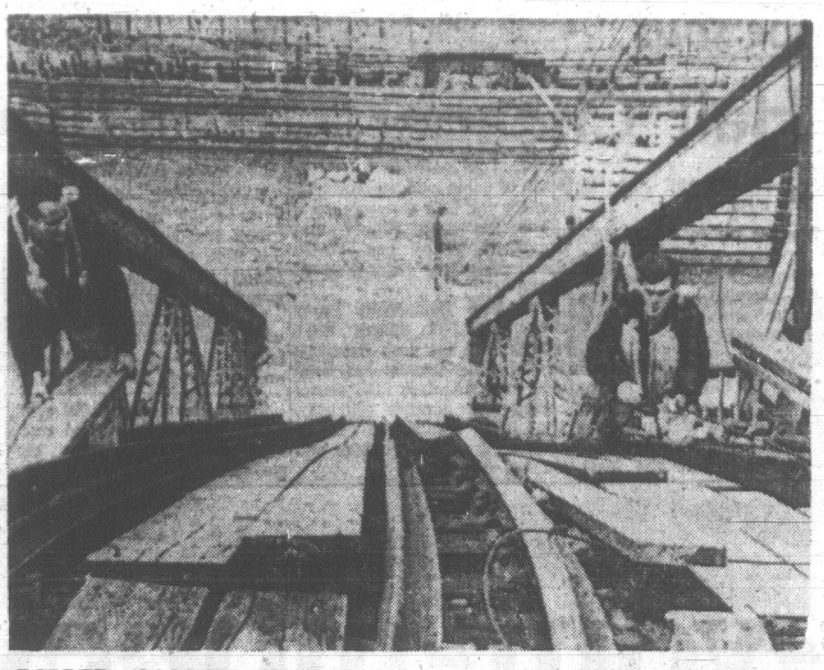

He urged delegates to further "Canadianize" their humanities programs by placing a greater emphasis on Canadian literary works.

DID TESTING KILL ALARM?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A city fire warden told an inquest jury Wednesday that a fire alarm which failed to work when fire broke out at an old people's rest home Friday may have been tested too much.

Lt. Cy Bayntun said the fire alarm system at the Finnish-Canadian rest home was tested regularly and the last time it was tested could have drained the battery.

"Once the battery is dead the fire alarm will not work," he told an inquest into the death of Hans Peterson, 77, who died in hospital following last Friday's fire.

LBJ Eyes Votes, Arab Charges

CAIRO (AP)—A frequent spokesman for President Nasser accused President Johnson today of deliberately blocking a Middle East settlement. His accusation came 24 hours after a meeting between Nasser and a White House envoy.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, a confidant of Nasser and editor-in-chief of the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram, said Johnson cares little for the Arabs and hopes the Jewish vote will re-elect him.

He said the United States is the only power that can achieve a decisive solution to the crisis in the Middle East, but "it appears the United States will not play this role in the foreseeable future."

Haikal's editorial followed the departure from Cairo of Robert B. Anderson, a special presidential envoy who Al Ahram said carried an unspecified feeler to Nasser. He presented it Tuesday, then got Nasser's reaction Thursday, the newspaper said.

Johnson administration sources in Washington said earlier that Anderson's mission was to determine if Egypt would engage in some form of negotiations with Israel through a United Nations mediator.

Because a Middle East political solution seems unlikely, Heikal wrote, "The Arabs might revert to non-political means to settle the crisis." This appeared to be a threat of renewed military action.

Fire Marshall Probes Fire

Provincial fire marshall's office is still investigating the cause of a fire at William Head Minimum Security Prison earlier this week.

A guard spotted the fire about 8:15 p.m. Monday and within 15 minutes the inmate fire brigade had put the blaze out.

Medicare Delay Hit By Gordon

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Gordon, president of the Privy Council, warned Thursday the Liberal government may lose support of the ordinary people if it backs down on medicare.

Speaking to a group of University of Toronto alumni, he said his government should honor its July 1, 1968, deadline for introduction of a comprehensive medical care plan.

Medicare was a major plank in the Liberal election platform in 1965.

Mr. Gordon said some government programs should be put off in the need to cut federal spending as a step in combatting inflation.

"But when you agree to go through with one, you should live up to it, especially if it was made during an election campaign.

"I believe that if the government and members of Parliament are to retain the confidence of the ordinary people who elect them, then for psychological reasons, as well as others, they must not put off again a program that can mean better health care and the absence of financial worry for so many of our citizens."

NEED NOT FEAR

He said doctors need not fear being treated like civil servants under the medicare scheme.

"They are entitled to be particularly well remunerated for their sevices. Everyone knows that in their relatively short working lives, the members of the medical profession must not only repay the large sums of money most of them have to borrow for their education but also, to save up for their retirement."

The former finance minister lashed out at British-owned Dominion Steel and Coal Corp., charging that the announced shutdown of its Sydney, N.S., works would not have been carried out in "a rough, brutal 19th Century way" if its owners lived in Canada.

He said he knew nothing of the business reasons which prompted Hawker Siddeley Ltd. to close down Dosco by next April 1.

"But I do question the wisdom of allowing decisions of this importantance . . . to be made by people in other countries."

. . . CBC

Mr. Fairweather snapped that such statements would not help the prime minister in his search for capable men to fill the top positions in broadcasting created in the CBC and in the proposed new regulatory agency, the Canadian Radio Commission.

Outside the House Miss LaMarsh conceded, under questioning by newsmen, that the penetration of Quebec separatists into Radio Canada (the French network of the CBC), could be one aspect she had in mind when she referred to "rotten" management.

She said that this and other faults could not be blamed on the CBC's two top executives although they did have the "ultimate" responsibility.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas asked Miss LaMarsh in the House when she had first learned the CBC management was "rotten." He pointed out that as the minister reporting to Parliament for the CBC she had some responsibility. He wanted to know if she would be more specific and give the Commons more details.

DESK THUMPS

Miss LaMarsh said, "The most efficient course would be for those individuals who have brought me this information to discuss the matter with the new appointees (in the CBC). It is a matter of internal management and should be corrected inside the corporation."

There was loud desk thumping approval from government backbenchers.

Miss LaMarsh asked in a press conference outside the House if she "smeared" the entire CBC management, replied with one word, "Ridiculous."

"How rotten?" she was asked outside the House by the press, "was CBC management?"

She explained, "There are some appalling things going on, but only in 'some' segments of management."

She was asked what she was going to do about it.

NEW PEOPLE

(She has promised that as soon as the new broadcasting legislation is passed the new CBC president and executive vice-president will be appointed.)

She spoke of "bad bookkeeping" and of "money mismanagement among other things, when she was asked to be more specific. She insisted that she was not pinpointing CBC president Alphonse Ouimet, who is retiring soon, or his senior vice-president.

It was "well known" within the CBC itself and "unhappily to many people outside the corporation, where the trouble lies," she told the impromptu press conference.

'They Never Answer Questions Anyway'

Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—Civil servant lunch hours should be staggered to keep government offices operating without interruption from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., the B.C. Social Credit League was told by its women's auxiliary Thursday.

A resolution passed by 200 auxiliary delegates here said noon closing of provincial offices is an inconvenience and hardship to working people.

Attorny-General Robert Bonner was quoted as saying offices are closed from noon to 1:15 p.m. because government business is so specialized enquirers usually want to speak to only one particular official.

"But this isn't good enough for us because there are a lot of specialized business that remain open all day," said Mrs. Alice Wendt, who presided during the resolutions discussion.

HOTEL TOO RICH FOR SOME

'Socred Hall' Cheaper

By STAFF REPORTER

VANCOUVER—The "fat cat" purrs of Social Credit conventioneers in a downtown hotel here brought yowls of rage today from Saanich and the Island's delegates.

MLA John Tisdalle's constituency association submitted a resolution complaining that the party's annual convention has been held in the Hotel Vancouver (Hilton) too often while a party member's hall could be obtained cheaper.

"Whereas we do not consider the prestige worth the cost, approximately $1,000 per day for the (hotel's) hall and a $5 a plate for the banquet," the preamble said.

It added a suitable hall owned by a Socred located in nearby North Surrey could be had for $150 per day and $2.50 per plate and urged the provincial executive to "investigate the feasibility of using said accommodation for the 1968 convention."

The New Democratic Party convention last spring was moved from the posh Bayshore Inn where it usually has been held to a suburban high school because of similar criticism. That move resulted in general complaints of the primitive and isolated facilities.

'Prevent Coachlines From Using Ferry'

Times Staff Writer

VANCOUVER—Victoria delegates today asked the Social Credit league's annual convention here to prevent Vancouver Island Coachlines from using government ferries.

They presented a resolution which noted that B.C. Hydro buses are government-owned and reputed to be losing money.

There are about 152,000 retail stores in Canada — and more than 700,000 Canadians employed in retailing.

But "the coachlines have sold out to 'Coach Trails', an Eastern firm that is interested only in amassing huge profits for its shareholders," the preamble added.

Therefore, the resolution said, the government should give B.C. Hydro "the franchise to transport all passengers from all points on (Vancouver) Island via B.C. Ferries to Vancouver and vice versa."

The more-for-your-money car is here!

Datsun has re-invented the economy import! Compare the features of this dynamic car with anything in (or around) its price bracket. You'll find the new Datsun delivers more safety, more comfort, more reliability and more power. And here's why:

more safety

You can see better from the driver's seat in the new Datsun. The Datsun has increased visibility where it counts by eliminating the no-draft windows. (No longer necessary because of a unique ventilation system.)

Gone with the wind

The hood slopes smartly away so that your view of the road begins just fifteen feet ahead, allowing you that extra split second in an emergency. At night, 'back-up' lights search the driveway for wandering kittens and forgotten toys.

Stopping is quick and positive. All Datsuns have fine braking systems. The Datsun 1600 model has disc brakes up front. Hit them again and again at seventy. They won't fade. They'll bring you to a safe, smooth stop every time.

Disc brakes grip the rim

There's safety inside the car too. Seat belts are standard equipment. The dashboard, sunvisors and even the backs of the front seats are padded. The door locks won't spring, even under extreme pressure. Both front and rear ends of the new Datsun are impact absorbing.

Road-holding ability is exceptional. Longer than previous models, the new Datsun has a wider stance and a lower centre of gravity. (Road clearance, however, is still seven and a half inches . . . ample for Canada's roughest roads.) Big wheels, aided by a great new suspension system, put more tire tread where it counts.

The Datsun's new suspension system is two thousand dollars out of its class. It is independent on all four wheels making the car as sure-footed as a cat. The front coil springs are built into high-mounted, telescopic shock absorbers. Angled up and back to roll with the punch of a bump, they give the car a wonderful floating ride yet hold the wheels firmly in line through a fast corner. A split axle complements the rear suspension. In tight turns, the inside rear wheel won't lift but stays in contact with the road guaranteeing four-wheel traction at all times. A boon in icy conditions!

more comfort

Ingenious interior planning has given the Datsun true 'big-car' comfort. For example, the window glass is curved. RESULT: More shoulder room. There's also more leg room. (You can adjust the front seat a full six inches.) The attractive vinyl upholstery covers seats that are as soft and springy as you could wish.

But there's much more. Wait until you experience the Datsun's new ventilation system. It completely changes the air several times each minute as you drive. With no drafts. In any weather. With all the windows closed! (Cheerful news for non-smokers.) Two adjustable ventilators on the dash panel bring in the fresh air, and neat flow-away outlets in the rear roof pillars take out the used air. Enjoy your conversation or the radio, there's no road noise to bother you . . . no extremes of sweltering in summer or freezing in winter.

Never drafty — Never stuffy

On really chilly days, the Datsun's heater comes into its own. It is designed to handle Canada's severe winters . . . fills the car with a wrap-around flow of warm air that quickly clears frosted windows.

The new Datsun is incredibly silent. The quiet-running engine sits on noise-proof mountings. There are rubber mounts on the exhaust and insulation fused into the flooring. The car has the same five-bearing crankshaft you'll find in 150 m.p.h. racing cars for the simple reason it reduces vibration. With the new Datsun, 'economy import' gets a whole new meaning.

more reliability

Datsun is the most reliable small car on the road today. In 1967, it won the manufacturer's trophy in the Canadian National Rally Championship. And that's tough competition. (Along the way, Datsun beat all comers in the Canadian Winter Rally and took the team prize, as well as 1st, 2nd and 4th in class in the Shell Centennial 4000 Rally.) If you expect one hundred thousand mile reliability, you won't be disappointed.

more power

The new Datsun rides like a limousine and performs like a sports car. Ask any mechanic about its advanced slant overhead camshaft engine. This type of engine has fewer moving parts; is more efficient and flexible to bring you gas economy with powerful acceleration. Routine maintenance is practically nil. You change the oil in the transmission every 24,000 miles and never need a grease job.

There are two standard shift Datsuns to choose from. The thrifty Datsun 1300 has a three-speed, synchromesh box and 77 h.p. The bucket seat, stick-shift, 96 h.p. Datsun 1600 is ready to rally in any company, with a four-speed synchromesh box and 100 m.p.h. performance.

Plus an automatic. The Datsun 1600 is available with the world famous Borg-Warner automatic transmission for effortless city driving. # Johnson Seeking More U.S. Funds?

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec next week makes a four-day trip to New York City where he will meet what a government spokesman described as "top-notch Wall St. financiers."

The premier's office says the visit beginning next Wednesday arises from long-standing invitations originating in New York resulting from contacts the premier made at Expo 67.

But a source close to Mr. Johnson said the premier plans to use the occasion to hold a series of private informal talks with financiers who make up the world's leading money market.

Mr. Johnson has made other similar visits to New York, major money market for bonds of Hydro-Quebec which requires $200,000,000 of the province's projected $450,000,000 in borrowing this fiscal year.

Visits to the leading bond market are virtually routine affairs for provincial premiers whose governments are constantly seeking funds to underwrite economic expansion, but Quebec premiers have their special problems.

Suicide Rates

BRUNSWICK, Me. (AP) — Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire have the highest U.S. suicide rates, a Portland psychologist said Thursday. Dr. Arnold Fuchs, chief psychologist at Maine Medical Centre, said reasons for the high rate are not wholly understood but the many persons living remote from close human contact may be a factor.

Douglas Renews Plea for Prices Review Board

OTTAWA (CP) — NDP Leader T. C. Douglas renewed his appeal Thursday for a prices review board as one means to fight inflation.

He told the biennial convention of the Professional Institute of the Public Service it will take more than the government's massive budget cutting program to solve the inflationary pressures on the Canadian economy.

A prices review board, he said, could find out what is causing the inflation.

By slashing its own spending the federal government is inflicting hardships on those who can afford it least—old age and civil service pensioners.

Some agency has to be set up to ascertain why prices have gone up in the private sector and to investigate "corporate profits over the past five years."

He said it was ridiculous to keep the Canadian dollar pegged at 92.5 cents U.S.

Fall Planting Needs Break From Rain

By HILDA BEASTALL

With any luck in weather gardeners should accomplish most of their fall planting this weekend and next.

In all but unworked clay, the rains of October have drained fairly well. If we have two days in a row without rain, digging and planting must be hurried along in order to benefit from planting this year.

Hilda

This is a good time to put in almost every kind of shrub which will grow here. Those with fine, fibrous roots like rhododendrons, camellias, pieris and skimmias will help to make a bare garden look interesting all winter with their evergreen foliage, and some will bloom as spring approaches.

The leaf-losing or deciduous shrubs can also go in now. Forsythia with yellow flowers in spring; weigelas having pink, white or ruby blossoms in summer; lilacs, deutzias, ceanothuses which have blue or pink flowers, the fragrant mock-orange and butterfly-bush; these are but a few of the ornamental flowering shrubs to beautify our gardens.

Looking around at fall color in the parks and gardens of public buildings, plants will suggest themselves for a certain texture or shape needed in our own garden designs.

Coniferous evergreens in wide range of color tones, shapes and textures add a true western touch to our gardens when mixed with the solidity of broadleaved evergreens like the rhodos.

Make a point of finding out how tall and wide the shrubs will be in 10 to 15 years. Be sure not to plant a 60-foot conifer where it will have to be removed in the near future.

This is rather important when planting in front of the house, or even near it. They cannot be easily pruned like forsythia simply by cutting off the branches.

Any daffodils or others of the narcissi family should be put into the ground at once. And plan to have the last of the tulips in before the end of November.

Fulbright Apologizes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate foreign relations committee has apologized to the government of New Zealand for having said its trade with North Vietnam was eight times as large as its assistance to South Vietnam.

The New Zealand embassy has informed him, the Arkansas Democrat told the Senate, that in the two years ending in April, 1966, its sole exports to North Vietnam were $60,000 worth of tallow. During the same time it gave more than $2,100,000 in assistance to South Vietnam.

"I very much regret the error," Fulbright said.

Arthur Mayse

For a start today I suggest we drop in at Victor Street School for Retarded Children, where Principal Ed Sullivan, five woman teachers and 60 students aged 6 to 19 are approaching afternoon recess.

The rooms with their learning aids are full of sunshine, and the buzz of work in progress provides a comfortable background for conversation.

Mr. Sullivan, who came from England to take over this unit of the Greater Victoria School Board complex when it was completed two years ago, sits behind a desk at least as cluttered as mine. He offers a menthol cigarette from a neat round tin—one of a batch the students are completing for sale at an upcoming bazaar.

A specialist in his field, he has worked extensively with handicapped children. Their greatest problem, he tells me, is to communicate; and here at Victor Street, training in oral communication occupies much of the school day.

These are children who, relatively few years ago, were condemned to the shadows. Through such schools as this, they are being brought into the sunlight where they belong.

Twice a week, the kids sit down to a hot lunch prepared and cooked by advanced pupils. They are taken on frequent class excursions into the outside world—perhaps to Beacon Hill Park or the docks, or to stores whose proprietors have come to recognize them as a well-behaved bunch. The school has no transport: parents drive students to and from school, and for field trips, teachers use their own cars.

Mr. Sullivan is reluctant to deal in such terms as success or failure. I wish, though, that you could talk, as I did, to a father who is grateful beyond words for what Victor Street School is doing to help his child.

I mentioned a bazaar. This is being readied by the parents' auxiliary, and will be held at the school from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday. On sale will be home baking, sewed and knitted articles, white elephant oddments, student-made items, and afternoon tea. Proceeds go to buy playground equipment—slides, swings and the like—which these boys and girls badly need.

To find the school, turn north off Bay along Victor Street to the Denman intersection.

My friend, Alec Merriman, "Mr. Outdoors" to Vancouver Islanders, has written a book that no fisherman should be without.

It is both a how-to and a where-to manual, covering Island waters. The information contained in its 108 well-illustrated, mapped and diagrammed pages has never been compiled before; and Alec imparts it concisely and vividly.

Trout, steelhead, salmon, bass: all are there, along with episodes and anecdotes, rigs, lures and anglers' gimmicks which the author has tested. My own copy goes into my tackle kit, and anyone who tries to snitch it gets the lid slammed on his fingers.

A note to housewives: If your husband has a birthday coming, or if you are lining up Christmas gifts, or if you just entertain a fondness for the guy, get him this book!

Price is $2.95 (worth every nickel of it) and title on the leaping-fish cover, "Outdoors with Alec Merriman". For further details, see today's sport pages.

On Ten Mile Point dwells a householder who likes to have the young ones show up at his door in their quaint Halloween costumes. The goodies he provides are lavish and toothsome, and I understand the trick-or-treaters aren't required to sing for them, either.

Midway through Tuesday evening, he had just closed his door after treating yet another company of spooks when a banging and a clattering assailed his ears.

Flashlight in hand, he stole around back to deal with the ungrateful visitants who were raiding his garbage cans.

Racoons, yet!

LAST OF THE KOOTENAY sternwheelers is recreated in this model of the Moyie going on display at the Maritime Museum in Bastion Square. Museum model maker Andre Christofterson spent seven or eight months "off and on" turning out the replica, said curator Symons. Moyie worked the Kootenay Lakes from 1899 to 1957. Real boat is at Kaslo, run as a museum by the Kaslo Historical Society. She was built in Toronto, originally for the Stikine River, and shipped west in sections, but the gold rush was over by time she arrived so she was assembled at Nelson in 1899.

UNETHICAL FIRMS UNDER FIRE

Victorians Being 'Fleeced'

Greater Victoria residents are being "fleeced by unethical" contractors, the Victoria branch of the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C. said today.

They are paying "thousands of dollars more than they should be by fly-by-night operators who are grossly incompetent tradesmen but very persuasive glib-tongue salesmen," added branch secretary E. J. Phillips in a prepared statement.

"Usually they demand money before the job has even started and more often than not this is the last you see of the money and the contractor

For others, the job is supposedly completed with second-hand materials at a break-neck pace by casual laborers that know a stud only as something you fasten your collar with.

(Studs are upright supports, usually two-by-fours eight feet long and spaced 16 inches on centre).

"There are dozens of bona-fide contractors in Victoria, each performing specifically and ethically within their particular field of endeavor.

"They don't go knocking at your door to solicit business but they are just as eager to satisfy you with a guaranteed job at a competitive price and have built up their business over the years with this basic policy."

At the same time, Jim Moffat, business agent for the Victoria local of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, said he agrees with the comments from the construction association.

He advised those who need construction work done to hire a legitimate contractor using union labor.

Mr. Phillips said if anyone is unsure of a contractor needed for a job, "we will be most pleased to assist you in naming several that you could then choose from."

Mr. Moffat said the carpenters union will be glad to give anyone the names of legitimate contractors "who we can vouch for on their honesty."

Carpenters union vice-president Jim Sawyer said the fleecing extends from home repairs into house building itself.

Since the union announced a free inspection offer on new homes, 12 or 13 cases investigated turned up "some infraction or other."

None of these home builders, he said, was a member of the Amalgamated Construction Association nor had union carpenters been employed.

Free Land Offered

By JIM HUME

Canadian Pacific Railway officials have offered Victoria concessions which amount to free land if the proposed convention centre is built close to the Empress Hotel.

Ald. Percy Frampton, chairman of the special convention centre study committee, said a closed-door session with CPR developers Thursday night brought to light "many good ideas."

"Naturally they were pulling for the convention centre to be located near the Empress," he said. "But it was a good meeting which, while producing nothing concrete, showed us what the CPR will be prepared to do if we decide to locate the convention centre in the Crystal Garden area."

NOT FIRM COMMITMENTS

Ald. Frampton said that while the CPR suggestions were not to be taken as firm commitments it was obvious the officials strongly favored a convention centre located above the existing Empress parking lot and retaining the lot as a parking facility.

"I'm not saying I'm in favor of it, but it is a good idea," the alderman said. "It could tie in with the general development of the area if we decide to tear down the Crystal and sell the land to private developers."

Ald. Frampton said the CPR proposals did not change his thinking on the private capital proposal that a hotel-convention centre complex be built opposite city hall.

LOOK AT ALL SIDES

"But we have to look at all sites closely," he said. "Sometime in the near future we hope to have a similar meeting with the Oxford Leasehold people and get some specific facts and figures from them.

"In fact, we intend to have discussions with all interested parties over the next few months."

Contractor Jailed Two Years

A Victoria contractor who began repairing an apartment house without first asking the owner's permission has been sentenced to two years in the British Columbia penitentiary on a charge of fraud.

Richard S. Scott, 233 Stormont, was sentenced in county court by Judge Montague Drake and ordered to make restitution of $900 to the owner.

Miss Emily M. Donleavy, 96, proprietor of an apartment house at 226 Michigan, said one day last March she heard a lot of banging outside the house and, on investigating, discovered some men were working on repairs to the front porch.

One of them told her some tenants in the building had complained the porch was unsafe and persuaded her to allow them to continue with the repairs. Miss Donleavy said the men represented themselves as A and A Contractors, a Victoria firm then operated by the accused.

Between March 11 and April 15, Miss Donleavy said she paid cheques to the firm amounting in all to $1,234 for repairs to the porch.

Crown prosecutor C. O. D. Branson called evidence to show that Scott received "every penny" of this amount. He also called three tenants of the apartment house who said they were quite satisfied with the porch, had never complained of it and had never asked any contractor to repair it.

Passing sentence on Scott, Judge Drake said:

Permit Values Set New High

Figures released today by city hall show 652 permits issued last month for a total value of $1,497,823 as compared with 491 permits valued at $1,184,942 in October 1966.

The previous October high was set in 1962 when 622 permits generated construction valued at $1,457,447.

The October figures pushed the 10-month total to $19,479,634 —close to $4 million higher than the 12-month total of $15,877,728 recorded in 1965.

New buildings were responsible for the bulk of the increase with $615,600 in new construction under 10 permits.

Ask The Times

Q. In one issue of your paper was an advertisement advising the prohibition of the sale and discharge of firecrackers and another advertising fireworks for sale. Is there a difference between firecrackers and fireworks? M.E.H.

A. Yes. Firecrackers which explode are prohibited. Fireworks which produce colorful displays and do not explode are legal.

'SPOTLESS RECORD' NO HELP

The magistrate said superior courts had made it abundantly clear even if the person involved had an exemplary record that severe punishment is called for because of the effect leniency might have on others.

"The chief justice has said that the predominant factor is the deterrent effect on others."

Police alleged he had in his possession a cigarette which later proved to be marijuana.

"You got this cigarette from a pusher and kept it knowing it was forbidden," said the magistrate.

"I regret having to send you to jail when all my instincts are to a suspended sentence but in view of the Appeal Court rulings, I have no choice."

'Wrong People' Running Universities: CUS Head

By DON VIPOND
Education Reporter

Canadian university education is of poor quality, inaccessible to many and run by the wrong people.

These are the problems being attacked by the Canadian Union of Students, said president Hugh Armstrong, 24, of Ottawa today. A graduate of Carleton University, he is touring western campuses to confer with student leaders here.

"The lecture system was fine before the printed word but it's archaic," he said.

Instead, CUS, which represents about 140,000 university students, would prefer a "system of seminars, tutorials and independent work by the students using the teacher as a resource."

"It's wrong to divide knowledge into narrow unrelated boxes," he said of the system of subject divisions called disciplines.

He noted a UBC experiment has students dealing with subjects like war, the city, education, love and revolution rather than courses like English, sociology or history.

"There's a unity to knowledge which the over-emphasis on unrelated disciplines distorts."

On accessibility he noted 25 per cent of Canadian university students came from the richest six per cent of families. Another 25 per cent comes from the poorest 52 per cent.

CUS sees two barriers—financial and social—to university entrance.

The social barrier refers to the kind of environment a youngster has as he is growing up. Some children suffer a lack of verbal skills and therefore a great disadvantage at school.

'PERPETUATE CLASSES'

"The screening system tends to perpetuate the existing social classes by encouraging kids from working class families, who are said to be 'good with their hands,' to go to vocational school while encouraging middle and upper-class families to get into the academic stream."

Faculties and students must regain control of the universities, said Mr. Armstrong.

"We want elected faculty and students to have the power at the universities and to make policy openly."

'Whizzbangs' Plan Reunion

Veterans of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Mounted Rifles (CEF) will commemorate the 1918 Armistice at a reunion in the Amputees Hall, 1610 Oak Bay Avenue, Thursday at 8 p.m.

In France and Flanders, the 2nd CMR battalions set up an enviable war record and earned the nickname of The Whizzbangs.

HAEGERT TRIES AGAIN FOR SEAT

A retired electronics technician said today he will seek one of the two Victoria seats coming vacant on the Greater Victoria school board.

Joseph Haegert, 65, of 1516 Pembroke, will be making his second bid for a trustee's seat. He was defeated last year.

Teachers are the most important people in the community, he said, but it's time they held the line on wage increases. And education should be made more interesting for the large group of average students.

There are three trustees from Victoria on the nine-man school board and two of them are completing two-year terms. Former chairman John Porteous has said he will seek a fourth term while freshman trustee Dr. Victor Rogers is undecided whether he will run again.

HOVERCRAFT BIDS

Board to Sit Here Nov. 22

The Air Transport Board will consider rival applications to establish the country's first hovercraft service at a meeting in Victoria Nov. 22.

This was disclosed in Edmonton Thursday by C. J. Stringer, an official of Bell Aerosystems of Canada.

The hovercraft service would link Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo and would offer special charters.

Applications have been made by two Vancouver companies, Pacific Hovercraft Limited and Inter-Air Travel Limited. Both companies propose to use the British-built SRN 6 24-passenger hovercraft used for the first time in Canada at Expo 67.

BUYS HOVERCRAFT

Mr. Stringer, in Edmonton to attend the national northern development conference, also said the federal transport department has given approval in principle to purchase of a 38-passenger hovercraft for coast guard service on the west coast.

Larry Slaght, district agent in Victoria for the transport department, said he has heard the hovercraft was being considered but did not know it has been approved.

Advance Poll Attracts Six Votes

Residents on the north end of the Saanich Peninsula will vote Saturday on whether they favor amalgamation of Sidney and North Saanich.

There will only be one polling station in each of the two municipal districts. They will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In North Saanich it will be at the municipal hall, 1620 Mills Road. A sign will be erected directing voters to the building as it's situated back from the road.

A total of 2,295 residents are eligible to vote in the municipality.

In Sidney the polling station will be in the town hall. There are 1,600 eligible voters.

Advance polls were held Thursday in both districts but the ballot boxes won't be opened until after the polling stations close.

Five votes were cast in North Saanich and one in Sidney.

Two Victorians To Judge Dogs

Two Victoria men will judge a sanction match to be held by the Shoreline Kennel Club at Sanscha Hall in Sidney Sunday afternoon.

Club president William Brennan will judge best sporting dog, hound and working dog while Harry Dodds will pick the best from terriers, toys and non-sporting dogs. Mr. Brennan will judge best in show, best puppy and best brace.

This Teacher Has Secret Admirers

Veteran teacher Christine McNab has secret admirers.

When the social studies and drama teacher opened her parcel she found a coveted Centennial Medal inside.

A certificate from the office of Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh said the Centennial Medal was being conferred "in recognition of valuable service to the nation."

On one side of the handsome silver medal is the coat of arms of Canada and on the other side a maple leaf and crown. It is about the size of a silver dollar and has a red and white ribbon.

The federal government announced plans last May for the Centennial medals to honor Canadians for outstanding citizenship and invited people to propose recipients.

Miss McNab has no idea who submitted her name.

"I'm just the ordinary garden type and I don't know I've done anything more than anyone," she said.

Principal Horace Dawson disagrees.

"She's really been an outstanding teacher through the years," he says. "She goes way beyond the call of duty."

★ ★ ★

Each year Miss McNab directs her school's plays in the drama festival. She has been hard at work in that festival since it started 27 years ago.

Another intense interest has been the Junior Red Cross and not so many years ago she played an active part in teachers' federation work.

Currently she is municipal regent of the Victoria Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire where she has concentrated on the chapter's bursaries and scholarships program.

Let Hubby Make His Own Decisions

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago I did a foolish thing and confided to my husband's boss how depressed my husband was because he thought he was next in line for a promotion, but was passed over in favor of a new man they brought into the company who didn't know a thing about the business.

It seems my confidence was betrayed, and it got back to my husband.

I am most concerned for my husband's state of mind as he says he has done all that he can to get a promotion, and he is terribly hurt.

I have him practically talked into leaving the company and going with a competing firm to help him get over the disappointment. He hesitates because he's been with his present firm a long time and will lose all his benefits if he leaves. But I feel that his happiness is more important than the money.

Abby, do you think perhaps I am meddling too much? Or should I tell my husband to forget everything I said about changing jobs, and to stay where he is?

UPSET WIFE

DEAR UPSET: Yes, I think you are meddling too much. It's good for a man to have the kind of wife he can talk TO—but she shouldn't try to talk him INTO anything. Let your husband make his own decisions. And don't "confide" his feelings to anyone else.

DEAR ABBY: I usually do not write to newspaper columnists, but I am irked and wish to be heard.

Please tell mothers that a ladies' restroom is no place for boys! If a father were to take a little daughter into a public building to visit a doctor or dentist and she had to use the restroom, he wouldn't think of taking her into the men's room, would he? He would ask one of the nurses or lady secretaries to please take the child, and I'm sure she would be glad to do it for a client. So why are women so stupid?

I'm not talking about little boys aged 2 and 3, who can't manage themselves, and might not wish to go with a stranger. But, Abby, one mother started to bring a boy into a ladies' room when I was there, and I halted her, but fast. So help me, the "boy" looked to be about 12 and was taller than I was.

Sign me . . .

IRKED

Confidential to "The Tall One": Go ahead and wear the wedding ring. There are no accurate statistics (nor shall there ever be) but according to my mail, I would say that 99 out of 100 American men who wear wedding rings do so because their wives want them to.

DEAR ABBY; I usually bottle my feelings up inside me so I won't become a nag. My husband works very hard. He's a machinist. Naturally because of his work his clothes get very dirty and greasy. When he comes home, he likes to relax, and I think he should be able to, but he either sits or lies on the front room furniture in his dirty work clothes. How would you handle this? I'm ready to crown him.

JENNIE

DEAR JENNIE: A man's home is his castle, but don't "crown" him. Buy some plastic covers for your furniture. Or use old bedspreads.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Wardle have a "dummy run" at cutting the anniversary cake for their golden wedding "at home," to be held in their home at 2165 Fair Street from 2 to 5 p.m. this coming Tuesday. The couple has lived in Victoria since 1964, coming here from Kaslo, B.C., after having lived in Brandon, Man. They were married in Minnitonas, Man., in 1917. Mr. Wardle is a member of St. Mary's Anglican Church's choir and the Silver Threads choir. He came to Canada from England in 1912 and farmed in Manitoba until 1925. He has been a member of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade since 1908.

Entertain Parents

Their daughters and sons-in-law recently surprised Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dunn, 2684 Eastdowne Road, with a party in the James Bay Athletic Club to honor the couple's wedding anniversary. Planning the party were Miss Shirley Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. O. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Parenteau of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Parenteau were unable to attend because Mr. Parenteau was playing professional hockey in the eastern States.

A cold-plate dinner was served and Gary Howard's combo played for dancing. The head table was decorated in pink and white. The large anniversary cake was flanked by six silver candles.

Mel Schwartz proposed a toast to the honor couple and telegrams were read from Mr. and Mrs. Garry Larson of Edmonton, Miss Teresa Tangler, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. William Friesen of Kamloops, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Larson of North Surrey.

Invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Green (Mrs. Green was bridesmaid at the couple's wedding), Mrs. Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Laurie Larson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Brogan, Mr. and Mrs. N. Lennox, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. O. Overgaard, Mr. and Mrs. H. Iverson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Kattler, Mr. and Mrs. T. O'Reilly, Mrs. B. May, Mr. and Mrs. E. Tannock, Mr. and Mrs. D. Gent, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. E. Issacs, Mr. and Mrs. D. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. R. Robinson, Mrs. Minnie Hall, Mr. K. Wannamaker, and Mr. and Mrs. G. McBride.

Two days later, the honor couple held an "open house" in their home.

Shirley Temple Sets the Style

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether the adult version makes it to the U.S. Congress or not, the Shirley Temple of the mid-generation's memories already has won a place in American fashion.

Influential Franco-American designer Jacques Tiffeau Thursday presented a crowded showroom of buyers a group of daring dolls with curly wigs and bows, and a dolly wardrobe of mini-clothes suitable for journeys of any captain of a Good Ship Lollipop.

Sometimes saluting like the Little Colonel, and swinging their arms like wind-up toys, the moppets entered the showroom in twos wearing a spring collection that nevertheless betrayed their womanly maturity.

V-necked wool jerseys and heavy crepe dresses in bright pastels were cinched high under non-childlike bosoms by black plastic belts, or sashes, or they were belted lightly in back. Some dolls shielded their bare arms with wide, matching stoles.

Those belles that jingle jangle turned out to be Shirley Temple girls heeding the hippies' Indian mysticism. They were floating exotica in mini and maxi versions of Oriental printed silk and chiffon party dresses.

Grandmother's Engagement Ring Worn as 'Something Old' Token

Darla Marlene Ware wore her grandmother's diamond engagement ring as a "something old" talisman when she became the bride of Michael James Maloney in St. Patrick's Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a satin gown and coat, en train and styled on empire lines. Lace appliques trimmed the sleeves and bodice of the coat and edged the full cathedral train. A satin headpiece held her tiered scalloped veil of silk illusion which was starred with pearls. She carried a bouquet of pale pink rosebuds, stephanotis and ivy.

Father A. E. Leonard heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Ware, 2421 Mowat Street and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Maloney, 886 Maddison Street.

The bride's attendants wore matching gowns of pale turquoise chiffon over taffeta featuring daisy lace bodices. Miss Cheryl Goy was maid of honor, Mrs. Andrea Bellegente was bridesmatron and Miss Susan Maloney, bridesmaid.

At the reception following in the Carlton Club a three-tier wedding cake topped with lemon tea roses, centred the head table. Howard Blake proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on honeymoon to southern California the bride chose a mocha suede dress and coat ensemble trimmed with a mink collar and teamed with mink-toned accessories.

Fiesta Planned At Mount Douglas

The Y-Teens of Mount Douglas Senior Secondary School will hold an International Fiesta in the school auditorium next Tuesday evening. Bridge and whist will be played from 7:30 to 9 p.m., and there will be a fashion show, featuring styles from the Eaton Company. Refreshments will be served.

Tickets will be available at the door. Proceeds will be earmarked for educational projects, including scholarships.

When Skin Sags on Face and Neck

Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but is comparatively easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all.

Get 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becoming firmer again and smoother. That is because the 2nd Debut has revitalized your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin.

SHOPPING GUIDE

This Store Features New Bargain Bonanza

By Penny Saver

A brand-new store opened in Victoria this week that is nothing but good news for housewives. The owners firmly believe in less profit for themselves and a better deal for us. By taking advantage of manufacturer's specials, lowering display and packaging costs and lowering the mark-up, they keep their prices a few cents lower than the city average. And, as anyone with a voracious family knows, those few cents can add up to quite a bit on the weekly food bill.

A quick look along their shelves is enough to make any experienced price-watcher step back a pace. I saw brand-name baked beans that usually sell at two cans for 39 cents, regularly priced at two for 29 cents, and then marked down even further to two for 21 cents in one of their specials. These specials can be on any item and continue only until the stock is gone.

Another of these specials featured frozen pies in three flavors, chocolate, coconut and banana, that elsewhere sell for 53 cents, priced at 37 cents. The store regularly sells these pies for 49 cents each. Other frozen bargains were small tins of orange drink at four tins for 55 cents and television dinners at 55 cents each.

But the real shock came at the meat counter. All the luscious steaks that I usually pass by in favor of a cheaper cut were selling at less than 90 cents a pound. The round steaks that were all that I could ever afford were priced at 79 cents a pound. In addition to the low prices, this store guarantees that all their meat has been pre-tenderized.

Everything in this store is a bargain. While the savings on food products vary, depending on the usual amount of profit expected, the price of non-produce items is a standard 10 per cent off the suggested retail price. For example, I saw flashlights that sell for $1.35 elsewhere, priced at $1.25, and transistor batteries for 80 cents. They have a wide stock of nylon stockings at 39 cents, 59 cents and 80 cents.

If you would like to know where this store may be found, please phone me at 382-3131.

Hadassah Bazaar Nets $2,000 Profit

A tree will shortly be planted in Israel in the name of deputy provincial secretary, Laurie Wallace. He earned this honor recently when he officially opened the Hadassah bazaar in Holyrood House that netted approximately $2,000 for the group. All who officially open Hadassah bazaars are similarly honored.

As in past years, and in spite of increased space and home-cooking items, women crowded the rooms, and in a little over an hour had bought all the food in sight. This included two tables laden with bread of every variety and a snack bar that offered a full course meal of sweet and sour meat balls, cabbage rolls, corned beef on rye and cheesecake that was topped with strawberries and sour cream. A delicatessen corner was a temptation to everyone with its offerings of corned beef, dill pickles, blintzes and knishes.

Mrs. Harry Israel and Mrs. Max Menkes were general conveners. Mr. Wallace was introduced by Mrs Bernice Packford.

Miss F. Bramwell, a regular contributor to the event, had donated a doll which she dressed in exquisite pink clothes and arranged in a lace-frilled basket, decorated in the same shade.

Those in charge of the various stalls were Mrs. Helen Alexander, Mrs. Menkes, Mrs. M. L. Raels, Mrs. A. Bernard, Mrs. A. Wilson and Mrs. R. Addlington, home baking; Mrs. Gertrude Conn, Hadassah president; Mrs. L. Shaffer, Mrs. C. Waldman, Mrs. B. Packford, Mrs. L. Bloomfield and Mrs. M. Hoffman, snack bar; Mrs. M. L. Green, Mrs. E. Kramer, Mrs. M. Luxemburg and Mrs. N. Halpern, delicatessen; Mrs. A. Libby, Mrs. A. Klenman, Mrs. J. Krasney and Mrs. S. Lewis, handicrafts; Mrs. R. Krasney, Mrs. A. Shapiro, Mrs. M. Braunstein, Mrs. R. Zegedi and Mrs. H. Elek, French room and white elephant.

SEVERAL RAFFLES

Mrs. M. Shafron, Mrs. S. Rose, Mrs. J. Lancaster and Miss J. Albhouse, raffles; Mrs. B. Caine, Mrs. R. D. Barer and Miss D. Albhouse, lucky dip; Mrs. M. L. Green, tickets, and Mrs. R. D. Barer, publicity.

Mr. A. Libby and Mr. L. Shaffer looked after the door and Mr. M. L. Green and Mr. S. Levy looked after finances.

The tea and kitchen were looked after by Mrs. J. Barnett, Mrs. B. Simmons, Mrs. S. Kirkham, Mrs. B. Brunell, Mrs. D. Zannett, Mrs. S. Piscolti and Mrs. S. Fleischer.

Clubwomen's News

Elected—Mrs. E. Scott was elected for a three-year term as president of the Mothers' Union of the Diocese of British Columbia when the group held its annual meeting in the lounge of Memorial Hall. Also elected for three-year terms were: Vice-presidents, Mrs. E. Dyer and Mrs. W. R. Morris; secretary, Mrs. F. D. Derry; treasurer, Mrs. R. Holliston; literature and program, Mrs. R. Caley; intercessory members' Prayer Circle secretary. Mrs. F. D. Derry. Mrs. Frances Scott chaired the meeting. Also present was the group's chaplain, Rev. Eric Scott.

At CWL Bazaar on Salt Spring Island

MAN WINS A BEAUTY TREATMENT

A Ganges merchant won himself a beauty treatment and a small boy became the owner of a beautifully made patchwork quilt when the Catholic Women's League of Our Lady of Grace Church, Salt Spring Island, held a drawing at the group's fall bazaar in the church hall last Saturday.

Ben Greenhough was given the third prize of a beauty treatment voucher, first prize (the quilt) going to young Eddie Wescott. The tiny winner's grandmother was also lucky. Mrs. Frank Wescott won herself a turkey dinner hamper.

The bazaar, which realized proceeds of $374, was opened by Rev. Leonard Schmidt and convened by Mrs. F. C. Rhodes. Greeting guests was CWL president, Mrs. C. F. Yzerman.

Mrs. E. E. Groff was in charge of the tea room. Paulette Girard and Yvette Blais managed a successful booth of dolls, made and dressed by girls of the Young People's Group.

The home baking stall was convened by Mrs. Walter Jameski and Mrs. F. H. Bonar while a table of sewing was handled by Mrs. J. H. M. Lamb and Mrs. H. C. Alexander. A white elephant stall was organized by Mrs. Paul Blais.

Mrs. Jim Spencer and her son, Michael, ran the fish pond and a men's stall was in charge of Jack Girard and Gordon Simmonds.

Annual bazaar, Ladies' Auxiliary to Old Age Pensioners No. 1, Tuesday at 1:30 p.m., 1600 Government St. Stalls and attractions. Tea will be served. Open to the public.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You Can't Have Your Sun And Keep Skin Normal Too

Q. I had a lot of fun in the sun this summer and have gotten a real dark brown. I did have, at the first of the summer, a nut brown, rosy tan. Now I look like a burnt turkey.

I am 13 and my mother won't let me use a bleaching cream, and stuff like that. I hope that you can help me. I'm going to stay out of the sun and if I miss vitamin D, I will try to make it up with some sort of food. I might be able to use some kind of lightening cream if you suggest it.

Lowman

My next problem is that while I was in the sun my hair turned brown. I want it black like it was.

A. You can't have your sun and keep your skin and hair like they were, too! As you know, the tan will gradually fade if you stay out of the sun. So far as I know there is no such thing as lightening cream, except the usual bleaching creams which may help some to lighten the skin.

Why don't you make a concoction of your own? Add some lemon juice or cucumber juice to buttermilk. Spread this over your face and leave it on for a while. Then rinse it off.

I imagine that your black hair looks attractive with the brown highlights. It will finally be black again. The only way you could change it in a hurry would be to use a rinse. I feel sure that your mother would not approve of this and neither do I.

Q. What causes warts and can they be hypnotized away? Someone told me that they could be. I have ugly ones on my hands and want to get rid of them.

A. Warts are caused by a virus. There have been cases on record where warts have disappeared after psychological suggestion. However, this may have been coincidence. Some other studies seem to indicate that this is not so.

Q. I was reading in your column about how many men take to hair pieces. I thought it was very interesting. I think there is another problem some men and women have. When they have their lower teeth removed, their face seems to fall or wrinkle. Is there anything to do to overcome this?

A. Of course, expertly fitted dentures are most important. Then facial exercises may help some. I have known of instances when they did.

NEWLYWEDS WILL MAKE NEW HOME IN TEXAS

Following their wedding in First United Church Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wirth Fieldhouse Jr. left on a honeymoon trip to Scottsburg, Indiana to meet the groom's parents before travelling to Houston, Texas where they will make their home.

The bride, the former Julia Dell Lawrance, wore a gown of ligoda, styled on A-lines and featuring a wedding ring collar and soft angel sleeves trimmed with re-embroidered Venetian lace. A detachable court train swept back from the shoulders, complemented by a tiered veil of silk illusion which misted from an organza flower headpiece. White orchids with white stephanotis formed her cathedral bouquet. As a "something old" talisman she wore her grandmother's sapphire ring.

White chrysanthemums decorated the church for the candlelight service when Rev. Marvin Fowler heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. C. Smith, 1567 Athlone Drive, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Fieldhouse Sr. of Scottsburg, Indiana. J. Paul Lawrance, Clinton Point, N.W.T., gave his sister in marriage.

Mrs. Ursula Bunt was the organist, playing Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet Overture" as the wedding party entered the church.

The bride's attendants were matching gowns of blue flowered sheer nylon over yellow taffeta with yellow headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of pale yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Rosemary Posford, Kelowna, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the bride's cousin, Miss Elizabeth Glassford and Miss Linda Atkinson, Vancouver.

At the reception following in the Olde England Inn a three-tier wedding cake, set in tulle and yellow roses, centred the head table. James Glassford proposed the toast to his niece.

As her travelling costume the bride chose a self-made gold wool dress and jacket which she complemented with dark brown accessories. A white gardenia corsage completed her ensemble.

A New You by Emily Wilkens

Every girl knows that to be really well-groomed her clothes must look as flower-fresh as her makeup.

Often, however, giving clothes the tender, loving care they deserve may throw a girl into a quandary about her laundry. Even if you've always done your own intimate apparel, one day you may have to come clean with an entire basket of clothes. And all those new fabrics and finishes just might be confusing.

To wash away your washday blues and restore that just-bought bloom to your wardrobe, here is a guide to help you:

LABEL FABLES: Please read the labels! They'll help you take care of each precious purchase. If the label says dry-clean, don't dunk your dress by hand; if the label says hand-wash, don't let the machine do your work.

SEPARATE BUT EQUAL: Always be sure to keep white cotton items separated from colored or printed clothes. All nylon apparel should be grouped together, too. If you're laundering something new and you're not sure it's colorfast, wash it by hand the first time. Remove any belts, buttons or buckles that might fade by washing. Close all zippers.

TERMS FOR PERMANENT PRESS: Use the wash-wear cycle on an automatic washer and a warm, rather than hot, setting. Machine drying is generally better than drip drying; remove item from the dryer immediately after the cycle is through. If you drip-dry, you may have to touch up some areas with an iron.

KNITTING PRETTY: Most knits today are washable (beware of the bonded versions, however; these may require dry-cleaning.) It's always advisable to hand-wash knits with a good cold-water soap specifically for knitted apparel. Let the item soak for 10 or 15 minutes for best results; add rinse water (you may require several changes for a sparkling clean rinse); then gently squeeze dry. Block out the item to shape on a turkish towel.

BEWARE OF BLEACH: Bleach will always make your white things brighter, as they say, but be careful about using it on the wrong fabrics or colors. To whiten nylon use a bleach meant for the new synthetics. In most cases detergents with bleach already added are safe for printed items. Never use harsh bleach on silks, woollens, sweaters, laces or elastic or stretch apparel.

THE STARCH STORY: You may never want to look like a "stuffed shirt" but a little starch makes many fabrics look crisper and fresher. The spray starches are easy and effective to use, especially with a steam iron. (Hankies perk up incredibly!)

IMPRESSIVE PRESSING: Modern irons are so easy to handle and perform so well. Take good care of your iron and it will take good care of your clothes. Distilled water (available in any drug store or supermarket) is really better for your iron than tap water. When you are ironing an item, try to do the most difficult parts first—they require most attention. A sleeve board will make your life easier and your ironing more professional, too.

THE NEW YOU who isn't overwhelmed by do-it-yourself laundry will always look fresh as a daisy.

JUST FOR YOU: For clothes that need additional dampening (not just steam), sprinkle first, then roll up tightly and place in refrigerator for a few hours. They'll iron in a breeze.

CANADA'S FIRST BANK · CAMJ · 150TH ANNIVERSARY · 1817 1967

Canada's First Bank celebrates a Centennial and a half

Throughout this Centennial year, Bank of Montreal has joined with communities, large and small, across the nation in celebrating 100 years of Confederation.

Today, November 3rd, we have our own special day of celebration — the 150th anniversary of the founding of Canada's First Bank and the Canadian banking system.

On this historic occasion we could be looking backward over 150 years of achievement. Instead, we're looking ahead.

We're looking ahead with the enthusiasm of a vibrant institution geared for the future... A people's bank pervaded with a dynamic urge to maintain the leadership that has always characterized its service to the Canadian people.

The years ahead will be full of new challenges and new opportunities. Fresh ground must be broken and new pathways established in creative services to our customers to meet their ever-changing needs.

Right now we're busy trail-blazing. That's the responsibility that comes with the privilege of being a leader.

When you're 150 years old you have to think young. In the past year alone, Bank of Montreal has continued to lead the way by being first with:

- True Savings Accounts
- True Chequing Accounts
- Bancardchek (the cash card)
- Customer Convenience Hours

As we enter the second half of our second century it's as true today as it was in 1817: The bank of the future is Canada's First Bank.

This special, full-colour issue of our monthly Business Review contains a condensed economic history of Canada and its first bank. Get your free copy at your nearest branch. Or write: Public Relations and Advertising Department, Bank of Montreal, P.O. Box 6002, Montreal 3, P.Q.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BEECH—In loving memory of our son, John Raymond, died Nov. 3, 1962.
We do not forget him—
We loved him too dearly—
For his memory to fade from our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak, when our hearts mourn sincerely,
—Mom and Dad.

BEECH — In loving memory of my nephew, John Beech, who departed his life November 3rd, 1962.
Wonderful memories woven in gold,
These are the memories I tenderly hold;
When my life's journey has ended,
I shall again be with you.
—Sadly missed, Aunt Dolly.

CAMERON — Ian Bruce Cameron, who passed away November 3, 1962.
—Ever remembered and sadly missed by the family.

ZALA—In loving memory of Victor Zala, 81 years. Late of Galiano Island, B.C. He was called home on Nov. 3, 1966.
Dear to the hearts of his brothers, nieces and nephews, and beloved by all who knew him. A true friend and comrade, and a fine example of a Christian gentleman.
BEECH — In loving memory of our dear nephew, John, who passed away November 3, 1962.
And while he lies in peaceful sleep,
—Uncle Lean and Aunt Mabel.
Mabel.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The long wait is over. Channel 9, KCTS-TV, from University of Washington, will be available to viewers on cable by Nov. 15.

Victoria Cablevision manager Les Curran announced he received permission from the Department of Transport this week to supplement the present service with the addition of the educational outlet.

It will mean a slight shakeup on the selector dial. For instance, Channel 12 (now seen on 9) will be moved down to the number 3 spot. Channel 8 (Vancouver's station now on 3) will go to 8. Nine will remain on 9.

Stephen

CFMS (CKDA's FM outlet) will shift to the 10 slot while KBBX-FM, Seattle, will be heard on the number 12 slot. CFAX, the good music station, will be dropped because it is an AM operation. However, when the educational outlet, Channel 9, is not operating the station's broadcast signal will be carried in its spot.

Curran said his firm has the equipment to begin the educational transmission now but is delaying the start until Nov. 15 in order to carry out a campaign to inform customers of the change.

It was surprising to learn that Victoria's cable setup is the third largest in the world with over 28,000 hookups and approximately 30 new homes being added daily. Vancouver is tops with in excess of 70,000 homes while Montreal is in second spot.

I had thought American cities would have been ahead but they're only now starting. It will only be a matter of time, though, before they surpass anything Canada has in the way of a lead.

Cablevision has almost finished the Gordon Head area hookups. Next on the list will be Cordova Bay, either this winter, if mild, or next spring.

TIDBIT — Jordan's King Hussien will present the "Arab point of view" on the Mideast crisis in a series of television appearances and speeches this month. The Jordanian Embassy reported he will appear on CBS-TV's Face The Nation Sunday, NBC-TV's Today show next week and ABC-TV's Issues and Answers Nov. 12.

601-CARAT DIAMOND is held up by Petrus Ramoboa as his wife Ernestine watches at a New York news conference today. She found the diamond last May while sifting gravel on a small claim owned by her husband in Lesotho, formerly the British Colony of Basutoland, in Africa. Ramoboa has received $302,400 as his share from the sale of the diamond. The couple, wearing high-crowned straw hats said to be worn by Lesotho dignitaries, arrived in New York yesterday. ## Police Followed After Driver Ignored Ban

Rolland Lavigne today was fined a total of $260 after pleading guilty to careless driving, consuming liquor in a public place and driving while under suspension.

Oak Bay police imposed a roadside suspension Oct. 5 on the accused who police said admitted drinking five beers.

Quarter of an hour later police saw him drive away and followed him. He drove along Brighton Crescent and police, travelling at 45 miles an hour were unable to catch him. His female passenger told police that Lavigne had been drinking in the car.

He was fined $50 for consuming; $60 for careless driving and $150 for driving under suspension.

Family Slain

SUMATRA, Mont. (AP) — Phillip Hauck apparently shot from ambush and killed his wife, 2½-year-old daughter, mother-in-law and father-in-law, then crawled under a truck and committed suicide, Sheriff Andrew C. Schulenberg says.

The five bodies were found strewn about the yard of the Hauck home, one of a handful of buildings making up this tiny community.

Schulenberg said the shooting occurred Tuesday afternoon. The bodies were found by a neighbor late Thursday.

LIFE OF SQUALOR

Young Girls Lured To Hippie Quarter

TORONTO (UPI) — A top official said Thursday the city police were moving into the hippie Yorkville section in an effort to find and return to their homes young girls who come here in search of freedom and adventure but often end up living in squalor.

"The real evil of Yorkville is what is happening to these young girls," said Deputy Chief Bernard Simmonds, in charge of criminal investigation for the metropolitan police.

Arrest records and board of health statistics released Thursday showed that both marijuana peddling and venereal disease have increased markedly in the area over the past several years.

DRUG USERS

Simmonds said that arrests for drug use, mostly involving marijuana and LSD, were "running twice as high" so far this year as compared with last year's records.

Simmonds noted that the sexual promiscuity of Yorkville's youth was "not a true form of prostitution" but rather was "a morals problem."

Simmonds said that "you have these young people out of work — they're out of money and looking for a place to stay. They get together and move into a house or 'pad' and the boys and girls all live together. good, but we try to clean it up through enforcement and so far we're doing a damn good job."

VAGRANCY

He said the main means of removing the teenagers from Yorkville was by arresting youths on marijuana and vagrancy charges. The charge of "Vag A" alleges the person has been wandering at large without visible means of support.

So far, more than 2,000 missing girls have been located in the Yorkville area this year after they were reported missing. It was not known how many of them eventually returned to their homes.

The morals situation is not

'Bullets' Were Really Marbles

TORONTO (CP) — Every available policeman was called to duty and the downtown area was sealed off Thursday night after police received reports that shots had been fired at a bank, stores, restaurants and homes and a man had been abducted.

Police stopped a car and the "gunmen" were three youths with a sling-shot and a supply of marbles which when fired left holes in windows resembling those made by a .22-calibre weapon.

Police said the "abduction victim" found lying across the back seat crying "whee," was "so drunk he didn't know what was going on."

Police estimate that damage, mostly in broken windows amounted to about $10,000.

Congo Asks UN Session

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The government of The Congo has asked for a UN Security Council meeting to deal with an invasion by white mercenary and African soldiers from neighboring Portuguese Angola. Some UN diplomats expect the council to meet today.

Government sources in Kinshasa, the Congolese capital, said the invaders seized a train and some trucks and were bearing down on Lumubashi, formerly Elisabethville and the capital of Katanga province. Unconfirmed reports said the troops had taken Jadotville, a fortified copper mining town about 100 miles from Lumumbashi.

Ape Painting Show A Tearing Success

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The exhibition was a success but an ape tore art in action into shreds Thursday at San Francisco Zoo.

It was the first showing of the paintings by the zoo's two most talented chimpanzees. Their pictures at the fence of the ape grotto drew a large crowd.

Tallulah, an eight-year-old who had painted three blue abstracts which could almost pass for Paul Klee art—at 50 feet or farther—was the first to enter the "studio." Keeper Doug Farrington carried her brush and easel.

She stopped short when she saw the crowd, put a hand over her mouth and hooted. She threw a kiss and then became intent on her canvas, which had been given a thick starter line of paint. She smelled it, licked it, and then began to eat the nontoxic paint.

Later, she went into her sleeping quarters and came back with Candy, a much larger 11-year-old chimpanzee. Both apes carried their own easels. Candy had a paint roller. With it she daubed brown abstracts which had been entitled Suffering Succotash and Paint by Numbers.

Dr. Robert Glaser, a University of California animal behaviorist who has collected more than 200 ape paintings, explained the scene.

Apes, he said, have full color vision and are discriminating. Some are talented and like to paint—each with its own individuality.

MURDERESS HAS BABY

PERUGIA, Italy (AP) — A woman who has been serving a life term in jail since 1963 for slaying her husband has given birth to a baby, prison authorities announced today. The woman, 30-year-old Maria Muscarella Solino, has refused to disclose the identity of the baby's father. She was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in 1963 for killing her husband, Giuseppe Solino, a Sicilian mafia leader.

Ellis Funeral On Saturday

Funeral services will be held at Sands' chapel at 1 p.m. Saturday for Robert Michael Ellis, 24, of 1157 Balmoral, who was killed in an Oct. 26 car crash on the Trans-Canada Highway, near Boston Bar.

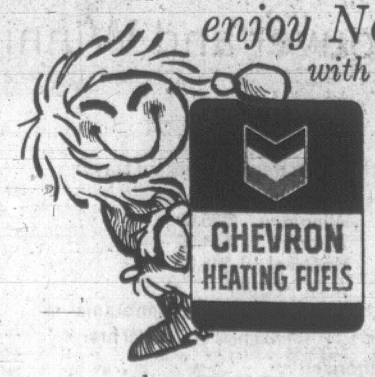

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis, and a sister, Barbara Menzel of Langford.

RAPPORT COMPLETE

Cellist, Pianist Find Almost Perfect Harmony

By AUDREY JOHNSON

The recital Thursday night by Victoria Symphony guest artist Paul Olefsky combined the charm of a fine chamber music performance with the pulse-quickening bravura of astonishing virtuosity.

Partnership between the world-renowned American cellist and his pianist, Victoria School of Music director Robin Wood, was as close to perfection as one could hope to find in a long musical journey.

From the opening moments of the program, with the early 18th Century Locatelli Sonata in D Minor, the unanimity with which each phrase was spun, the limpidity with which thematic ideas were expressed, and in choice of dynamics, rapport between the two artists was complete.

SHOWED SCOPE

Comparing this number with the unaccompanied contemporary Kodaly Sonata which followed, provided a vivid comprehension of Mr. Olefsky's stature and scope as an artist.

We had seen him as the ideal chamber player in the Locatelli. Now he was revealed as a fabulous master of every intricate technical device in the cellist's repertoire.

The Kodaly bristles with difficulties—seemingly impossible passages in the uppermost fingerboard positions, dazzling harmonics and double-stopping, the complete gamut of bow techniques.

Yet through all this barrage, the musical nature of the Sonata emerged clearly, its lyrical moments were suffused with warmth, the basically folk character of some episodes expressed with a delightful simplicity.

The second half of the program which included an appealing short work by American composer Bertram Shapleigh, was dominated by the beauty of the Brahms E Minor Cello Sonata.

LOVELY TONE

The pure and lovely tone which Mr. Olefsky produces, his deep involvement with the ideas and meaning of the work, his feeling for the lyrical as well as the dramatic, were most fully exploited in this rich sonata.

Once again, the partnership with Mr. Wood came off magnificently with everything poised and balanced in the minutist detail, both in its imaginative and intellectual aspects.

A tremendous improvement, both auditory and visual, for concerts on the McPherson Playhouse stage, was in use for the first time, Thursday.

This is a mobile shell in creamy-white that does wonders in projecting the sound, much of which was formerly muffled in the velvet cyc curtains and lost in the flies.

ADDS TO PLEASURE

New lighting on the velvet curtains also adds to the visual pleasure.

Sunday afternoon and Monday evening at the Royal Theatre with Laszlo Gati conducting, Paul Olefsky will perform Haydn's D Major Concerto and the Tchaikowsky Roccoco Variations with Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

Youth on LSD Trip Before Death Plunge

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two youths told a coroner's jury Thursday they and Albert Arnold Gendron took LSD a few hours before Gendron dived off Burrard Bridge.

Gordon Hanse, 18, and Peter Hinds, 19, were testifying at the inquest into 18-year-old Gendron's death on Oct. 21. The pair said the drug was easily purchased for $6, smeared on a vitamin C tablet. This they said was enough for three "trips."

The youths described how they each took a tablet, and then went out for a drive and a walk with four girls, all about 15. Later, they said, Gendron went off to a psychedelic dance in the west end, and it was there that they last saw him.

A motorist, Dennis Woods, described how shortly after 1 a.m. that night a youth ran in front of his car on Burrard Bridge, and dived over the railing.

The jury ruled that Gendron's death was unnatural and accidental, and added it was shocked how easily young people could obtain the hallucinatory drug. It recommended that the dangers of LSD be given widespread publicity.

The contract is for sandblasting and under-water painting.

HABS, LEAFS HELP MAKE US SCHIZOID?

TORONTO (CP)—Canada is not big enough to afford the rivalry that exists between Montreal and Toronto, architect John C. Parkin said Thursday.

Only Brazil and Australia face a similar rivalry between two great cities that helps make Canada a "schizoid" nation, he told a conference on urban life.

Toronto should be recognized as the nation's English-speaking capital, he said.

Weekend Training Here for Seaforths

Ninety members of the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada will take part in infantry manoeuvres at Albert Head on Saturday and Sunday.

The Vancouver militiamen, who serve on a part-time basis with the reserve unit, will undergo training to upgrade their qualifications as infantrymen. In addition to rifle and machine-gun firing, they will test communication skills learned in classrooms and carry out night patrol exercises and rubber-boat assault landings.

The program will assist the Seaforths in preparing for their newly assigned role as a "strike" battalion in Canada's revamped militia.

Under the recently announced plan, reserve forces will be called upon to provide specialist individual re-inforcements for regular forces; assist in the national defence system, internal security and civil emergency operations, and develop a training base for a field force in event of any emergency.

Annex Move Blasted

By DON DINGWALL
Times Staff Reporter

DUNCAN—City fathers were given a rough ride Thursday as they made their last pitch to sell the idea of extending Duncan's boundaries south into unorganized territory.

More than 100 people attended a public meeting in Koksilah School and the tone was set by farmer John Hulbert, Koksilah, who said, "How can we have confidence in people who launch into this scheme without careful forethought?

"It makes one think your chief interest is gathering in as much taxation as you can while the going is good."

R. O. Merilees, Cowichan Bay, said the move is too premature.

"BIG SELL"

Tongue-in-cheek, he congratulated city council for hiring professionals to handle the publicity campaign.

Mr. Merilees said, "The advertisements make it look like we're getting something for nothing.

"But let's face it. We're not goint to get instant sewers or the like.

"The city has not prepared its case fairly or squarely."

Ald. James Saunders took the chair at the outset of the meeting but, following interruptions from the floor, agreed to accept Mill Bay farmer Archie Stevenson as an independent chairman.

SERVICE EVERYONE

City consulting engineer Russell Potter said Duncan's water system would be extended into the new area, and eventually, through a loop, the entire district would be serviced.

He said extension of sewerage was inexpensive and treatment of sewage at the present city lagoon is controlled by the Pollution Control Board.

Mel McEwan of Eagle Heights subdivision said he could see no benefits in joining the city.

He said he is happy with the existing water supply, police protection and, if residents wanted street lighting, B.C. Hydro has quoted them a price of $3 a year.

Mr. McEwan said his septic tank serves him adequately and city promises did not mean a thing.

HALF THE PRICE

Ald. Saunders said sewer service could be available immediately to Eagle Heights if the people wanted it, and water could be provided at half the price they pay now.

Fire protection would cut their insurance rates in half.

He said he realized that joining the city would bring no immediate benefits to people on the fringe of the new area.

Mr. Hulbert asked how people in the unorganized area could have confidence in a council which four years ago ignored a delegation which complained about management of the city dump at Koksilah.

'GROSS DISREGARD'

Mr. Hulbert said the dump is operated with gross disregard for the welfare and property values in the area. There is no effort to meet the requirements of the terms of the lease from Cowichan Indian Band which include burying the garbage and causing neither smoke nor smell.

He said Mayor Jack Dobson agreed these terms were in the contract but council was entitled to disregard them in giving a service to the community.

Mr. Hulbert said a delegation from the unorganized area asked city hall in May for a copy of a pilot budget for the area it wished to annex.

Mr. Hulbert said, "We were told, to our surprise, no pilot budget had been prepared."

Ald. Saunders made no reply regarding a "pilot budget" but said he knew of no such conditions in the terms of the lease of the dump.

NEED HELP

He said if the people of the unorganized area (75 per cent of the car users of the dump) helped finance its upkeep the city could afford the landfill to bury the garbage.

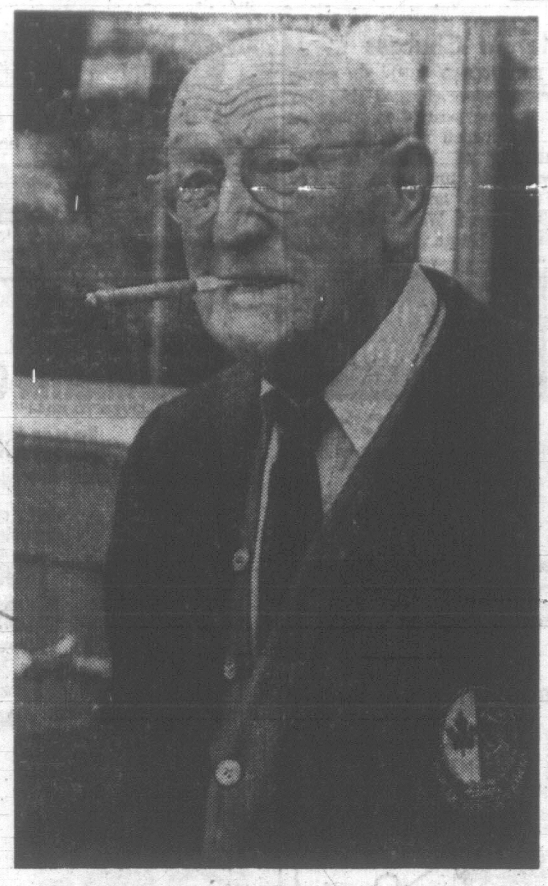

The city clerk came to the rescue and quoted figures from a projected budget.

He said based on the present city general rate of 58 mills the new area would have a total budget of $104,951 in the first year and operate with a surplus of about $8,000.

Mr. Hulbert said his lack of confidence was only increased by the knowledge city council saw fit to produce a budget after being prodded by the delegation.

As the meeting broke up there were shouts of "Remember to vote 'No' Saturday."

Even allowing that the anti-extension element was predominant and there are over 600 eligible voters, the city cannot be optimistic about the outcome of Saturday's poll.

Unsung, Unrewarded These Islanders Are Tops in West

By JAN GOULD

Two children in a sailboat overdue at their destination; a mariner trying to cope with a fire on board; a diver suffering from the bends; a man seen clinging to an overturned boat—they're all Gulf Islands distress stories with happy endings.

Over 100 similar calls are handled by the Gulf Islands volunteer coast guards each year. The volunteers are an unsung and unrewarded corps of some 50 people whose efforts mostly aid mariners in trouble.

As well as boat owners, add a liberal number of Islanders willing to help in specific situations such as combing woods for lost hikers or a downed plane.

●

Sub Co-ordinator for the Island's rescue operations is Captain Victor C. Best of Ganges. The Salt Spring Islander keeps maps, charts and a list of volunteers near his telephone, ready to plot rescue operations the instant a call is received.

"It's strictly a co-operative effort," he stresses. "The quickest and most efficient action in the least time."

Many threads of the volunteer cobweb spanning the Gulf Islands are tapped in some calls. The two children in a sailboat who were overdue at their destination were spotted by a woman using powerful binoculars who saw "a log with something larger than birds huddled on it."

There were no homeowners on the waterfront to which the children were drifting so several boats were dispatched from various arms of the inlet to rescue the children from what proved to be their overturned boat.

●

The boatowner with a fire on board had to lower a dinghy and jump in it but volunteers kept watch on this while others set out to help him.

The volunteers had thoughtfully stood by during a Gulf Island regatta when the scuba diver came to the water surface suffering severe cramps and unable to move.

The man seen clinging to his overturned boat proved to be en route to Kuper Island and a large boat was sent to his aid.

Other case histories are more dramatic and a few proved to be problems corrected before help arrived. Assistance in the form of a helicopter or coastguard cutter rarely has been requested from the Vancouver Rescue Co-Ordination Centre.

The latter has been so impressed with the Islander's efficiency that they praised the affiliate group, citing the Gulf Islands volunteers as one of the best organized groups on the Pacific coast.

Captain Best has spearheaded Gulf Islands' search and rescue operations since the first nucleus of volunteers formed in 1942 for the sighting of enemy planes.

Known first as the Aircraft Detection Corps, they became the Observer Corps in the mid-fifties. It's in the last four years that Islanders participating in air and sea rescues officially became known as the volunteer coast guards.

Volunteers work without any compensation. They risk physical injury as well as possible damage to their boats. While they admit a life boat would be useful, they had to turn down the offer of one. The reason? Lack of funds for wharfage fees.

Volunteers enjoy their work and find it fulfilling. They are adamant about the risks taken by many people they have plucked from the sea. They've occasionally found that such people know little about tides, can't read a chart or compass and lack knowledge of handling their boat well.

They'd like to see a standard course given to would-be boat owners so that training and a licence could be given in a similar way that a beginner driver learns to handle a car and passes a test before he's allowed to take it out alone.

The Gulf Islands have had several such courses conducted by their volunteer coastguards. It's mostly the people with boats from everywhere else that they watch and aid.

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Fish, Game Gun Course Set Tonight

DUNCAN — A limit of 20 entries has been put on the eight-week course for young people in the safe use of firearms.

The first of its kind in the district, the course is sponsored by Cowichan Fish and Game Association.

It starts tonight at 7 in Cowichan Agricultural Hall.

Association president Arnie Williams said the limit of 20 is to enable instructors to give students individual attention.

The course is open to boys and girls 12 years old and over.

It includes gun handling, ammunition and components, instruction on a gun range and the cleaning of firearms.

★ ★ ★

ALERT BAY — Police have abandoned a search for a Vancouver man who fell off a tug, following a widespread search in local waters.

★ ★ ★

DUNCAN — The Fish and Game Association will sponsor a turkey shoot Sunday at 9 a.m., at the Vaux Road Range.

★ ★ ★

PORT ALBERNI — Reports of various groups associated with the centre will be given at the annual meeting of the Friendship Centre Saturday at 2 p.m., at 122 Second Avenue North.

Members will also discuss various problems, including maintenance of the building.

★ ★ ★

The unit is now being built.

The board of trustees is also considering the expansion of the health building. This move was recommended by health officer Dr. G. A. Gibson.

Trustees have notified the hospital employees that the new agreement for 1968 will be negotiated by the labor relations committee of the B.C. Hospitals Association.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO — The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has offered a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person who is poisoning dogs.

Inspector Reg Robinson said two dogs have died of strychnine poisoning in 24 hours.

Two other cases were reported earlier in Lantzville.

He said a full scale investigation is under way.

'Strong Talk' Herbs—Reason for Acquittal

NANAIMO—An Assize Court jury Thursday returned a verdict of "not guilty" of manslaughter for Tommy Tatoosh, whose Indian name is the First Son of Thunderbird.

Raymond Bouchard, 25, faeing the same charge, was found guilty of assault causing bodily harm. He was sentenced to four months in jail.

The charge arose from the death of John Ronald August, 24, who died as a result of head injuries in a March 3 fight on Argyle Street in Port Alberni.

Throughout the four-day trial Tatoosh chewed sacred herbs which, according to Indians, give Skookum-Wave. This means strong talk.

His counsel Henry Castillou was also given some herbs.

Tatoosh explained the herb contained power—more powerful than strength itself.

"Through the old Indian ways of prayer and custom, the herb gives me all the strength."

"The strength comes through me to my lawyer," he said.

Mr. Justice Gould in dismissing Tatoosh noted that jails are full of "young people" because of liquor.

"It's a bad, bad habit," he stated.

Tatoosh, he said, had been for the past four days in a position of facing a serious charge which could have resulted in a life sentence.

The justice observed that "Bouchard was too prone to violence.

"This is your fourth conviction," he said.

BROADWAY SHOW GOES ON

Star Ignores Death Threat

NEW YORK (Reuters)—Greek actress Melina Mercouri Thursday night danced and sang her way through a performance of the musical Ilya Darling under the shadow of a real-life threat of an assassin's bullet.

Police stood heavy guard in the Broadway theatre as the glamorous blonde star—a bitter foe of the Greek military junta—played her role as a carefree Piraeus prostitute in the long-running show based on the movie Never on Sunday.

Miss Mercouri called a press conference Thursday to announce that her life was threatened. However, she rejected any suggestion that the show be stopped.

She learned of her danger Wednesday morning and at first shrugged it off. But the FBI convinced her the threat was serious and a 24-hour bodyguard was provided by New York police.

WARRENDALE: SEARING HEART-RENDING FILM

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Movie Reviewer

As the first rays of morning enter their room, the children of Warrendale resist the light and shrink away from it, as if they fear an invasion of their inner selves in the return to reality.

These unfortunates, the victims of abnormal experiences in early life, seem caged up in an emotional fortress bristling with hostilities and seething with body-shaking terrors and hates.

This is the true-life story of Warrendale, a home for emotionally-disturbed children near Toronto, and it was watched in silence by a capacity first-night audience in the Fox Cinema Thursday night.

STARK REALISM

Starkly and often brutally realistic, the film was produced and directed for the CBC by 37-year-old Allan King, but dropped by the CBC because of four-letter words used by the children.

It has since won major awards at Cannes, New York and Montreal and its Victoria premiere was sponsored by the Island Child Development and Research Centre, founded here in 1966 by Dr. Charles Gregory.

Most of its compelling interest is involved with the skill, patience and fortitude of the young men and women at Warrendale. They hold the children during emotional storms, using physical compulsion as well as mental persuasion to prevent them from retreating into themselves.

The youngsters are encouraged to blow up—to express their deepest and most terrifying feelings in an environment where love and concern are predominant. Sometimes they are taught to regress to a stage where most ego controls vanish and become for a while an infant, safe and supported by the physical and emotional empathy of the staff.

DEEPLY INVOLVED

These remarkable men and women are clearly so involved with the children that, when holding them, they seem to be saying: "This is a burden we have to get over and I am part of that burden with you."

The dramatic climax comes when the staff calls a meeting of the children to announce that Dorothy, a well-loved cook, has died unexpectedly. At first they are stunned into silence, but soon there are outbursts of self-destructive rage and two girls shriek hysterically, as if they feel in some way responsible.

It seems that one of them—a girl named Carol—had played a game called Death with the cook in which they alternately pretended to be dead. Now, being unable to separate reality from fantasy, Carol feels responsible for Dorothy's death, as if she had willed it.

Two staff members battle relentlessly with the girl as she struggles frenziedly to isolate herself. And with seemingly brutal shouts, they drive home the message that she is not in any way to blame.

At Dorothy's funeral, Warrendale focuses on the sorrowing faces of the children and, in so doing, achieves its most moving sequence; for it suggests that the unfortunate children, having now faced up to the reality of death, are moving closer to a normal human response.

EMOTIONAL DEPTH

It is clear that the emotional depth of this heart-rending film could never have been reached if it had been acted from a script. Producer Allan King and a small crew spent weeks getting the confidence of the children before they started filming.

"The usual method of making a documentary movie is to write a script and follow it," Mr. King said. "Our method was to become part of the surroundings, start shooting and let the story develop in its own way."

Patrick Watson, who worked with him on the film, says the atmosphere at Warrendale is that of a family.

"The children live in groups of 12 in a house with a trained staff as a substitute for parents; in a warm and supportive atmosphere which not only tolerates, but welcomes and encourages the expression of all feelings, even the most violent and destructive."

Sexy Girl, Cackling Bird June Makes the Noises

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— She's a tiny thing, with auburn hair, sparkling eyes and a remarkable vocal range—for babies and birds to sexy dames, doting grandmas and cackling witches.

Ann Sheridan died before she could re-record dialogue for her last television show that extraneous noises had ruined in the sound track.

DOES LIP SERVICE

Miss Foray, after listening carefully to Miss Sheridan's voice, did the re-recording, matching the words to Ann's lip movements.

"Sometimes the producer will add dialogue after the star has gone, say, to Europe," said June. "It's cheaper and quicker to have me do it than bring her back.

"And a lot of young actresses whom I can't mention do a lousy job and they call me in to pull them out of the soup by replacing their voices. How did they get the job in the first place? Because they look good."

It taxes Miss Foray, who works almost constantly, to remember all the voices she supplies, especially in television.

"I'm Axis Sally in 12 O'clock High, Knothead and Splinter on Woody Woodpecker, and I'm all over the dial on the Saturday cartoon shows."

Her voice changes as she describes various roles: "I do French girls, Cockney accents, Svenska, and ah do Suth'n dialects."

Early Treatment Important

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Throughout the year, scores of anxious people keep writing to ask me what can be done for Hodgkin's disease, and if there is any hope for the patient. Yes, there is, but how much hope there is depends greatly on whether the patient comes to the doctor in an early stage or in a late stage.

Alvarez

I was pleased to find this well described in an article by Dr. John W. Yarbro of Minneapolis. As he says, this cancer-like disease, beginning perhaps with the enlargement of a gland—maybe in the neck—tends to spread to other glands, and then into the liver, the spleen, the lungs, the bones, and all over the body. In the later stages there usually is fever with perhaps terrible itching of the skin, and several signs of serious disease.

★ ★ ★

Gradually, there is likely to come anemia, weakness, and loss of weight. The disease that occurs in young people is usually milder than that which attacks older people. When the disease comes late in life, the patient is usually a man, and often the course is downhill.

In the early stages, the treatment is with powerful X-rays, and usually this works well. I have seen patients who after one course of treatment remained well for 10 years or more. What is important is in the later stages of the disease, X-rays may not help much, and then strong anti-cancer drugs are likely to be of more value. When patients are treated in the early stage, two our of three of them are still well at the end of five years; every other one will still be going strong at the end of 10 years; and one in four will be living at the end of 15 years.

In the last stage, the results of treatment are disappointing. Women tend to survive longer than men, and young persons survive twice as long as do older persons. I remember so well many years ago treating a young man who came to me with Hodgkin's disease, which he said had attacked him a few months before. But soon I knew something was terribly wrong, because he did not respond well even to much treatment with X-rays and powerful drugs.

Then I questioned him carefully, and he remembered that some 10 years before he had had a few weeks of trouble with a swelling in his neck which had quickly disappeared after one treatment with X-rays. On telephoning to the doctor who had treated the lad at the time, I learned that he had strongly suspected Hodgkin's disease, but he had not said anything about it to his patient. Then to my sorrow I was sure the gifted young man before me was in the last stage of the disease, and that was why treatment was not doing him much good. After some months he passed away.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Nancy Lee, age 11, of Oshawa, Ont., for her question:

What causes the salt flats of certain areas?

Most salt falts are neglected orphans of the sea and others are regions of dry land deserted by salt water lakes. Through some four billion years of geological history, the land and sea have been engaged in territorial warfare on a planet-wide scale. The sea has invaded vast areas of land and later receded to its natural domain. During the many Ice Ages, immense borders around the continents, uplifted above the salty water and sediments were deposited and remained in the earth's crust.

These sea-born chemicals in the earth's crust unfold a fascinating story of salt deposits deep underground. The patient events in this chemical story date far back in geological time. But they began as salt flats on the surface. Some began with landslides or other dramatic movements of the earth's restless crust cut off an arm or a slender finger of the sea. Some began when an island salty lake began to shrink.

The water of most lakes and rivers is pushed along by supplies of fresh rainwater. Their freshness carries traces of salty chemicals leeched from the rocky minerals of the gound and this almost-fresh water is dumped into the sea. The sun evaporates countless tons of moisture from the surface of the sea—but the dissolved chemicals are left behind. The water of the sea gets saltier every year and its dissolved chemicals are mingled with the wet, world-wide ocean.

Water Evaporates

But if a pocket of this salty water is cut off from the world ocean, it is left exposed to dry in the thirsty air. Its water evaperates into gaseous molecules that go off one by one into the atmosphere. Very few molecules of the dissolved chemicals go with them. As the water disappears, most of them are left behind to cover the ground as solid salty chemicals. Sediments tend to settle to the bottom of quiet water in flat layers. Most of our deposits from pockets of orphaned sea water tend to form level layers called salt flats.

Geologists can trace the history of these salty deposits. During the dry Permian Period of 200 million years ago, the seas gathered quantities of gypsum. At this time, thick layers of gypsum were deposited by pockets of water isolated from the ocean. Layers of ordinary slaty chemicals often alternate with these ancient gypsum deposits. Later the sea gathered and deposited layers of potassium and magnesium sulphates and still later it added large quotas of chloride compounds. These alternating chemical layers often tell the age-old history of salt flats and other salty deposits now buried deep underground.

One of the world's most speactacular salt flats is quite a bit south of the Canadian border. On a westward journey across the United States, you leave the Great Plains and climb the slopes to the stupendous western mountains. After Salt Lake City, the road leads through a dazzling white stretch of salt flats. There are a few hilly outcroppings of dark rock and on a clear day their mirror images are reflected in the level layer of crystal salt. This dazzling scenery was formed because long ago a salty inland sea called Lake Bonneville was cut off from the ocean.

Andy sends a 14-inch World Book Globe to Cheryl Harveille, age 11, of Bossier, Louisiana, for her question:

Why is radio reception better at night?

Our mighty sun constantly emits radiation of all kinds. Part of this radiation reaches the earth in the form of light and energy waves that the earth converts into heat. Some is trapped by the Van Allen belts far above the earth or is lost or bounced back by upper levels of the atmosphere. And solar radiation which strikes the layer of atmosphere called the ionosphere has an effect on the orderly beams from our broadcasting stations.

Many of our radio waves travel from place to place on earth by going out through the atmosphere, striking the ionsphere and bouncing back to earth. In the daytime, solar radiation lowers the level of the ionosphere so that it cannot bounce the waves back very far. At night, the ionosphere backboard is higher, and the radio waves are reflected over much greater distances of the earth.

Booby-Trap Treat Halloween Hazard

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Police in various parts of Canada are faced with a new type of criminal following a rash of complaints of deadly Halloween treats handed out to children.

In Toronto, Police visited schools in the east end while sound trucks toured the streets blaring warnings to parents to check all treats received by their children.'

At least 12 apples containing parts of razor blades had been recovered.

Two school children were cut by razor blades—one boy when he bit into an apple and a girl when a piece of blade in an apple sliced her finger.

The alarm sounded after Madeline Warren cut an apple brought home by one of her five children and found part of a blade. Police found another blade fragment in an apple in the Warren home.

In London, Ont., police reported more than 20 incidents of booby-trapped treats, including moth-balls covered with chocolate and apples containing razor blades and pins.

Inspector Len Elgie said one of the apples has given police a strong lead toward at least one suspect. He said the apple was handed out at one of four houses to a youngster accompanied by his father.

"Several sections of the Criminal Code could apply in charging persons responsible, but we will have to talk to the Crown attorney before we can reach a definite decision," Inspector Elgie said.

In the suburban Ottawa township of Nepean, parents were warned to cut open apples after several people compoained children had suffered cuts from razor blades in apples.

Police in Calgary reported "one or two" cases of pins found in apples, but there were no injuries.

In Edmonton, Lucy Blonjeauz told police her son Colin, nine, returned home from a trick-or-treat excursion and bit into one of the apples. A piece of razor blade was found in the apple before he could swallow it.

Herman Nardell, 14, told Edmonton police a man carrying a box of chocolate bars gave him one on Halloween night. The boy took the wrapper off and found a ¼-inch piece of razor blade in the bar. He threw it away and called police.

Surrey RCMP said they are investigating a report that children were given apples on Halloween in which razor blades had been imbedded.

They said only one such complaint had been made, but asked parents to check any remaining Halloween apples and report anything unusual to police.

Reading Expert At Conference Here Saturday

An American educator and specialist in reading instruction will speak to an estimated 200 elementary school teachers in a day-long conference Saturday.

Dr. Robert McCracken, director of the reading centre at Western Washington State College in Bellingham, will deal with individualized reading instruction.

The conference starts at 9 a.m. in Uvic's Education-Arts Building. Co-sponsors are the Vancouver Island Council of the International Reading Association and the intermediate teachers' group of the Greater Victoria Teachers Association.

Declaration of Intent

WHETHER OR NOT BRITISH Foreign Secretary Brown's optimism regarding Britain's acceptability to the European Common Market is well founded, he has made it very plain that the country is totally committed to achieving membership, and that this association would be fully political as well as economic.

Mr. Brown bases his latest remarks on information he has received in recent weeks regarding what he calls the growing public opinion in Europe which urges British unity with the continent. He sees recent French concentration on monetary and economic objections, rather than political, as a step forward, since these can be overcome. But the significant aspect of the minister's statement yesterday was his insistence that Britain has completely turned its back on any overseas obligations of its own and will in future be involved only as a European power.

* * *

As though to add emphasis to his stand, Mr. Brown announced Britain's intention to withdraw from Aden almost immediately rather than next January. This will leave even more chaos than a phased-out withdrawal would have caused, considering the domestic turmoil that wracks the area, but there would be criticism whatever course London took, and the impossibility of finding an acceptable solution to the current situation no doubt has encouraged the decision.

Mr. Brown's declaration of intent regarding the European Common Market does not, however, add much to a solution of the problems which already burden the matter of membership. France still holds a commanding position in that regard, and France is still opposed. West Germany is unwilling to challenge General de Gaulle on the matter, and the other members, while urging that Britain be accepted, have still to find answers to the questions which France raises.

To the earlier obstacles which General de Gaulle especially noted: Britain's Commonwealth attachment and its close alliance with the United States, have now been added doubts about Britain's economic security and the strength of the pound sterling. Concentration on the latter points, which Mr. Brown noted, does not mean that the former have been forgotten.

Although the minister spoke from a background of personal insecurity in his position, as a result of his recent actions in and out of parliament, and for a government beset by by-election losses and mounting criticism, he has at least put Britain on record as to policy: "Our major field of operation from now on must be in and through Europe." That, if implemented, must mark a watershed in the history of the island kingdom, for what Mr. Brown had in mind was full economic and a large measure of political integration, rather than the historic manipulation of balance of power which has been Britain's age-old policy of detachment regarding the continent.

It is a far cry from a one-time position as leader of the western world, but it is also a hard-headed assessment of the new conditions of this latter third of the twentieth century, and a clear-sighted recognition that Britain can still make a great contribution to world affairs through closer association with her allies across the channel.

Science for Productivity

BRITISH SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH still upholds the idea of knowledge for the sake of knowledge—a principle which has produced many practical benefits from the storehouse of information wrested from nature. But in an age when public funds are needed in large amounts to sustain research and scientific investigation there is increasing pressure on scientists to show how the endeavors of the laboratory, the observatory or the launching pad will repay in early material advances the investment which they demand.

An example of a similar trend at the moment is the partial withdrawal of scientists from a long-term study of nuclear fusion as a source of electricity, in order to release their services for immediate industrial problems. This is a development arising chiefly from the country's current economic crisis.

The change in emphasis has several points to commend it. Unless the economy is strengthened, funds could be lacking to push further ahead with pure science. And, in immediate practical terms, it would answer in part the argument that British authorities are monopolizing the supply of scientists in research to a degree which leaves British industry lagging behind that of the United States.

As Mr. Anthony Wedgwood Benn, Britain's minister of technology, puts it: "Where public money is invested, especially in the government's own laboratories, we now want to see a return."

Success for this effort to improve Britain's economy through application of science and research in industry could have another significant result. It might furnish the funds to provide larger opportunities to British scientists — make it more attractive to them to remain working at home than to emigrate—and thus be an important factor in slowing the "brain drain" which currently is causing such deep concern.

Reducing the Class Size

TWO FIGURES OF SUBSTANTIAL importance are listed in a small item included in the most recent news bulletin issued by the Greater Victoria school board to parents' auxiliaries. The figures disclose an over-all increase of 905 in the district school population, an over-all increase in teachers of 99.

Here is evidence of earnest efforts to reduce class sizes and to meet obvious needs in the more diversified educational program desired for the community.

Thirty-six new teachers had to be hired to staff new classrooms this year. Another ten remedial course teachers have been engaged, six have been added to the music staff and the kindergartens have required more. Provision for better school libraries, and the introduction of expanded vocational courses at two senior high schools have also necessitated staff increases.

The costs of the jump in personnel are met in part by the provincial government's latest reduction of the class total for which it is prepared to make a major salary contribution. Last year's standard pupil-teacher ratio of 37 to 1 has now been changed to 36 to 1. This provides provincial government salary grants for 23 more teachers.

The growing student population and the provision of broader teaching services account for much of the increase in the number of teachers. At the same time the board has shown willing co-operation with the profession in the drive to reduce class sizes — a development that should be applauded.

A Republic is No Guarantee of Unity

IN his book, Challenge of Confidence, Mr. Eric Kierans argues in very tentative fashion for republican institutions as a means of fostering the Canadian sense of identity and promoting national unity. The same idea has been expressed by Mr. Gerin-Lajoie and perhaps by Mr. Daniel Johnson, although the premier's actual words of last year were in a distinctively Quebec context. It seems to me this is another of those disembodied notions which make dialogue so difficult. One cannot very well respond to a challenge too vague to be grasped, Mr. Kierans recognizes this elsewhere in his attempt to sketch a new division of powers which might be a basis for constitutional amendment.

Western

There was a time when the eradication of capitalism was popular with many Canadians who have since diverted their energies to other goals. They assumed in those years that many glaringly obvious social evils were inherent in "the system" and would disappear with a change of system. In the circumstances neither assumption seemed unreasonable but neither has been borne out by post-war experience.

Floating on Faith

The new Quebec republicanism, although a similar mixture of analysis and faith, floats chiefly on faith. Our institutions are imperfect, symbolically inadequate, and change is therefore essential. While Mr. Kierans and Mr. Gerin-Lajoie are not too clear on what the change should be, they know in their bones that it will be for the better.

It is unfortunate that we are compelled by the Kierans book to resort to mind-reading. He is evidently unhappy about the preamble to the BNA Act which speaks of "one Dominion under the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, with a constitution similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom." This is "strange and anachronistic" when Britain is withdrawing from her old imperial outposts and when she "belongs to Europe," whatever Mr. de Gaulle may say. He continues:

North American Emphasis

"Canada belongs to North America as the whole network of our canals, rivers, bridges, highways and air routes makes evident. A British monarchy, representing and personifying a European nation that is no longer an empire, will find it difficult to symbolize in any effective way a North American nation grounded in a bi national culture. Our need for a national sentiment . . . for the unity of all our people and for our own clear purpose must be grounded in Canadian reality and cannot subsist on a nostalgia for yesterday's glories. We cannot continue as half-French or half-British."

Mr. Kierans sees this as one area of constitutional change which is "essential to our development as a unified and independent nation."

If the preamble no longer corresponds to reality, we can change it. But it does not necessarily follow that the replacement of the Crown by a presidency would promote the unity of a nation with two cultures. A few questions arise.

Symbolism or Power?

First, do we want a strictly head-of-state president for reasons or symbolism, or do we want a power president? If we are bent on conforming to the North American pattern, we need a power president. This certainly is Mr. Daniel Johnson's thought. He wants a presidential system so that he can choose a cabinet from persons of administrative ability who are not in the legislature. Mr. Kierans seems to be thinking more in terms of state dinners although he wavers between two very different concepts.

Despite the canals and bridges he would probably be wise to concentrate on a European-style presidency. The more power we give a president, the more problems we may have.

The greatest example of a power president in our hemisphere is, of course, the American. It has its roots in the constitution of 1789 which should be of interest to us for a reason which we persistently ignore or deny. What it did was to accommodate in one federal state two founding cultures linked by a common language but separated by institutional differences far greater than anything today observable in English and French Canada. One measure of the gap is the original representation formula based on the principle that a slave should count as 3-5 of a freeman.

Civil War

It cannot be said that the American presidency, despite its undoubted success and vast prestige has invariably been a force for unity. After the Buchanan drift, the election of Mr. Lincoln was followed by the secession of the south and the four-year civil war. This is not to suggest, indeed it would be ridiculous to suggest, that the war was attributable to the office. But it does justify the modest conclusion that republican institutions are something less than a sovereign remedy for problems of disunity.

We hear that the Crown is controversial, anachronistic; that it arouses the passions of the separatists. This may be less alarming when we consider U.S. experience. After all Americans have shot four of their 35 presidents and they came within one vote of impeaching another. It is not for us to criticize this level of performance. We may, however, derive some comfort from the fact that we have lived more quietly with our own anachronistic institutions.

Method of Choice

Following Mr. Kierans' thought, we will have to decide not only on the type of president we want but also on the question of how we are to choose him. According to a former congressman, Mr. Ed Gossett, in a thoughtful article currently appearing in Reader's Digest' "How to choose a chief executive was the most bitterly debated provision of the U.S. constitution." Mr. Gossett argues persuasively that it has not yet been satisfactorily solved.

Would Quebec republicans prefer indirect or direct electing? The former, winner-take-all system might have some advantages, ensuring for example that the Quebec vote would not be split. But in light of American experience we should approach this with some care. The first U.S. experiment with an electoral college was not a success. Mr. Jefferson's election led to the regrettable shooting of the great Alexander Hamilton by a vengeful Aaron Burr. We would do well to keep shooting clauses out of our constitution.

Unhappily the reformed American electoral college has also been disappointing. On more than one occasion a candidate has won the popular vote only to lose the presidency. This happened in 1876. "Only by a real exercise of patriotism and statesmanship," writes Mr. Gossett, "did Tilden dissuade his ardent supporters from starting a civil war."

We can, of course, avoid this by direct election. But apart from symbolism it is difficult to see why the idea would have much appeal in Quebec.

For most of the time the Crown is represented in Canada by the governor-general. Nowadays he is a Canadian and a person chosen with extreme care. The appointee must be detached from partisan politics and acceptable to both sections. One cannot imagine a unilingual governor-general. In addition, the Massey-Vanier-Michener succession strongly suggests that a convention is in the making which ensures an alternation of appointments between French and English.

Unfavorable to Quebec

Since French-speaking Canadians comprise only about 30 per cent of the population, Quebec could scarcely expect such a favorable result if the head of state was chosen by popular election, directly or indirectly. Of our 14 prime ministers, two were French Canadians.

We have had no consitutional dispute involving the governor-general since 1926. If we decide to have an elective president, however, there will be a new situation. Popular election is an argument for power. What will be the relationship between an elective president and an elective prime minister, if we are to have both? No doubt we will start with some reasonably tidy constitutional arrangement. Will this tidiness continue to appeal to both sections if, as may easily happen, the president is of one culture, the prime minister of another?

Seeds of Dissatisfaction

But suppose the choice is a power presidency, like the American. That power attracts is apparent from the last Conservative convention when nine men contested the leadership. The more power attached to an office, the more presumably it will attract able and ambitious men. But if this is true, it seems to me that the new situation would be even less favorable to Quebec aspirations. It might be countered by bloc politics but this is scarcely the stuff of unity, even if successful. The new symbolism would be unhelpful if it excited hopes only to plunge them into deeper dissatisfaction.

There is no doubt that Mr. Kierans is a man in search of unity. It is far less clear that he has found the road.

Looking Back

From The Times, Nov. 3, 1907.

With the customary enterprise which has marked the transactions of the famous Hudson's Bay Company through the hundred years since its inception, it has now decided to build steamers to replace the Mount Royal which was lost in the Skeena on July 14.

The contracts for the hulls and cabin works have been let to Alec Watson of Victoria, while the boilers and machinery will be built by the Polson Iron Works Ltd., of Toronto. The two vessels will be completed by April 1.

Interpreting The Battle

By JOSEPH ALSOP
From Washington

RETURNING travellers always have a sad tendency to go on too long about their impressions garnered overseas. Even so, one further word resulting from a long Far Eastern trip is really irresistible. The essence of this further word is a warning—the warning that nothing like a true picture of the war in Vietnam is coming through. To illustrate, let us take a specific, rather recent instance.

Alsop

Not long ago, a minor unit of the U.S. 1st Division ran into a whole regiment of the enemy's 9th Viet Cong Division. The meeting surprised the Americans and their losses were fairly heavy. The engagement received the fullest front page coverage, plus the usual hyped-up coverage by the television people.

As far as the American public were concerned, the story ended there. But in reality, it did not end there, by any means. To begin with, there was the remarkable basic reason for the surprise of the American unit by the enemy unit—to be specific, by the 271st Regiment of the VC division.

The basic reason for the surprise was that the 271st Regiment turned up where it had no business to be, far from its allotted base in the remote depths of War Zone D. A captured document—a letter from a regimental political officer to the VC high command in the south—furthermore revealed that the 271st Regiment had been driven to move out from its base towards the more populated areas, because its men were approaching starvation on a diet of little but rice-gruel.

Once Proudest

Such, then, was the condition of the First Regiment of a division which used to be the proudest, toughest and most celebrated of all the larger VC outfits in the whole of South Vietnam. Long ago, in addition, the division ceased to be a VC outfit in anything but name. For want of VC recruits in the South, in fact, the 9th VC Division has been repeatedly filled up with northern replacements.

As to the division's second regiment, the 272nd, it was already in such bad shape eight or 10 months ago that it had to be pulled out of the line for rear area duty, being temporarily replaced with a regiment of northern origin. More recently this 272nd Regiment was returned to the 9th VC Division. But hard intelligence has recently revealed that it has been given a "food production role"—meaning that this regiment is wholly engaged in jungle-farming, for reasons that can be deduced from the surprise move of the 271st Regiment.

As to the division's third regiment, the 273rd, it has been in the news very recently, as the result of an obstinate but wholly unsuccessful attack on the special service camp at Loc Ninh, near the Cambodian border. For an entire regiment to assault a special service camp (with a garrison of eight or nine Americans plus perhaps 300 South Vietnamese) and to fail disastrously in the attempt, is something that really offers food for thought.

What Is Important?

What then is more important? The fact that an American unit had some bad luck, which came through in full force at home, or that the proudest, toughest and most celebrated VC division is now in quasi-ruins, which had not even been mentioned before these words were written?

No one with the least interest in the progress of the war can have any doubt about the right answer to the foregoing questions. Why, then, does the war's real pattern and trend fail to come through at home?

In part, the answer to this further question is not pleasant for anyone proud of being a newspaperman. For example, this war has had only two really decisive battles to date. The newspaper that claims pre-eminence in this country reported the first of these two battles exclusively in terms of U.S. losses, with hardly a mention of the fearful defeat the enemy was suffering. It then denied that the main body of the enemy had even been engaged in the second.

Mainly, however, the difficulty arises from the sheer complexity of the war's pattern, which is enormously hard to convey in a balanced way. Meanwhile, the main point to note is quite simple. The true pattern and trend of the war are in fact rather accurately indicated by the foregoing summary of the state of the 9th VC Division. In military terms, as well as in political terms, the American and allied efforts are at last beginning to pay off.

For Amalgamation

With regard to the Amalgamation Study Report as to the feasibility of Sidney and North Saanich merging, it is obvious that the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages.

Are the knowledge and experience of two North Saanich council members who oppose the union greater than the experts', management consultants, Stevenson and Kellog Ltd., who have nationwide experience in such matters?

Mergers are taking place all over the world with corporations, businesses, cities and municipalities, etc. in order to keep administrative costs down.

So be smart, get out and vote for amalgamation.—Taxpayer.

The alarm sounded after Madeline Warren cut an apple brought home by one of her five children and found part of a blade. Police found another blade fragment in an apple in the Warren home.

In London, Ont., police reported more than 20 incidents of booby-trapped treats, including moth-balls covered with chocolate and apples containing razor blades and pins.

Inspector Len Elgie said one of the apples has given police a strong lead toward at least one suspect. He said the apple was handed out at one of four houses to a youngster accompanied by his father.

"Several sections of the Criminal Code could apply in charging persons responsible, but we will have to talk to the Crown attorney before we can reach a definite decision," Inspector Elgie said.

In the suburban Ottawa township of Nepean, parents were warned to cut open apples after several people compoained children had suffered cuts from razor blades in apples.

Police in Calgary reported "one or two" cases of pins found in apples, but there were no injuries.

In Edmonton, Lucy Blonjeauz told police her son Colin, nine, returned home from a trick-or-treat excursion and bit into one of the apples. A piece of razor blade was found in the apple before he could swallow it.

Herman Nardell, 14, told Edmonton police a man carrying a box of chocolate bars gave him one on Halloween night. The boy took the wrapper off and found a ¼-inch piece of razor blade in the bar. He threw it away and called police.

Surrey RCMP said they are investigating a report that children were given apples on Halloween in which razor blades had been imbedded.

They said only one such complaint had been made, but asked parents to check any remaining Halloween apples and report anything unusual to police.

Reading Expert At Conference Here Saturday

An American educator and specialist in reading instruction will speak to an estimated 200 elementary school teachers in a day-long conference Saturday.

Dr. Robert McCracken, director of the reading centre at Western Washington State College in Bellingham, will deal with individualized reading instruction.

The conference starts at 9 a.m. in Uvic's Education-Arts Building. Co-sponsors are the Vancouver Island Council of the International Reading Association and the intermediate teachers' group of the Greater Victoria Teachers Association.

Swazi Self Rule

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Britain was reported today to have agreed to grant independence next year to Swaziland, the last remaining British protectorate in Africa. The South African Broadcasting Corp., said the mountainous kingdom, sandwiched between South Africa and Mozambique, would get independence Sept. 6 next year.

FINAL BULLETINS

No Bribe Charge Received

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary Judy LaMarsh told the Commons today she has "not yet" received any reports of bribes being offered in the Colchester-Hants byelection.

She was replying to Raymond Rock (L—Montreal Jacques Cartier-Lasalle) who apparently based his question on a published report that two independent candidates said they were offered bribes to withdraw from the byelection.

OTTAWA (CP) — Final estimates placed the 1967 wheat crop at 592,900,000 bushels, down 28 per cent from last year's record, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Quality Key to TV Choice

Weapon Threat To U.S. Bombers?

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—United States Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara said today the Soviet Union is developing what appears to be a powerful new space bomb, but he described it as an inaccurate weapon easily detected and destroyed.

He told a press conference the weapon, which appears to be under tests by the Russians, could be fired into a very low orbit and perhaps threaten the United States strategic bomber force.

But he said he is not concerned about the Soviet tests, and the weapon — known here as a fractional orbital bombardment system—is not the so-called orbiting terror bomb which former Soviet Premier Khrushchev spoke of several years ago.

Bennett Urges Voluntary Curbs

By JOHN MIKA

VANCOUVER—Premier Bennett today warned all British Columbians they are in the front lines of an economic war for survival and broadly hinted he may have to introduce compulsory wage and price controls in the province if the people can't win it through voluntary restraint.

See Stories, Pages 2, 20

Both in a keynote speech at the Social Credit convention here and a subsequent press conference, Mr. Bennett indicated he has given marching orders to all government agencies to slow down borrowing and he appealed to the public to do the same.

Mr. Bennett said if inflation continues British Columbia faces unemployment through loss of export markets or drastic economic controls imposed by the government.

"I ask the people to discipline themselves because I'm the last one who wants to see compulsory prices and wages and a board like we had in wartime," the premier explained at the press conference.

"But if the people don't show self discipline then we'll force one of two things—either that type of bureaucracy or unemployment."

"Unless people can discipline themselves, the world market will discipline (them). The world market, and I'm talking about forces, not people, is ruthless."

He also hinted that B.C. will bargain hard to improve its relative position among provinces at any constitutional revision conferences.

Mr. Bennett said B.C. Hydro and other crown corporations along with all other government departments have been ordered to "save every nickel" by cutting all projected borrowings to the bone.

He said projects like the Peace River and Columbia River developments cannot be stopped and not all borrowing by the government agencies can be eliminated but everything that can be postponed will be.

'Cut Borrowings to Bone'

His next budget will be a record inevitably because of the expanding population and economy in B.C. but it will not be inflationary, Mr. Bennett said.

He said last year when he appealed for cutbacks in overtime, labor and business responded by reducing it 75 per cent.

This time he is asking everyone to respond again by eliminating borrowing for personal purposes, by restraint in wage negotiations, by restraint in price setting even in such things as home rents.

Asked by reporters if he was threatening a compulsory wage and price clamp-down if his appeal goes unheeded, Mr. Bennett replied:

"I'm not even thinking along those lines."

Asked how such controls could be introduced by unilateral action of the provincial government, he replied:

"I haven't looked into the legal aspect at all."

But he smiled broadly when an interviewer observed everyone knew the provincial government has jurisdictional power already.

And later he said managing an economy is akin to refereeing a hockey game with its blue lines.

"Sometimes you have to blow the whistle and the Premier might have to blow the whistle once or twice this year."

Mr. Bennett said federal monetary and budgetary policies were the sole culprit in the present "financial bind" which prompted his appeal.

"We (provincial government) will try to do everything we can, but to win this war against inflation and increasing costs—and it's a people's war—the people will have to be in the front lines."

He maintained that if the public responded to his urging, the provincial economy would continue growing and lead to "greater prosperity than we've ever had yet."

Back Up Charge Says CBC Chief

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC president Alphonse Ouimet today demanded that State Secretary LaMarsh substantiate her charges of "rotten management" within the corporation.

He said in a letter to Miss LaMarsh:

"You will understand that the corporation cannot allow your public charges to remain unsubstantiated."

He asked Miss LaMarsh to provide the CBC with "all information in your possession on which you base the charges of 'rotten management' within the corporation."

Mr. Ouimet said accusations as made by the minister "are capable of destroying public confidence in a national institution which must have the respect and confidence of the public it was created to serve."

OUIMET ASTONISHED

Mr. Ouimet said he is "astonished" that Miss LaMarsh did not immediately give him her information on which she based her charges.

"It is essential that the corporation be given all relative information which may be in your possession," he said.

Miss LaMarsh said she learned only in the last two weeks from "exceptionally knowledgeable" persons that things were going on in the CBC which led her to make her charge of "rotten management" in some places in the CBC.

Mr. Ouimet's letter was made public as the Commons debated the new broadcasting act. He was in the gallery at the time.

The letter said Miss LaMarsh's charges cast serious aspersions on the entire CBC management "and may do irremediable harm to the personal and professional reputations of all those within this group."

"If your charges are correct, they must be confined to those responsible and the corporation will take appropriate action."

A spokesman in the state secretary's office said Miss LaMarsh might comment on Mr. Ouimet's letter later today.

Cong May Join Talks, U.S. Decides

By MURRAY MARDER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON—The United States opened up new possibilities for negotiations on Vietnam Thursday by publicly conceding a voice in peace talks to the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said that if members of the United Nations Security Council believe the NLF "ought to be invited" to UN peace talks which the United States has sought in vain to initiate, "we would join in."

The United States "would not initiate an invitation," Goldberg told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, but "our vote would be available if necessary" to bring the NLF or "any other group" into peace talks at the UN.

Perhaps more significantly, Goldberg said the United States "would recognize the competence" of Britain and the Soviet Union as co-chairmen of the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conferences, "to decide the invitees and the scope" of any conference to seek peace in Southeast Asia.

Snipers, Looters Jolt N. Carolina

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Peace returned to downtown Winston-Salem today following a night of racial violence blamed on hoodlums.

During the night, 34 persons, including seven policemen, were injured and 51 were arrested.

Three Negroes were treated for gunshot wounds.

City officials said it might be several days before an accurate estimate could be made of damage caused by looting and fires. Fire Chief C. L. Williams said damage from about 55 fires alone probably would run "into the tens of thousands of dollars."

The violence began late Thursday following the burial of a Negro who died after being struck by a policeman.

Mayor W. C. Benton said the trouble was started by "a bunch of hoodlums who have taken advantage of a situation."

Negro leaders had urged that the rioting stop.

About dawn this morning some 400 national guardsmen and police encircled eight blocks in the downtown section of the city, widely known for its major cigarette factories. All persons entering the area were screened before being admitted.

By 8 a.m. the area was open to normal traffic.

Police remained on guard at a few of the overnight trouble spots.

Fire bombings and reports of sniper fire kept police and firemen busy in various sections of the city before daybreak. There was looting downtown and at two shopping centres.

Chinese Stage Walkout

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Two Chinese diplomats today walked out of a Kremlin rally marking the anniversary of the Russian Revolution when Soviet Communist Leader Lenod Brezhnev accused the Chinese leadership of trying to split the world Communist movement.

The Soviet Communist party chief also accused the Chinese of hindering Vietnamese Communists in their struggle against the "criminal aggression" of the United States.

Addressing a jubilee meeting in the Kremlin marking the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution of Nov. 7, 1917, Brezhnev also pledged continued Soviet aid to North Vietnam until U.S. forces get out of Vietnam and assailed Chinese Communists leaders.

He claimed the Soviet Army has the best weaponry in the world, and "in a clash with any aggressor the Soviet Union will win a victory."

He renewed a call for a world Communist conference, a project opposed by several Communist countries, many of those leaders were in the hall to hear Brezhnev's speech.

Banks Faces Extradition

NEW YORK (CP)—Extradition of Hal C. Banks, 58, former head of the Canadian Seafarers' International Union, was recommended today by a United States federal commissioner.

The province of Ontario asked for Banks' extradition to face perjury charges arising from testimony before a Royal commission into violence on the Great Lakes.

Commissioner S. T. Abruzzo said he would recommend to the U.S. secretary of state that Banks be extradited. He found no merit in legal attacks made by Abe Brodsky, Banks' lawyer, against the validity of the Canadian-U.S. extradition treaties.

Brodsky announced on leaving court that he will apply at once for a writ of habeas corpus, which is the next step open to him in fighting extradition.

"This is only the first round," he said in announcing he would apply for a writ in the federal court to prevent extradition.

If extradited, Banks will face trial in Ottawa. The maximum sentence on conviction is 14 years.

Banks was arrested in New York Aug. 29 and has been in custody without bail since then while the Ontario government, represented by New York law-

'SOMETHING ROTTEN'

Purge Looms for CBC, LaMarsh Warns Commons

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA— A purge is coming within the senior ranks of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation after the new broadcasting legislation has been passed by Parliament, State Secretary Judy LaMarsh warned in the Commons Thursday.

The blunt warning came when the minister who reports to Parliament for the CBC was confronted with her declaration made Wednesday that "some" segments of CBC management are "rotten."

Opposition members leaped to their feet as soon as the House convened Thursday to demand an explanation from Miss LaMarsh of her public indictment of the CBC management.

Miss LaMarsh came out of her corner fighting.

The term "rotten," she told the Commons, was not too strong or too "colorful" language to use in this case.

She added, "It is really in the past two weeks that some exceptionally knowledgeable people have given me some examples which cause the use of language which might otherwise by considered too "colorful."

Miss LaMarsh continued, "There is a reasonable probability that within the next few weeks or months there will be some changes in personnel and presumably some great changes within the corporation's management."

Later outside the Commons when surrounded by newspapermen she explained her use of the term "rotten." She said that it did not involve anything "crooked," but had undoubtedly resulted in loss of money to the taxpayer "among other things."

In the House Miss LaMarsh had the apparent support of Prime Minister Pearson. The broadcasting critic for the official opposition, Gordon Fairweather (PC—Royal) demanded the reaction of the prime minister to the "sweeping indictment of the CBC management."

Mr. Pearson replied calmly, "I do not think there was anything sweeping about this statement."

VICTORIAN ORDER

18,800 House Calls Keep Nurses Hopping, Helping

By DON VIPOND

If you are old and frail, alone and hurt, chances are nobody need tell you about the Victorian Order of Nurses.

These are the ladies who may be visiting you every day, helping you with chores everyone else does without thinking.

They do much more. But it's hard to tell in cold print what a word of encouragement can mean to a bedridden woman—slowly convalescing from disease or surgery, to an old man left alone, wondering if life is still worth the struggle.

Of the $600,000 urgently needed in the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal, $32,621 is earmarked for the VON. That's about one-third of the agency's budget for this year.

From offices at 1951 Cook Street, 12 nurses have made 18,802 house calls looking after 2,355 people during the first nine months of this year.

"If people are able to pay they do so and rates are adjusted to ability to pay," explains district director Elizabeth Riddell. "But care isn't refused anyone."

The VON is active in Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and View Royal and in some ways its work saves rather than costs money.

Part of the VON's job lies in rehabilitation, working with victims of strokes or fractures to get them back on their feet. In this it has the services part-time of a physiotherapist.

Most of the patients helped by Victorian Order nurses are elderly, about four out of five are over 70. While care initially may mean as many as three visits a day, the majority of patients are visited about three times a week.

United Appeal

Put Him Up On Top

Party Future Probed By Anxious Socreds

Times Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER—The B.C. Social Credit League's annual convention formally opened here today amid signs that some of the government's grass roots are worried about the party's future and a few are uneasy about several cabinet attitudes.

The indications were studded through 87 resolutions submitted for consideration by constituency organizations.

But two of the resolutions urged the party to intensify its struggle with other parties—going so far as to suggest a "non-partisan" entry into civic politics and establishment of a shadow legislature by the party which would bypass elected opposition MLAs in influencing government policy.

A couple of resolutions also showed the followers are considerably more daring than the leaders as the convention was urged to approve of legalized lotteries and creation of a "department of tomorrow" cabinet portfolio.

PULL TOGETHER

The largest number of resolutions on a single topic exhorted the party to pull itself together as a national force and reaffirm its principles.

Four resolutions indicated serious worry that the government is pussyfooting with pollution, three advocated a sort of "farmer boy" ploy to wrest a better deal for rural electrification and gas supplies.

Four urged creation of more provincial parks and campsites while a fifth sought an order to B.C. Hydro to clear areas before they are flooded for reservoirs so they could become prime fishing holes.

Demands for establishment of a department of consumer affairs to protect the ordinary citizen, province-wide enumeration of voters, more assistance to chronically ill and low interest mortgage loans drew two resolutions each.

Vancouver-Burrard said "there is doubt in many minds as to the direction of the national Social Credit Association" so it urged the delegates to declare the national party "to be the only vehicle" for implementing the party's program in Canada and "further resolved that the B.C. Social Credit League pledge material and moral support" to the national wing.

West Vancouver-Howe Sound asked "this convention give consideration to changing the name of Social Credit Party to a more 'appropriate name' denoting its free-enterprise ideals.

Victoria said the convention should "go on record as appealing to the federal executive to arrange a federal Social Credit convention at an early date to reorganize our aims."

WIN SEATS

Victoria also submitted a resolution noting "the strength and influence represented by the B.C. and Alberta governments was not in evidence to any appreciable extend in the last federal election" so it urged the B.C. party "to co-operate in giving studied attention to federal affairs" as a means of helping Socred federal candidates win seats.

Chilliwack said it wanted no part of "political re-alignment" (proposed by Alberta Premier Manning to the Progressive Conservative party) and urged "this convention reaffirm its confidence and support for Social Credit as a national movement."

Baldest appeal for a return to party loyalty was a Cowichan-Malahat resolution which admitted "there would appear to be differences of opinion regarding Social Credit philosophy" but asked the delegates to "confirm their adherence to the philosophies and principles of Social Credit and work for their ultimate success."

Other purely political resolutions asked the party to venture into new fields.

OTHER PARTIES

Burrard constituency, charging other parties are trying to gain control of local governments and manipulate them for partisan purposes against the provincial government, urged the league's constituency organizations to "support morally and materially those capable non-socialist candidates for local government who will use their positions for partisan politics."

And Coquitlam—which has an opposition MLA—implied that it is suffering through government policy aimed at punishing ridings that don't vote for government candidates.

"Whereas many constituencies without Social Credit members have difficult liaison with the government," it said in a preamble.

"Therefore, be it resolved that the government appoint an elected member to help each constituency and the league advise the constituencies who their contact person will be:"

Alberni constituency asked provincial initiative to legalize lotteries "operated by government or under the supervision of them so that Canadians will they participate in such legalized lotteries." It pointed out more than 250,000 Canadians now buy lottery tickets which enrich foreign concerns.

Chilliwack said almost 50 per cent of B.C.'s population is under 25 years of age so a government department to "be known as the 'department of tomorrow'" should be established to administer the needs of youth and "the minister of tomorrow shall hold but one portfolio."

Vancouver-Burrard also asked for a similar portfolio which it entitled the department of youth.

PRICE FIXING

Omineca constituency charged price fixing "is getting more common each year" so it urged establishment of a department of consumer affairs while Cariboo said one of the female ministers without portfolio should be made a minister of consumer affairs.

An unidentified resolution urged the government to "take all necessary steps to prevent pollution of B.C. waters, minimize air pollution by industry and cars and conduct a fierce anti-litter campaign.

Cowichan-Malahat asked provincial financial assistance to municipalities for sewage and treatment facilities.

Vancouver-Point Grey said B.C. rivers "have reached a dangerous pollution stage" and urged provincial-federal co-operation in adding sewage disposal units to all new wharves.

Cariboo advocated a blunt demand.

"Whereas pollution of land and water is fast becoming a serious health hazard for our entire country, therefore be it resolved that vigorous action be taken to combat this very real menace to the health of our citizens," it proposed.

Thursday, the pre-convention meeting of the Socred women's auxiliary adopted a motion demanding more government concern and action because "pollution of land and water is fast becoming a serious health hazard."

The women delegates pressured Mrs. Pat Jordan, minister without portfolio, to take the platform and explain the government's policy on pollution.

Mrs. Jordan said that there are many technical problems involved but "I want to assure you that this government is aware of pollution and that information is now being gathered."

The auxiliary also voted, without discussion, in favor of a Hansard verbatim record of debates in the legislature.

. . . BENNETT

"And do not replace them by underwear Tories, because all you would do is jump from the pot into the fire."

He said B.C. should send a Socred group to Ottawa which would be non-partisan in approaching national problems but would fight for a fair deal for B.C. which he predicted will become the most populous province within the next century.

Mr. Bennett, in an apparent forecast of his government's general position on constitutional changes, downgraded the current discussion over Quebec's aspirations.

He said despite all the current argument Canada is more united than it ever has been in the past and there is no crisis.

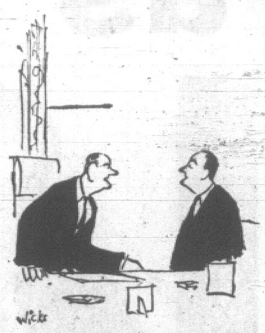

But he said British Columbia is not receiving enough recognition from the rest of the country for "keeping the whole economy going" through its surplus government finances and its export market earnings.

NEW SESSION ON JAN. 25

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett announced today the 29th session of the British Columbia legislature will begin Jan. 25.

The premier did not elaborate on possible Social Credit legislation, but said during his speech that the 1968 provincial budget will in all likelihood be "tens of millions of dollars" ahead of this year's record $739,000,000 budget.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—Clearing skies late on Thursday allowed temperatures to drop sharply on the coast and light frosts occurred in many areas. Vancouver airport had its coldest temperature so far this fall at 31 degrees. Extensive fog patches that formed overnight in low-lying areas of the Lower Mainland dissipated this morning but the fog will reform again Saturday morning. The ridge of high pressure will continue to dominate the weather patern for British Columbia and most areas will be sunny Saturday. However, a weak Pacific disturbance will move into northern B.C. early Saturday, accompanied by a band of cloud.

601-CARAT DIAMOND is held up by Petrus Ramoboa as his wife Ernestine watches at a New York news conference today. She found the diamond last May while sifting gravel on a small claim owned by her husband in Lesotho, formerly the British Colony of Basutoland, in Africa. Ramoboa has received $302,400 as his share from the sale of the diamond. The couple, wearing high-crowned straw hats said to be worn by Lesotho dignitaries, arrived in New York yesterday. ## LIFE OF SQUALOR
Young Girls Lured To Hippie Quarter

TORONTO (UPI) — A top official said Thursday the city police were moving into the hippie Yorkville section in an effort to find and return to their homes young girls who come here in search of freedom and adventure but often end up living in squalor.

"The real evil of Yorkville is what is happening to these young girls," said Deputy Chief Bernard Simmonds, in charge of criminal investigation for the metropolitan police.

Arrest records and board of health statistics released Thursday showed that both marijuana peddling and venereal disease have increased markedly in the area over the past several years.

DRUG USERS

Simmonds said that arrests for drug use, mostly involving marijuana and LSD, were "running twice as high" so far this year as compared with last year's records.

Simmonds noted that the sexual promiscuity of Yorkville's youth was "not a true form of prostitution" but rather was "a morals problem."

Simmonds said that "you have these young people out of work — they're out of money and looking for a place to stay. They get together and move into a house or 'pad' and the boys and girls all live together. good, but we try to clean it up through enforcement and so far we're doing a damn good job."

VAGRANCY

He said the main means of removing the teenagers from Yorkville was by arresting youths on marijuana and vagrancy charges. The charge of "Vag A" alleges the person has been wandering at large without visible means of support.

So far, more than 2,000 missing girls have been located in the Yorkville area this year after they were reported missing. It was not known how many of them eventually returned to their homes.

'Bullets' Were Really Marbles

TORONTO (CP) — Every available policeman was called to duty and the downtown area was sealed off Thursday night after police received reports that shots had been fired at a bank, stores, restaurants and homes and a man had been abducted.

Police stopped a car and the "gunmen" were three youths with a sling-shot and a supply of marbles which when fired left holes in windows resembling those made by a .22-calibre weapon.

Police said the "abduction victim" found lying across the back seat crying "whee," was "so drunk he didn't know what was going on."

Police said the car had brushed him at a curb and the "kids were going to take him to a hospital."

Police estimate that damage, mostly in broken windows amounted to about $10,000.

In 1964 Banks jumped $25,000 bail and fled to his native U.S. while his appeal was pending in Montreal against conviction of conspiring to assault a rival union leader.

Banks had been sentenced to five years. His appeal was dismissed after his flight.

Ape Painting Show A Tearing Success

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The exhibition was a success but an ape tore art in action into shreds Thursday at San Francisco Zoo.

It was the first showing of the paintings by the zoo's two most talented chimpanzees. Their pictures at the fence of the ape grotto drew a large crowd.

Tallulah, an eight-year-old who had painted three blue abstracts which could almost pass for Paul Klee art—at 50 feet or farther—was the first to enter the "studio." Keeper Doug Farrington carried her brush and easel.

She stopped short when she saw the crowd, put a hand over her mouth and hooted. She threw a kiss and then became intent on her canvas, which had been given a thick starter line of paint. She smelled it, licked it, and then began to eat the nontoxic paint.

Later, she went into her sleeping quarters and came back with Candy, a much larger 11-year-old chimpanzee. Both apes carried their own easels. Candy had a paint roller. With it she daubed brown abstracts which had been entitled Suffering Succotash and Paint by Numbers.

Dr. Robert Glaser, a University of California animal behaviorist who has collected more than 200 ape paintings, explained the scene.

Apes, he said, have full color vision and are discriminating. Some are talented and like to paint—each with its own individuality.

MURDERESS HAS BABY

PERUGIA, Italy (AP) — A woman who has been serving a life term in jail since 1963 for slaying her husband has given birth to a baby, prison authorities announced today. The woman, 30-year-old Maria Muscarella Solino, has refused to disclose the identity of the baby's father. She was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in 1963 for killing her husband, Giuseppe Solino, a Sicilian mafia leader.

Ellis Funeral On Saturday

Funeral services will be held at Sands' chapel at 1 p.m. Saturday for Robert Michael Ellis, 24, of 1157 Balmoral, who was killed in an Oct. 26 car crash on the Trans-Canada Highway, near Boston Bar.

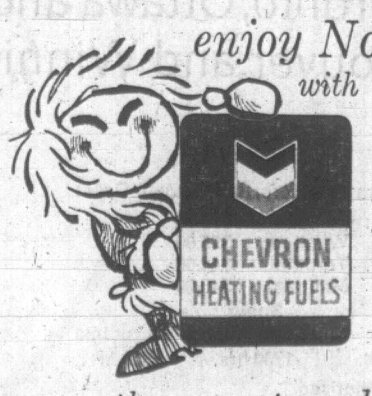

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis, and a sister, Barbara Menzel of Langford.

FLAMES, SMOKE SPURT FROM ALASKA VOLCANO

Mount Redoubt, 10,117 feet high, was classified as dormant, though it emitted smoke off and on since February, 1965.

It is located across the Cook Inlet from the city of Keni, centre of Alaska's oil exploration and production industry.

Officials here reported there was no danger to any populated area from the molten material flowing from the volcano but warned that if the high winds which have been raking Alaska for the last week were to shift, smoke and ash might be carried over the city.

U.S. RECOMMENDATION

Banks Faces Extradition

NEW YORK (CP)—Extradition of Hal C. Banks, 58, former head of the Canadian Seafarers' International Union, was recommended today by a United States federal commissioner.

BANKS
. . . will appeal

The province of Ontario asked for Banks' extradition to face perjury charges arising from testimony before a Royal commission into violence on the Great Lakes.

Commissioner S. T. Abruzzo said he would recommend to the U.S. secretary of state that Banks be extradited. He found no merit in legal attacks made by Abe Brodsky, Banks' lawyer, against the validity of the Canadian-U.S. extradition treaties.

Brodsky announced on leaving court that he will apply at once for a writ of habeas corpus, which is the next step open to him in fighting extradition.

"This is only the first round," he said in announcing he would apply for a writ in the federal court to prevent extradition.

If extradited, Banks will face trial in Ottawa. The maximum sentence on conviction is 14 years.

Banks was arrested in New York Aug. 29 and has been in custody without bail since then while the Ontario government, represented by New York lawyer Richard Kuh, and Brodsky fought their way through several sessions of the extradition hearing before Abruzzo.

ACCUSED OF PERJURY

Banks is accused by Ontario of perjuring himself Jan. 9, 1963, before the Norris royal commission inquiry into violence on the Great Lakes.

In 1964 Banks jumped $25,000 bail and fled to his native U.S. while his appeal was pending in Montreal against conviction of conspiring to assault a rival union leader.

Banks had been sentenced to five years. His appeal was dismissed after his flight.

North Fire Kills 3

STEWART (CP) — A couple and their four-year-old son died today in a fire at their house near this mining community 100 miles north of Prince Rupert. The mother was 37 and the father 41. A daughter, 17, and a son, 10, were being treated in hospital for shock.

Names were withheld.

Trio Trapped By Flames

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Three children died today when trapped inside a burning house in nearby Surrey.

They were 18 months, four and six. Names were withheld.

BACK UP CHARGE, CBC HEAD DEMANDS

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC president Alphonse Ouimet today demanded that State Secretary LaMarsh substantiate her charges of "rotten management" within the corporation.

He said in a letter to Miss LaMarsh:

"You will understand that the corporation cannot allow your public charges to remain unsubstantiated."

'SOMETHING ROTTEN'

Purge Looms for CBC, LaMarsh Warns Commons

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA— A purge is coming within the senior ranks of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation after the new broadcasting legislation has been passed by Parliament, State Secretary Judy LaMarsh warned in the Commons Thursday.

The blunt warning came when the minister who reports to Parliament for the CBC was confronted with her declaration made Wednesday that "some" segments of CBC management are "rotten."

Opposition members leaped to their feet as soon as the House convened Thursday to demand an explanation from Miss LaMarsh of her public indictment of the CBC management.

Miss LaMarsh came out of her corner fighting.

The term "rotten," she told the Commons, was not too strong or too "colorful" language to use in this case.

She added, "It is really in the past two weeks that some exceptionally knowledgeable people have given me some examples which cause the use of language which might otherwise by considered too "colorful."

Miss LaMarsh continued, "There is a reasonable probability that within the next few weeks or months there will be some changes in personnel and presumably some great changes within the corporation's management."

Later outside the Commons when surrounded by newspapermen she explained her use of the term "rotten." She said that it did not involve anything "crooked," but had undoubtedly resulted in loss of money to the taxpayer "among other things."

In the House Miss LaMarsh had the apparent support of Prime Minister Pearson. The broadcasting critic for the official opposition, Gordon Fairweather (PC—Royal) demanded the reaction of the prime minister to the "sweeping indictment of the CBC management."

Mr. Pearson replied calmly, "I do not think there was anything sweeping about this statement."

RACE OUTBURST

Snipers, Looters Jolt N. Carolina

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Peace returned to downtown Winston-Salem today following a night of racial violence blamed on hoodlums.

During the night, 34 persons, including seven policemen, were injured and 51 were arrested.

Three Negroes were treated for gunshot wounds.

City officials said it might be several days before an accurate estimate could be made of damage caused by looting and fires. Fire Chief C. L. Williams said damage from about 55 fires alone probably would run "into the tens of thousands of dollars."

The violence began late Thursday following the burial of a Negro who died after being struck by a policeman.

Mayor W. C. Benton said the trouble was started by "a bunch of hoodlums who have taken advantage of a situation."

Negro leaders had urged that the rioting stop.

SCREEN VISITORS

About dawn this morning some 400 national guardsmen and police encircled eight blocks in the downtown section of the city, widely known for its major cigarette factories. All persons entering the area were screened before being admitted.

By 8 a.m. the area was open to normal traffic.

Police remained on guard at a few of the overnight trouble spots.

Fire bombings and reports of sniper fire kept police and firemen busy in various sections of the city before daybreak. There was looting downtown and at two shopping centres.

Cong May Join Talks, U.S. Decides

By MURRAY MARDER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON—The United States opened up new possibilities for negotiations on Vietnam Thursday by publicly conceding a voice in peace talks to the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said that if members of the United Nations Security Council believe the NLF "ought to be invited" to UN peace talks which the United States has sought in vain to initiate, "we would join in."

The United States "would not initiate an invitation," Goldberg told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, but "our vote would be available if necessary" to bring the NLF or "any other group" into peace talks at the UN.

Perhaps more significantly, Goldberg said the United States "would recognize the competence" of Britain and the Soviet Union as co-chairmen of the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conferences, "to decide the invitees and the scope" of any conference to seek peace in Southeast Asia.

The NLF is the political arm of the Vietcong guerrillas.

NEW SESSION ON JAN. 25

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett announced today the 29th session of the British Columbia legislature will begin Jan. 25.

The premier did not elaborate on possible Social Credit legislation, but said during his speech that the 1968 provincial budget will in all likelihood be "tens of millions of dollars" ahead of this year's record $739,000,000 budget.

Chinese Stage Walkout

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Two Chinese diplomats today walked out of a Kremlin rally marking the anniversary of the Russian Revolution when Soviet Communist Leader Lenod Brezhnev accused the Chinese leadership of trying to split the world Communist movement.

The Soviet Communist party chief also accused the Chinese of hindering Vietnamese Communists in their struggle against the "criminal aggression" of the United States.

Addressing a jubilee meeting in the Kremlin marking the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution of Nov. 7, 1917, Brezhnev also pledged continued Soviet aid to North Vietnam until U.S. forces get out of Vietnam and assailed Chinese Communists leaders.

He claimed the Soviet Army has the best weaponry in the world, and "in a clash with any aggressor the Soviet Union will win a victory."

He renewed a call for a world Communist conference, a project opposed by several Communist countries, many of those leaders were in the hall to hear Brezhnev's speech.

Bennett Urges Volunteer Action To Avoid Controls

By JOHN MIKA

VANCOUVER—Premier Bennet today warned all British Columbians they are in the front lines of an economic war for survival and broadly hinted he may have to introduce compulsory wage and price controls in the province if the people can't win it through voluntary restraint.

See Stories, Pages 2, 20

Both in a keynote speech at the Social Credit convention here and a subsequent press conference, Mr. Bennett indicated he has given marching orders to all government agencies to slow down borrowing and he appealed to the public to do the same.

Mr. Bennett said if inflation continues British Columbia faces unemployment through loss of export markets or drastic economic controls imposed by the government.

"I ask the people to disicipline themselves because I'm the last one who wants to see compulsory prices and wages and a board like we had in wartime," the premier explained at the press conference.

"But if the people don't show self discipline then we'll force one of two things—either that type of bureaucracy or unemployment."

"Unless people can discipline themselves, the world market will discipline (them). The world market, and I'm talking about forces, not people, is ruthless."

He also hinted that B.C. will bargain hard to improve its relative position among provinces at any constitutional revision conferences.

Mr. Bennett said B.C. Hydro and other crown corporations along with all other government departments have been ordered to "save every nickel" by cutting all projected borrowings to the bone.

He said projects like the Peace River and Columbia River developments cannot be stopped and not all borrowing by the government agencies can be eliminated but everything that can be postponed will be.

'Cut Borrowings to Bone'

His next budget will be a record inevitably because of the expanding population and economy in B.C. but it will not be inflationary, Mr. Bennett said.

He said last year when he appealed for cutbacks in overtime, labor and business responded by reducing it 75 per cent.

This time he is asking everyone to respond again by eliminating borrowing for personal purposes, by restraint in wage negotiations, by restraint in price setting even in such things as home rents.

Asked by reporters if he was threatening a compulsory wage and price clamp-down if his appeal goes unheeded, Mr. Bennett replied:

"I'm not even thinking along those lines."

Asked how such controls could be introduced by unilateral action of the provincial government, he replied:

"I haven't looked into the legal aspect at all."

But he smiled broadly when an interviewer observed everyone knew the provincial government has jurisdictional power already.

And later he said managing an economy is akin to refereeing a hockey game with its blue lines.

"Sometimes you have to blow the whistle and the Premier might have to blow the whistle once or twice this year."

Mr. Bennett said federal monetary and budgetary policies were the sole culprit in the

Viet Cong Herds Civilians As Human Battle-Shields

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP)—Herding civilians in front of them as human shields, Viet Cong forces launched a prolonged attack today on Loc Ninh. The total number of Viet Cong reported killed in six days of fighting for the district headquarters climbed past 850.

Under cover of a mortar barrage, the Viet Cong made a ground assault on newly arrived U.S. infantry reinforcements shortly after midnight, and sporadic action was reported more than 12 hours later.

Reports today said three Americans and 28 Viet Cong were killed and 34 Americans wounded. The defenders of Loc Ninh, grown to about 5,000 with arrival of a battalion from the U.S. 25th Infantry Division, have reported a total of 11 Americans and 23 South Vietnamese killed and 66 Americans and 74 South Vietnamese wounded in the six-day battle.

U.S. officers said the Viet Cong tactic of sending civilians ahead of the attack forces "naturally restricted" the defenders' answering fire in the first stages of fighting today around the town, 72 miles north of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

But the defenders hit the Viet Cong with artillery, air strikes and C-47 planes armed with rapid-fire gatling guns.

VICTORIAN ORDER

18,800 House Calls Keep Nurses Hopping, Helping

By DON VIPOND

If you are old and frail, alone and hurt, chances are nobody need tell you about the Victorian Order of Nurses.

These are the ladies who may be visiting you every day, helping you with chores everyone else does without thinking.

VON nurses frequently give ailing people their needed injections of medicine. That's a must task that few people could handle on their own.

They do much more. But it's hard to tell in cold print what a word of encouragement can mean to a bedridden woman—slowly convalescing from disease or surgery, to an old man left alone, wondering if life is still worth the struggle.

Of the $600,000 urgently needed in the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal, $32,621 is earmarked for the VON. That's about one-third of the agency's budget for this year.

From offices at 1951 Cook Street, 12 nurses have made 18,802 house calls looking after 2,355 people during the first nine months of this year.

"If people are able to pay they do so and rates are adjusted to ability to pay," explains district director Elizabeth Riddell. "But care isn't refused anyone."

The VON is active in Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and View Royal and in some ways its work saves rather than costs money.

Part of the VON's job lies in rehabilitation, working with victims of strokes or fractures to get them back on their feet. In this it has the services part-time of a physiotherapist.

Most of the patients helped by Victorian Order nurses are elderly, about four out of five are over 70. While care initially may mean as many as three visits a day, the majority of patients are visited about three times a week.

Some just need a word of encouragement to help them battle depression. Likely they would tell you that's worth more than money.

United Appeal

Put Him Up On Top

Noon figures for today on United Red Feather-Red Cross appeal collection are $407,567 or 69.7 per cent of the required $600,000.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1967 —PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

For a start today I suggest we drop in at Victor Street School for Retarded Children, where Principal Ed Sullivan, five woman teachers and 60 students aged 6 to 19 are approaching afternoon recess.

The rooms with their learning aids are full of sunshine, and the buzz of work in progress provides a comfortable background for conversation.

Mr. Sullivan, who came from England to take over this unit of the Greater Victoria School Board complex when it was completed two years ago, sits behind a desk at least as cluttered as mine. He offers a menthol cigarette from a neat round tin—one of a batch the students are completing for sale at an upcoming bazaar.

A specialist in his field, he has worked extensively with handicapped children. Their greatest problem, he tells me, is to communicate; and here at Victor Street, training in oral communication occupies much of the school day.

These are children who, relatively few years ago, were condemned to the shadows. Through such schools as this, they are being brought into the sunlight where they belong.

Twice a week, the kids sit down to a hot lunch prepared and cooked by advanced pupils. They are taken on frequent class excursions into the outside world—perhaps to Beacon Hill Park or the docks, or to stores whose proprietors have come to recognize them as a well-behaved bunch. The school has no transport: parents drive students to and from school, and for field trips, teachers use their own cars.

Mr. Sullivan is reluctant to deal in such terms as success or failure. I wish, though, that you could talk, as I did, to a father who is grateful beyond words for what Victor Street School is doing to help his child.

I mentioned a bazaar. This is being readied by the parents' auxiliary, and will be held at the school from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday. On sale will be home baking, sewed and knitted articles, white elephant oddments, student-made items, and afternoon tea. Proceeds go to buy playground equipment—slides, swings and the like—which these boys and girls badly need.

My friend, Alec Merriman, "Mr. Outdoors" to Vancouver Islanders, has written a book that no fisherman should be without.

It is both a how-to and a where-to manual, covering Island waters. The information contained in its 108 well-illustrated, mapped and diagrammed pages has never been compiled before; and Alec imparts it concisely and vividly.

Trout, steelhead, salmon, bass: all are there, along with episodes and anecdotes, rigs, lures and anglers' gimmicks which the author has tested. My own copy goes into my tackle kit, and anyone who tries to snitch it gets the lid slammed on his fingers.

A note to housewives: If your husband has a birthday coming, or if you are lining up Christmas gifts, or if you just entertain a fondness for the guy, get him this book!

★

On Ten Mile Point dwells a householder who likes to have the young ones show up at his door in their quaint Halloween costumes. The goodies he provides are lavish and toothsome, and I understand the trick-or-treaters aren't required to sing for them, either.

Midway through Tuesday evening, he had just closed his door after treating yet another company of spooks when a banging and a clattering assailed his ears.

Flashlight in hand, he stole around back to deal with the ungrateful visitants who were raiding his garbage cans.

Racoons, yet!

LAST OF THE KOOTENAY sternwheelers is recreated in this model of the Moyie going on display at the Maritime Museum in Bastion Square. Museum model maker Andre Christofterson spent seven or eight months "off and on" turning out the replica, said curator Symons. Moyie worked the Kootenay Lakes from 1899 to 1957. Real boat is at Kaslo, run as a museum by the Kaslo Historical Society. She was built in Toronto, originally for the Stikine River, and shipped west in sections, but the gold rush was over by time she arrived so she was assembled at Nelson in 1899.

Permit Values Set New High

Figures released today by city hall show 652 permits issued last month for a total value of $1,497,823 as compared with 491 permits valued at $1,184,942 in October 1966.

The previous October high was set in 1962 when 622 permits generated construction valued at $1,457,447.

The October figures pushed the 10-month total to $19,479,634 —close to $4 million higher than the 12-month total of $15,877,728 recorded in 1965.

New buildings were responsible for the bulk of the increase with $615,600 in new construction under 10 permits.

Ask The Times

Q. In one issue of your paper was an advertisement advising the prohibition of the sale and discharge of firecrackers and another advertising fireworks for sale. Is there a difference between firecrackers and fireworks? M.E.H.

A. Yes. Firecrackers which explode are prohibited. Fireworks which produce colorful displays and do not explode are legal.

'SPOTLESS RECORD' NO HELP

The magistrate said superior courts had made it abundantly clear even if the person involved had an exemplary record that severe punishment is called for because of the effect leniency might have on others.

Police alleged he had in his possession a cigarette which later proved to be marijuana.

"You got this cigarette from a pusher and kept it knowing it was forbidden," said the magistrate.

"I regret having to send you to jail when all my instincts are to a suspended sentence but in view of the Appeal Court rulings, I have no choice."

'Wrong People' Running Universities: CUS Head

By DON VIPOND
Education Reporter

Canadian university education is of poor quality, inaccessible to many and run by the wrong people.

These are the problems being attacked by the Canadian Union of Students, said president Hugh Armstrong, 24, of Ottawa today. A graduate of Carleton University, he is touring western campuses to confer with student leaders here.

"The lecture system was fine before the printed word but it's archaic," he said.

Instead, CUS, which represents about 140,000 university students, would prefer a "system of seminars, tutorials and independent work by the students using the teacher as a resource."

"It's wrong to divide knowledge into narrow unrelated boxes," he said of the system of subject divisions called disciplines.

He noted a UBC experiment has students dealing with subjects like war, the city, education, love and revolution rather than courses like English, sociology or history.

On accessibility he noted 25 per cent of Canadian university students came from the richest six per cent of families. Another 25 per cent comes from the poorest 52 per cent.

CUS sees two barriers—financial and social—to university entrance.

The social barrier refers to the kind of environment a youngster has as he is growing up. Some children suffer a lack of verbal skills and therefore a great disadvantage at school.

'PERPETUATE CLASSES'

"The screening system tends to perpetuate the existing social classes by encouraging kids from working class families, who are said to be 'good with their hands,' to go to vocational school while encouraging middle and upper-class families to get into the academic stream."

Faculties and students must regain control of the universities, said Mr. Armstrong.

"We want elected faculty and students to have the power at the universities and to make policy openly."

'Whizzbangs' Plan Reunion

Veterans of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Mounted Rifles (CEF) will commemorate the 1918 Armistice at a reunion in the Amputees Hall, 1610 Oak Bay Avenue, Thursday at 8 p.m.

In France and Flanders, the 2nd CMR battalions set up an enviable war record and earned the nickname of The Whizzbangs.

Victorians Being 'Fleeced'

Greater Victoria residents are being "fleeced by unethical" contractors, the Victoria branch of the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C. said today.

They are paying "thousands of dollars more than they should be by fly-by-night operators who are grossly incompetent tradesmen but very persuasive glib-tongue salesmen," added branch secretary E. J. Phillips in a prepared statement.

"Usually they damand money before the job has even started and more often than not this is the last you see of the money and the contractor

For others, the job is supposedly completed with second-hand materials at a break-neck pace by casual laborers that know a stud only as something you fasten your collar with.

(Studs are upright supports, usually two-by-fours eight feet long and spaced 16 inches on centre).

"There are dozens of bonafide contractors in Victoria, each performing specifically and ethically within their particular field of endeavor.

"They don't go knocking at your door to solicit business but they are just as eager to satisfy you with a guaranteed job at a competitive price and have built up their business over the years with this basic policy."

At the same time, Jim Moffat, business agent for the Victoria local of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, said he agrees with the comments from the construction association.

He advised those who need construction work done to hire a legitimate contractor using union labor.

Mr. Phillips said if anyone is unsure of a contractor needed for a job, "we will be most pleased to assist you in naming several that you could then choose from."

Mr. Moffat said the carpenters union will be glad to give anyone the names of legitimate contractors "who we can vouch for on their honesty."

Carpenters union vice-president Jim Sawyer said the fleecing extends from home repairs into house building itself.

Since the union announced a free inspection offer on new homes, 12 or 13 cases investigated turned up "some infraction or other."

None of these home builders, he said, was a member of the Amalgamated Construction Association nor had union carpenters been employed.

Free Land Offered

By JIM HUME

Canadian Pacific Railway officials have offered Victoria concessions which amount to free land if the proposed convention centre is built close to the Empress Hotel.

Ald. Percy Frampton, chairman of the special convention centre study committee, said a closed-door session with CPR developers Thursday night brought to light "many good ideas."

"Naturally they were pulling for the convention centre to be located near the Empress," he said. "But it was a good meeting which, while producing nothing concrete, showed us what the CPR will be prepared to do if we decide to locate the convention centre in the Crystal Garden area."

NOT FIRM COMMITMENTS

Ald. Frampton said that while the CPR suggestions were not to be taken as firm commitments it was obvious the officials strongly favored a convention centre located above the existing Empress parking lot and retaining the lot as a parking facility.

"I'm not saying I'm in favor of it, but it is a good idea," the alderman said. "It could tie in with the general development of the area if we decide to tear down the Crystal and sell the land to private developers."

Ald. Frampton said the CPR proposals did not change his thinking on the private capital proposal that a hotel-convention centre complex be built opposite city hall.

LOOK AT ALL SIDES

"But we have to look at all sites closely," he said. "Sometime in the near future we hope to have a similar meeting with the Oxford Leasehold people and get some specific facts and figures from them.

"In fact, we intend to have discussions with all interested parties over the next few months."

HAEGERT TRIES AGAIN FOR SEAT

A retired electronics technician said today he will seek one of the two Victoria seats coming vacant on the Greater Victoria school board.

Joseph Haegert, 65, of 1516 Pembroke, will be making his second bid for a trustee's seat. He was defeated last year.

Teachers are the most important people in the community, he said, but it's time they held the line on wage increases. And education should be made more interesting for the large group of average students.

There are three trustees from Victoria on the nine-man school board and two of them are completing two-year terms. Former chairman John Porteous has said he will seek a fourth term while freshman trustee Dr. Victor Rogers is undecided whether he will run again.

Advance Poll Attracts Six Votes

Residents on the north end of the Saanich Peninsula will vote Saturday on whether they favor amalgamation of Sidney and North Saanich.

There will only be one polling station in each of the two municipal districts. They will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In North Saanich it will be at the municipal hall, 1620 Mills Road. A sign will be erected directing voters to the building as it's situated back from the road.

A total of 2,295 residents are eligible to vote in the municipality.

In Sidney the polling station will be in the town hall. There are 1,600 eligible voters.

Advance polls were held Thursday in both districts but the ballot boxes won't be opened until after the polling stations close.

Contractor Jailed Two Years

A Victoria contractor who began repairing an apartment house without first asking the owner's permission has been sentenced to two years in the British Columbia penitentiary on a charge of fraud.

Richard S. Scott, 233 Stormont, was sentenced in county court by Judge Montague Drake and ordered to make restitution of $900 to the owner.

Miss Emily M. Donleavy, 96, proprietor of an apartment house at 226 Michigan, said one day last March she heard a lot of banging outside the house and, on investigating, discovered some men were working on repairs to the front porch.

One of them told her some tenants in the building had complained the porch was unsafe and persuaded her to allow them to continue with the repairs. Miss Donleavy said the men represented themselves as A and A Contractors, a Victoria firm then operated by the accused.

Between March 11 and April 15, Miss Donleavy said she paid cheques to the firm amounting in all to $1,234 for repairs to the porch.

Crown prosecutor C. O. D. Branson called evidence to show that Scott received "every penny" of this amount. He also called three tenants of the apartment house who said they were quite satisfied with the porch, had never complained of it and had never asked any contractor to repair it.

Passing sentence on Scott, Judge Drake said:

HOVERCRAFT BIDS

Board to Sit Here Nov. 22

The Air Transport Board will consider rival applications to establish the country's first hovercraft service at a meeting in Victoria Nov. 22.

This was disclosed in Edmonton Thursday by C. J. Stringer, an official of Bell Aerosystems of Canada.

The hovercraft service would link Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo and would offer special charters.

Applications have been made by two Vancouver companies, Pacific Hovercraft Limited and Inter-Air Travel Limited. Both companies propose to use the British-built SRN 6 24-passenger hovercraft used for the first time in Canada at Expo 67.

BUYS HOVERCRAFT

Mr. Stringer, in Edmonton to attend the national northern development conference, also said the federal transport department has given approval in principle to purchase of a 38-passenger hovercraft for coast guard service on the west coast.

Larry Slaght, district agent in Victoria for the transport department, said he has heard the hovercraft was being considered but did not know it has been approved.

Two Victorians To Judge Dogs

Two Victoria men will judge a sanction match to be held by the Shoreline Kennel Club at Sansha Hall in Sidney Sunday afternoon.

Club president William Brennan will judge best sporting dog, hound and working dog while Harry Dodds will pick the best from terriers, toys and non-sporting dogs. Mr. Brennan will judge best in show, best puppy and best brace.

This Teacher Has Secret Admirers

Veteran teacher Christine McNab has secret admirers.

A certificate from the office of Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh said the Centennial Medal was being conferred "in recognition of valuable service to the nation."

On one side of the handsome silver medal is the coat of arms of Canada and on the other side a maple leaf and crown. It is about the size of a silver dollar and has a red and white ribbon.

The federal government announced plans last May for the Centennial medals to honor Canadians for outstanding citizenship and invited people to propose recipients.

Miss McNab has no idea who submitted her name.

"I'm just the ordinary garden type and I don't know I've done anything more than anyone," she said.

Principal Horace Dawson disagrees.

"She's really been an outstanding teacher through the years," he says. "She goes way beyond the call of duty."

Each year Miss McNab directs her school's plays in the drama festival. She has been hard at work in that festival since it started 27 years ago.

Another intense interest has been the Junior Red Cross and not so many years ago she played an active part in teachers' federation work.

Currently she is municipal regent of the Victoria Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire where she has concentrated on the chapter's bursaries and scholarships program.
